GRUESOME DISCOVERY

Woman's Body Found in Unclaimed Trunk in New York Express Office

NEW YORK, July 23.—The nude body of a woman jammed in a trunk was found today by employees of the American Railway Express company, among the unclaimed baggage in the company's East 4th street warehouse.
The trunk was received here from Detroit on June 17.

There were no marks of violence on the body, express company employees said. The police immediately took possession of the trunk and its contents.
The trunk was shipped to this city
by a man giving the name of "A. A.
Tietura, of 105 Harper street, Detroit," according to the records accompanying the baggage, the police say. It was addressed to "James Douglass, New York city," they declare.

The body, which had been covered with feminine wearing apparel of good material, had been crammed into the trunk, which is 2½ feet high and three feet long. The trunk, which was so crowded with clothes, was so crowded by its contents that it bulged at the sides.

The woman was apparently 25 to 30 years old, the police say, and weighed about 130 pounds, had blue eyes and had been fairly good looking. Two upper teeth of her left jaw slightly protruded, but this is believed to be a natural deformity.

FOUND OUTLAW WHISKEY IN CARLISLE

As the result of a raid made last night by Supt. Redmond Welch and Sergt. Palmer of the local police force and Frank M. Ford of the federal police, Frank Sousa, a farmer of Carlisle, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes in Boston this morning, charged with violating the Volstead act. Supt. Welch acted as a witness for the government in the case.

The federal officer visited this city late yesterday afternoon to follow up a clue on the Carlisle district and secured the co-operation of the local department. The raid was made about 6 o'clock when they found one still in operation and another dismantled. The two stills, one barrel of molasses, 10 barrels of mash and 15 gallons of moonshine were seized. The defendant runs a large farm in Carlisle and owns considerable stock. He was released on bail immediately after being booked at the station last night.

The French Academy of Science offers a $20,000 prize for "the most authentic means of making a sign to a

The CUP

If there'd been no Lowell and no General Butler living in Lowell, perhaps there'd been no "America," and if so, then no Cup, on this side the Atlantic Ocean. That's how Lowell comes into the game and that's some "How Come" and that's why Lowell is rooting hard this day for a day of "blow ye windows—blow." Our interest in the Race almost made us forget to blow to the winds, the fact that INTEREST BEGIN DAY at this Bank is but one week from NEXT MONDAY.
Eight days only—Then Interest Begins. A Savings Account begun and you have begun to Live. You've

TEN KILLED IN RIOTING

Belfast Streets Bloody Battle Ground as Sinn Feiners and Unionists Clash

Soldiers Compelled to Bring Machine Guns Into Play to Quell Outbreak

BELFAST, July 23.—Shooting was renewed this morning in the Kashmir street area, where bitter fighting occurred last night in clashes between Unionists and Sinn Feiners, with military intervention. Early in the renewal of the hostilities in this district, one man was reported wounded by a shot that passed through the window of his home.

It was definitely stated this morning that 10 persons were killed in last night's hostilities.

BELFAST, July 23.—Firing continued in the early hours of this morning the soldiers being compelled to use machine guns against the rioters.
Three Unionists were shot dead by Sinn Fein snipers and another man's head was blown off. A man helping to carry the body of one of the dead men into a house was shot dead.

The disorders which started Wednes-

NATIONAL REGATTA

Good Weather for Championship Races Today on Lake Quinsigamond Course

LAKE QUINSIGAMOND, Worcester, July 23.—Good boating weather prevailed today for the opening events of the national amateur championship rowing regatta.

The mile and one-quarter course over which eight-oared shells and single sculls, pair oars and quadruples will race for Olympic selection, national titles and, in the case of the naval academy and Syracuse eight, the intercollegiate championship was barely stirred by a southwest breeze. Overhead the sun burned through a slight haze caused by lingering morning mists.

Although the races of today include no Olympic tryouts, all but one were for national championships in the intermediate or senior classes which were to graduate additional contenders for the more important events of tomorrow. With crews from Annapolis, Duluth Boat Club, Century Boat club of St. Louis, and the Pennsylvania Barge club, and individual scullers from many racing waterways entered, today's competition was regarded as a fillip for the final events.

Preparation for the latter continued this morning, Coach Ten Eyck of the Syracuse eight having his men out early to smooth out the stroke after the shift of yesterday, and the Navy eights were but little behind him. Naval officers came here from several ports, some out of retirement, to see their midshipmen representatives in competition.

DUMP BEER IN BROOK

No Truth to Report That Brewery Would "Treat" Hale's Brook

A report gained wide circulation this morning that a large quantity of beer, that has been preserved in the refrigerator rooms of the Harvard Brewing company since the government ban on the manufacture of male liquors went into effect, was to be dumped into Hale's brook this morning. There was a quick rush for information as to the exact time when the obsequies would take place. Telephone calls sent to the brewery brought only non-committal answers. Prospective mourners were anxious to be present at the funeral, but nothing definite could be learned as to when the exercises for the late lamented would take place or whether there would be any exercises.

At the brewery, Secretary-Treasurer
Richard C. Hemman of the Harvard company, told a Sun reporter that the company still has a considerable quantity of beer. He said that the brewing plant is still in operation, and that the quantity of beer is being reduced to state exactly what the quantity might be. He said that the brewery storage rooms were bonded and that the beer was under the control of the United States internal revenue department. Whatever orders the department might give regarding the disposition of the beer, he said, would be carried out. He said that no orders had been received up to the time of speaking. He admitted that, if orders were received to that effect, the beer might go into the brook today.

Life around the brewing plant appeared to be going on today much the same as in ante-Volstead days. A force of clerks was busy in the office, electric trucks were moving about the yard and smoke was pouring from the chimney of the power plant.
Mr. Hemman stated that the company has entirely ceased production.
It is understood, however, that it is necessary to keep the plant in partial operation until the stock of cereal beverage on hand can be disposed of.
Mr. Hemman stated this morning that no orders had been received from prospective purchasers of the plant.
He said that he had no knowledge of a plan to turn the brewery over to the manufacture of malt sugar, for which there is said to be a ready market, and to the production of which other similar plants have been adapted. Mr. Hemman said that the Harvard company is on the lookout for a customer for the plant. "If you know of one send him along; we should like to talk with him," he added.

FOUR DAYS A WEEK

Underwear Departments of Lawrence Mfg. Co. Are on Short Time

Beginning this week the underwear department of the Lawrence Manufacturing company will operate but four days a week. The help in those departments were paid off yesterday and were told not to report for work again until Monday morning. Up to this week the underwear departments of this plant have been operating five days a week. It is not known how long the curtailment will last. The other departments of the mill are being operated five days a week, while a small portion of the hosiery is running full time.

Poland Sends Armistice Proposal Direct to Soviet Government

WARSAW, July 23.—(By Associated Press)—Poland has sent armistice proposals direct to the soviet government at Moscow. After these proposals had been despatched by wireless at 2 o'clock this afternoon by the national council of defense, a new coalition cabinet was formed, under the premiership of M. Witos. The new cabinet has the support of the socialist party. M. Datzenki, the head of the socialists' organization, is the vice premier. Aside from these two changes, the cabinet remains the same.

The baseball team representing the Lowell fire department journeyed to Haverhill this noon for a return game with the fire fighters of that city.
Mayor Perry D. Thompson, Commissioner John F. Salmon, Chief Edward F. Saunders and a number of other rooters accompanied the team. The trip was made by automobile.

NO PROFITEERING INSPECTOR HERE

The state commission on the necessaries of life has not a sufficient appropriation to pay the expenses of a volunteer to investigate alleged cases of profiteering among Lowell retail dealers, according to a letter which Mayor Perry D. Thompson received today from E. P. Scanlon, secretary to John H. Sherburne, chairman of the commission.

It will be remembered that the mayor was requested last week to appoint a local man to do the work specified, but his Honor thought some provision should be made to pay the expenses of the volunteer. Evidently, the state authorities cannot see their way clear to do so and there will be no "profiteering inspector" in Lowell as a result.

Lipton's Friends Feel That

Odds Will Be On Resolute,
However, if Adams Can

SANDY HOOK, N. J., July 23.—A tally of 2 to 1 in favor of Shamrock IV which needs but one more victory to lift the America's cup, faced the crew of the American defender Resolute when they prepared early today for the fourth race of the 1920 resatta. White and green hulled sloops rose again side by side in the shelter of the horseshoe after a day of rest spent by the challenger in a Staten Island dyck, where her black knees underwent another burnishing. While being groomed for what may prove the last race of the series, Shamrock IV was also equipped with a new topmast and a new topsail. Following these alterations, the New York Yacht club announced that, pending a remeas-urement of the green slope, the race would be run today with a handicap of six minutes and 40 seconds in favor of Resolute, unless the remeasurement probably after the race, should alter these figures.

Resolute although not hauled out of the water, was not neglected by her crew, who spent the day testing stays, inspecting sails and making everything ready for a contest in which

With the starting signal sounded at 1 o'clock, Resolute crossed at 1:01:33 official time, and Shamrock at 1:01:56. Then both plunged forward on the first 10-mile leg of their 30-mile triangular course—a beat to windward down the Jersey shore.

As Shamrock was 23 seconds later than Resolute in crossing the line, but must give her today a time handicap of 6 minutes and 40 seconds, she must finish 6 minutes and 18 seconds ahead of the defender to win and 6 minutes and 17 seconds ahead to tie.

LOWELL GIRL WINS SCHOLARSHIP PRIZE

Miss Lillian S. Cutler of the secretarial staff of the local police department, was informed today that upon her had been bestowed an exceptionally high honor by the Portia Law school of Boston of which she has been a student for the past two years.
During her second year, which came to a close last June, Miss Cutler led the entire second year class in scholarship, having an average rank in all courses of 37 per cent.

Her record entitles her to a prize offered each year to the second-year student attaining the highest general scholarship average. It is a Cyclopedic Law dictionary given by a publishing firm and known as the Callaghan prize.

Miss Cutler has received the personal congratulations of Arthur W.
MacLean, dean of the school. With the exception of 1916 Miss Cutler's rank is the highest attained since the prize was first offered six years ago.

Revolutionizing of Country's Military Establishment no Easy Task

WASHINGTON, July 23.—America's military establishment is being practically revolutionized under the terms of the new army reorganization bill which became effective July 1. Army officers say the work will not be completed for some months because of the broad scope of the measure passed at the last session of congress to place the land forces on a permanent peace basis.

While the regular army will contain only 235,000 officers and men scattered over the country and the insular possessions, it will be so arranged in conjunction with the national guard and the reserve that rapid expansion of the nation's fighting forces in time of emergency will be possible.

The national guard will have about 440,000 officers and men, but the strength of the reserve has not yet been worked out and will depend largely on the enlistment of eligibles. The regular army reserve as it formerly existed, composed of former enlisted men furloughed to the reserve to complete their enlistment period ceased to exist as such on July 1. In its place there is established the enlisted reserve corps and officers' reserve corps. The members of the former, except veterans of the world war, are required to enlist for three years. Veterans of the world war may call for only one year.

To accomplish the reorganization of the national guard and the initial organization of the reserve, the army bill provides for a general committee to be composed of regular army general staff officers and an equal number of reserve or national guard officers. In addition, 52 other committees, representing each state and territory, will arrange the national guard organization in each state and territory. Some of these committees have not been appointed by the governors and consequently this work has not yet been put under way.

While no full plan of organization has been made public, a tentative plan to be placed before the committees would divide the country into nine districts with an army corps in each. This corps would consist of one regular, one guard and two reserve divisions, so organized that in an emergency the two reserve divisions, which theoretically would be the only ones much below war strength, could be filled up with selective service men. A full quota of officers drawn from the officers' reserve corps would be available for these divisions at all times.

The new regular army strength provides for approximately 17,000 commissioned officers. To provide this number about 7000 reserve and temporary officers have been kept on duty and it is the plan to reach the full officer strength by commissioning about 7000 such officers and enlisted men in the permanent army. Officers and men to be so commissioned will be selected by a board, known as the Pershing board, headed by Gen. Pershing and including six other officers.

The bill broadens the scope of the reserve officers' training corps at the various educational institutions over the country, provides instructors and material for the schools and also authorizes summer camps to last six weeks for advanced training of the student officers. Graduates of the training corps may be commissioned in the organized reserve.

There organization measure further provides that the head of the militia bureau of the war department, which under the reorganization has jurisdiction over national guard and reserve affairs, shall be a national guard officer not below the rank of major who will receive the pay and allowances and have the rank while on duty of a major general in the army.

The offices of the second and third assistant secretaries of war are abolished by the measure and their duties absorbed by the assistant secretary of war, who will be charged with the procurement of all military supplies and plans for the mobilization of material and industrial establishments needed in time of war.

AWARDED SOCIETY OF ARTS MEDAL

LONDON, July 23.—Albert Abraham Michelson, professor of physics in the University of Chicago, has been awarded the Albert medal of the Royal Society of Arts for 1920, with the approval of the Duke of Connaught, the president, for optical inventions which have rendered possible the reproduction of accurate metric standards and provided the means of carrying out measurements with a minute precision hitherto unobtainable.

Prof. Michelson's contributions to scientific research already have been recognized by the award of the Copley medal of the Royal society and of the Nobel prize for physics both in 1907.

STUDYING HOW TO SOCIALIZE INDUSTRY

STOCKHOLM, July 23.—The new socialist government has appointed a committee to investigate the possibilities of socializing certain lines of industry and weather, if possible, such a step would prove advantageous for consumers and society generally. Premier Branting, Sweden's first socialist premier, emphasized "the necessity that socializing in no manner must result in decreased production."

Premier Branting pointed out that the committee will not deal with the question of systematic socialization of production, this being far from the aim of the present cabinet.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"THE LIRA-LOO BIRD"

This was Oliver Oriole's poem:
The lira-loo bird on a wall-paper tree,
Overhanging a billowy pink and green sea.
Fell in love with a cuckoo as white as
new milk
Embrodered on top of a cushion of silk.
And he twitted a roundelay, Birdie be mine.
Come and live in my nest in my paper-tree time
And I'll dine you on flies that may come near my wall
And your duties—why, they shall be nothing at all!

On a mere paper tree that is glued to a wall.
The lira-loo bird gave a heart-broken wail
And he fluttered his wings and he jerked his gay tail.
But merrily rolled the blue China bird.
Which the milky white cuckoo had said she preferred.
When sud-denly there was a crash and a bang!
Oh, where was the songster who foolishly sang?
In bits on the floor! Oh, I'm sad to relate

LIKED THE CHINKY-CHINK BIRD ON A PLATE OF BLUE WILLOW

But the cuckoo on top of her silky-
soft pillow
Liked the Chinky-Chink bird on a plate of blue willow
That leaned against the wall on a smooth varnished rail
Near the feathers of lira-loo's handsome long tail.
She she flapped her smooth wings and she cooed back her answer
I think I prefer Chinkland or Japan, sir,
In an indigo tree near a Chinese pa-
go-da
Where people have tea, or some coffee,
or soda
And I'm sure that I shouldn't like living at all

That that was the end of the blue china plate,
With its lovely pagoda where people had tea
And the Chinky-Chink bird in his blue willow tree!
Cuckoo Bird thought it safest to live after all In a home made of paper that's stuck to a wall.
So she willingly said she'd be lira-loo's bride
And she spread her white wings and flew up by his side,
Not an instant suspecting that lira-loo's tail Had pushed Chinky-Chink from his home on the rail!

RECENT DEATH OF "THE RED PRINCE"

BERLIN, July 23.—The death of Prince Heinrich zu Schoenrich-Carlath, known in former court circles as
"the red prince" because of his democratic proclivities, has just occurred.
Deceased earned his appellation by the determined stand he made against all reactionary legislation, especially the anti-socialist law of the '50's, for which he was threatened with disciplinary military punishment. First a member of the conservative party, the prince, nevertheless, often gave his vote to progressive and socialist measures and he joined the newly formed democratic league soon after the revolution of 1918. The prince was also well known for his philanthropic and charitable works.

Teamster's Life Saved

Writes Letter That is Worth Reading
Very Carefully

Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo,
N. Y.: I was afflicted with a very severe sore on my leg for years. I am a teamster. I tried all medicines and salves, but without success. I tried doctors, but they failed to cure me.
I couldn't sleep for many nights from pain. Doctors said I could not live for more than two years. Finally Peterson Ointment was recommended to me and by its use the sore was entirely healed. Thankful you, William Hase, West Park, Ohio, March 22, 1919, care P. G. Reitz, Box 199.
"Peterson says: 'I am proud of the above letter and have hundreds of others that tell of wonderful cures of Eczema, Piles and Skin Diseases.'
Peterson's Ointment is 35 cents a large box at all druggists, and there isn't a broad-minded druggist in Amer-

DARE DEATH IN BIG DREDGING PROJECT

NEW YORK, July 23.—Death by drowning or dynamite—these are chief among the dangers facing the men who are dredging the East river to Long Island sound that New York may have another deep-sea passage to the Atlantic.

How this undertaking, which will require 15 to 20 years and an expenditure of $55,000,000 to $75,000,000 is being carried on was told here today by officials of the dredging company, which is doing the work.

"Most of the work must be done during the slack water period at the change of tides and, as there is generally about 500 to 1000 pounds of dynamite aboard each drill boat, the danger of being rammed by passing craft and sent to the bottom is complicated with the possibility of being blown into the air," one official said.

"In Hell Gate we are demolishing
Frying Pan reef, which is 450 feet by 350 feet. From eight to ten minutes will be required to complete this task.
A drill boat is being warped across it
in parallel paths 30 feet apart, drilling holes into which from 100 to 150 pounds of dynamite is packed and exploded. A dipper dredge, following the drill boat, loads the blasted rock into scows for dumping into holes 75 feet deep or more in the river. This leveling of the river bottom removes the source of eddies, smoothing the current.

"Pot Rock, another reef in Hell Gate, will be destroyed next. Because of treacherous currents for which it is responsible, Pot Rock is known as the wickiested spot in American waters.

"The longest slack water period
registered in Hell Gate during the last 40 years was 23 minutes. It is within that slack period that drilling points must be located, charges planted and fired and the position of the plant changed. Divers on this work are generally unable to spend more than 15 minutes under water at a time, so that they work but half an hour in a 24-hour day.

"As a precaution against being rammed by passing craft, the navy department and customs house officials have warned operators and owners of vessels to keep a safe distance from dredging plants. For non-compliance with this warning 35 captains were arrested recently within a period of 10 days. Many were suspended for from 10 days to six months.

"When the collision signal is sounded on one of the dredging vessels, each of the dynamite crew, wearing life belts, grabs a box of the explosive and stands by to jump overboard.

"The project of dredging the East river to the sound was first undertaken 10 years ago to provide New York harbor with an entrance which would not require continuous dredging
like Ambrose channel, where five government dredges are constantly removing the infiltrating sands. Flood Rock, in Hell Gate, was then removed and some lesser work accomplished before the appropriation was exhausted."

When Flood Rock was blasted a charge of 100,000 pounds of dynamite was fired, the official said. Launches on the river a mile away were lifted three feet out of the water, but no damage resulted.

PLAN NEW CHAPEL FOR LAKEVIEW

There is no dearth of enthusiasm
among summer campers and cottagers over the prospect of the building of the Catholic chapel at Lakeview and there is a strong feeling that before another June comes around the new building will be in place. One of the prominent workers for the chapel said
today that the support that was coming from all sides was quite encouraging. Rev. Fr. Gilbride is, of course, vitaly interested in the chapel idea
and has been from the start. He inaugurated the idea of the chapel at Lakeview and his interest is keen to see the plans for the new building carried through to fruition. Many citizens of the city have voiced their support of the project and one of the organizations of the city has voted to back it up. The musical program at the 10 o'clock mass at the chapel on Sunday will be as usual of a high order of excellence. Singers from all the Catholic churches in the city contribute their time and their talent
each Sunday and Rev. Fr. Gilbride feels grateful at the encouragement
which has come from the singers.

The program on Sunday will be as follows:
"Ave Maria," Quartet
Hymn to the Sacred Heart,
"O Salutaris," Miss Sadie Sheehan
"O Salutaris," Miss Sheehan and Miss Hague
"Veni Jesu," Quartet
"Hymn of Praise," Choir and Congregation
Those comprising the quartet are Miss Florence Hague, soprano; Miss
Sadie Sheehan, contralto; Mr. John Joyce, tenor; Mr. Timothy Finnegan, bass. Miss Leona Spellman will preside at the organ.

POWER FROM THE TIDES

Knowlton's Invention Has Unlimited Possibilities—
The Purpose and the Plan

Treasurer John A. Knowlton of the Universal Tide Power company, thinks that an allusion to a power producing company in an article published in this paper, July 15, under the heading "Wild-Cat Investments," might be understood as referring to his company. If any such impression was conveyed by the article in question it was certainly not intended; and we wish now to correct it and to say that eminent engineers have pronounced Mr. Knowlton's scheme for harnessing the tides to produce power, light and heat, as entirely feasible.

The invention provides for the filling of a reservoir at high tide, and the use of the water so collected by an ingenious device in producing electricity until the reservoir is refilled by the next tide. By the operation of the Knowlton-Hydraulic Air Motor, the operation of the plant is to be absolutely automatic.

Mr. Knowlton some time ago addressed the Lyman chamber of commerce explaining his invention and what he is very confident it will accomplish. At the close of his address, President Dorier of the chamber, said: "I believe, gentlemen, without any question whatever, that we will not only be able to harness up the Bay of Fundy, but the tides right here in Lynn. I make the prophecy that within the next five years this process, if not in Lynn harbor, will be in successful operation in some other harbor."

The company is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts and is at present engaged in the preliminary work of establishing a plant near the mouth of the Saugus river.

ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE
ALUMNI OUTING

Plans for the annual outing of St. Joseph's college alumni are progressing and it is expected that this year's event will surpass any other outing ever conducted by the alumni. It is figured and hoped that the affair this year will be attended by at least four hundred former pupils of the college and an exceptionally good program of sports is being prepared for the occasion.

The outing will be held Thursday afternoon, Aug. 12, on the grounds of the Genoa club in Tyngsboro, the excursionists to leave the school in Merrimack street in automobiles trucks at 1 o'clock. Upon reaching the grounds a baseball game will be played between the benedictines and the unmarried men, while other games between the younger element of the alumni will also be staged. Races and other sporting events will be carried out and suitable prizes will be awarded the winners. A feature of the outing will be the annual election of officers, which will be held on the grounds. The arrangements for the event are in charge of the board of directors headed by President Tancredi L. Bianchetti.

WANT RETURN GAME

The Saunders Market company baseball team wishes to play a return game with the Lowell Firemen's first team. Members of the team are confident that if a game is arranged that it will prove an interesting contest.

SEVEN WOMEN HURRY TO FILE DELEGATES' PAPERS

BOSTON, July 23.—Close on the heels of Attorney-General Allen's ruling that women might lawfully be elected delegates to the state conventions of the political parties, seven prominent Black-Bay women, two of them physicians, yesterday filed papers with the election commissioners as a part of the republican state delegates from Ward 7.

The ward is allowed 15 delegates this year, the number based upon the number of votes cast for the republican candidate for governor at last year's primary, and with the seven women yesterday 12 men filed, thus making the Ward 7 republican slate complete.

The filing of the women is without precedent in the political history of Massachusetts. Both parties in Massachusetts have urged their local chairmen throughout the state to have women delegates elected to the conventions and, shortly after, chairmen of both state committees issued statements to this effect the attorney-general made his ruling. As delegates to a convention the women, under Attorney-General Allen's ruling may nominate presidential electors.

The 12 men comprising the remainder of the slate are: Guy W. Cox, Charles H. Innes, Alfred P. Lee, Chas. M. W. Williams, Charles P. Bean, Morton J. Dodge, Harry C. Demeter, Robert T. Murray, Charles S. Baxter, Seth F. Arnold, Melvin S. Westover and Charles S. Clarke.

Mrs. Cox is the wife of Lieutenant Governor Channing H. Cox, the republican candidate for governor. Mrs. Mansfield is the wife of Dr. Walter H. Mansfield, who was the chairman of the ward 7 exemption boards during the war. Mrs. Slack is the wife of Henry Slack, the man who carried Massachusetts' vote to President Abraham Lincoln in 1865. Mrs. Slack is 70 years of age but is remarkably vigorous and a suffrage leader of her district. Dr. Felch is the wife of Dr. Louis Felch and is a sister of Charles H. Innes, the acknowledged political leader of Ward 1. Mrs. Faellon is the president of the Professional Women's club of Boston and a member of the D.A.R. Mrs. Anderson is the wife of George Anderson, a member of the old board of aldermen of Boston. Dr. Burbank makes up the second physician on the women's slate.

The women did not occupy the entire attention of the election commissioners yesterday. Two nomination papers for Richard H. Long, democratic candidate for governor, were filed at city hall yesterday by Benjamin Feldman. The filing of these papers came a scant 24 hours after Mr. Long had stated that he would again seek the democratic nomination this year.

John F. Slayton also filed yesterday, an opponent of President John J. Martin of the Exchange Trust company, for the republican nomination to the governor's council from the fourth district. Other candidates to file yesterday were:

David W. Murray, democratic, senate, 9th district and state committee; Osgood E. Blaney, republican, house,

ANNUAL JULY SALE

MEN OF LOWELL—Give ear to this unusual event, with high prices surging over the land, and invading every avenue of trade, I am forced to take heroic action to make this sale the bargain event it has always been in the past nine years.

With the approach of the tailor's dull month of August my problem is to keep my force as busy as possible. With that end in view, I figure to give more for the money than any man can reasonably expect any place in this city.

Wholeheartedly and with firm resolve, I sacrifice profits for this annual event, regardless of Advancing Prices, irrespective of market conditions. This July sale must maintain its past reputation at all costs.

$30 and $35 Suits
Made to Your Measure
$22.50

Here is the largest, newest, highest grade stock in men's fabrics in the city. Thousands of yards, hundreds of styles, new and fresh this season. Thirty Full Pieces of Wanskuk Serges ordered months ago and just received from the commission house, on my tables.

A WARNING—Look out for cotton mixtures next fall. This fabric will sell around thirty-five dollars a suit. It looks good—handles well and contains about 30 per cent. cotton. I am not buying this class of merchandise, not while my present stock lasts.

I ask you to look me over at your earliest convenience and pick out what you want for the balance of this season, also your fall suit and overcoat. This sale is rich in the things you want. Blue Serges, Gray Worsteds, Green Homespuns, Silk Mixtures, Black Worsteds, Pencil Stripes and Novellies. Even the Blacks, Blues and Dark Staples are included in this sale.

HOSPITAL BILL REDUCED
BY ACCIDENT BOARD

(Special to The Sun)
STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 23.—The Industrial accident board this morning refused to approve a bill presented by a Lowell hospital for the care of an injured man, amounting to $156 and reduced it to $144. This bill was for treatment given William Eagan, who was injured while in the employ of the Walter L. Parker Co. some two months ago. The bill sent to the Travelers' Insurance Co., which company carried insurance on the employees of the plant, specified that the man was confined to the hospital six weeks, during which time he occupied a private room. The board in reducing the bill stated that hospitals throughout the state are making a practice of placing patients, who are protected by insurance companies, in private rooms, where in many instances such cases could be attended to in wards.

day after some Sinn Fein workers in a shipyard were attacked, were renewed at frequent intervals yesterday. Throughout the afternoon the military was engaged on Falls roads in erecting barbed wire entanglements across the fronts of shops wrecked in Wednesday night's disturbances and posting large detachments of troops at certain of the danger spots.

Soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled the disturbed streets and many demonstrations which might have led to serious results, were thus interrupted. Looting and smashing of windows prevailed throughout the trouble, spirit, groceries and licensed premises being especially singled out.

Disorder broke out at 8.30 last night on one of the roads leading into the city. Troops were hurried to the scene and fired on the mob, wounding many, who were removed to hospitals or their homes. The crowds reformed quickly, but were charged by the troops and dispersed at 9.30. Reinforcements arrived on the scene and there was a final burst of firing. Ambulances hurried to the spot from every quarter of the city followed by fire brigades in the belief that the casualty list would be heavy. The soldiers complain that they were fired on from a monastery and allege that Sinn Fein scouts on bicycles engaged in bringing up reinforcements to the monastery.

14,000 ATTEND
SHOE STYLE SHOW

BOSTON, July 23.—More than 14,000 people were attracted last night to Mechanics building, where the annual National Shoe and Leather Exposition and Style Show is being held. Hour after hour beautiful models appeared wearing gowns, hats and shoes which seem certain to make the next season one of the most wonderful in fashion's history.

Satin leads as a fabric for evening slippers, and following in popularity come bronze, suede, metal cloth, soft kid and brocades. The predominant feature this season is the beaded work, which makes the slippers both more beautiful and more costly. Most of it is hand work done in odd designs. Some of the slippers have ribbon ties, some tiny buttons and others just a long plain vamp style. Buckles, too, will be worn a great deal on these gay affairs. Midnight blue, soft grays, rich browns, black and white are the colors one has to select from. They have gay names, too, such as "masda," "coronation" and "gavotte." Each represents a style all its own.

DUCKWORTH IS JAILED

Staff Writer Describes His Experiences in Clutches of "Vetchaika"

No Wonder, He Says, People Shudder When They Pass the Vetchaika

Correspondent J. Herbert Duckworth entered Soviet Russia without a permit and travelled independently all over the land of the Bolsheviks—not on a Lenin tour. Lenin finally jailed him and deported him to Estonia—but he had his facts and he is now writing the truth about Russia today for readers of The Sun. Watch for more of Duckworth's articles.

BY J. HERBERT DUCKWORTH, N.E.A. Staff Correspondent. (Copyright, 1920, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

REVAL, Estonia, July 23.—I had not been long in Moscow when I fell into the clutches of the Vetchaika. Rather than be picked up on the streets by an ignorant Red Guard and run the risk of being cast into an obscure and verminous lockup, I decided to report to the extraordinary commission—fondly believing that I should obtain the same fair treatment I did in Pskov.

The word "Vetchaika" has been coined from the initial letters of the Russian for All Russia extraordinary commission.

The Vetchaika is the most dreaded and feared institution in Russia. It directs the terror.

It is the government.

But for its activities, both sides agree the revolution would have collapsed long ago.

The Vetchaika is at No. 2 Lubianka, a stone's throw from the outer walls of the Kremlin. The headquarters and the temporary prison occupy two large buildings, one formerly the Hotel Billo and the other the main office of the Anchor Insurance company. The two buildings have been knocked into one.

People Terrified

The main floor of the hotel has been divided into half a dozen small rooms by high board partitions.

The place when I entered was full of soldiers guarding the locked doors of the different chambers. A balcony near the ceiling, where the orchestra once played, was jammed with terrified men and crying women, the day's haul of "counter-revolutionists."

When I was in Moscow 60,000 "counter-revolutionists"—mostly working men and women—were in jail. Up till March last at least 60 per cent. of the whole population of Moscow had passed through the hands of the extraordinary commission.

I was taken through a labyrinth of dark passages, up and down a number of stone stairs, along narrow corridors lined with cells and heavily guarded, to the main office.

The Vetchaika runs day and night, but being Sunday few officials were on duty.

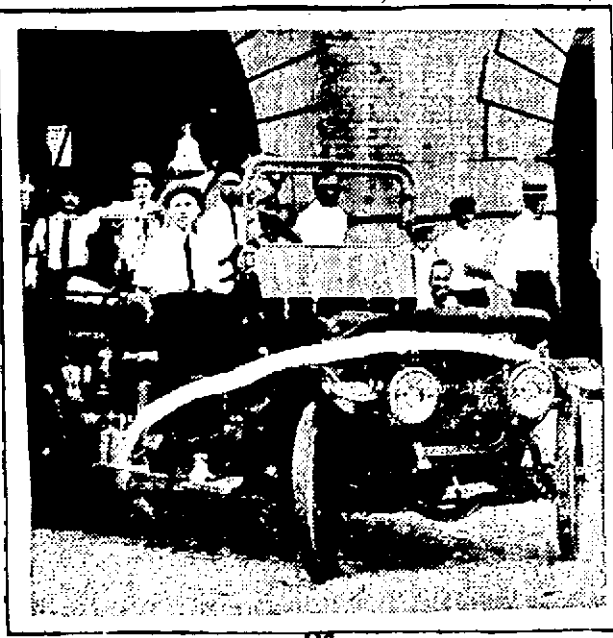

Met White Waiting

The man before whom I was taken didn't know quite what to do with me. So while an interpreter was being found I was led down to a large room on the first floor—a Soviet restaurant for Vetchaika employees. The wall decorations were the now familiar revolutionary posters and pictures of Lenin and Trotsky.

We grabbed a wooden bowl and wooden spoon apiece and lined up at a counter for lentil soup and a chunk of black bread.

This we ate sitting on forms before a long wooden bench. As dessert we got kasha (porridge) and a mug of sugary Soviet-style tea (a near-thing).

The restaurant was full, and rather to my astonishment there were

BUSINESS MEN TURN FIREMEN

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—When Bremen walked out here, volunteers walked in. Bankers, cotton men, organization presidents, took up the job of protecting Memphis from fire, when, after a long period of agitation, the city's fire fighters offered a blanket resignation. The salaries paid the volunteers are being given to charity. The picture shows the day shift at one station, in command of Ewing Caruthers, director of the Chamber of Commerce, and one of the wealthiest citizens. He was a colonel in the Fourth Tennessee Infantry and in command during the race riots at Knoxville last year. State troops have been called to guard against rioting. Organized labor is in sympathy with the underpaid strikers and there has been some talk of a general strike.

The Chief Griller

At last I was taken before the infamous Mogilefsky, the chief inquisitor.

At one side of the Mogilefsky sat one of the long-haired communists I had seen in the restaurant. At the other side was a hired man, with a short curly red beard and a cruel smile—a grin that displayed teeth and gums like a horse.

I afterwards learned that he was Jacobson, formerly of the czar's secret police, a man with a long and sinister experience on the Russian-Indian frontier.

Jacobson spends most of his time hanging around the foreign office. Everybody knows him. A Russian can't disguise himself. A Russian spy, dodging behind pillars and posts with his theatrical side glances, always looks as though he had just jumped out of the movies.

During 1917 thousands of the czar's spies were put to death; those who escaped new work for the Vetchaika. They are trusted; at one breath of suspicion of their loyalty they "disappear."

Mogilefsky himself is not a very nice person. Tall and slim, with black curly hair, he is absolutely merciless. He makes rapid decisions.

He "Plays Safe"

A prisoner "might" be dangerous—then shoot him, that is the safest thing.

Dr. Stella, a bearded old gentleman, who might have been a professor of languages in former days, was the interpreter.

Much the same questions were put to me as in Pskov. Mogilefsky wanted to know how I had got over the frontier without being detected, and whether I had had any confederates in Russia.

There is some advantage in using an interpreter. When your answer doesn't seem to please your inquisitor then politely suggest that perhaps the interpreter misunderstood you and put the reply a different way.

"Friend" Stella

I rather felt I had a friend in Dr.

who thus remain in constant terror of the Red Terror. No wonder the Russian people shudder as they pass the Vetchaika.

POLAND'S SITUATION APPEARS MENACING

LONDON, July 23.—The Polish outlook appears increasingly menacing to commentators in this morning's newspapers. Poland not only is extremely hard pressed by the Bolshevik armies, they say, but her territory is already invaded.

The ministry of Premier Grabowski is reported to have resigned and the administration has been entrusted to extreme radicals with the idea, it is said, that such a government would be better able to make terms with the invaders. It is stated that preparations are being made for the evacuation of Warsaw.

Emphasis is laid on the danger to the peace of all Europe by most of the newspapers and the anti-Bolshevik papers see in the Soviet army's advance a determination to destroy Poland. Another fear expressed is that if the Bolsheviks victoriously reach the eastern frontier of Germany, a Spartacist or communist rising there would be inevitable, either of which, they say, would be equally fatal to the reconstruction of Europe.

The Daily Mail foresees the possibility of Russia becoming a colony of Germany.

The Daily News, which is not unfriendly to the Bolsheviks, says the reason for this is not because of the fact that eastern Germany is full of arms and ammunition dumps to be surrendered to the allies. "These finally will be available for Poland, if she is invaded; but, supposing East Prussia is invaded," asks the newspaper, "is it so certain the Bolsheviks won't get them?"

CHELMFORD SCHOOL BOARD WANTS TO USE TOWN HALL FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES

A hearing on the petition of the school board of Chelmsford for permission to use the lower town hall in No. 4 Chelmsford for school purposes was held last evening in the Centre town hall with Selectman William E. Belleville acting as presiding officer. U. J. Lapien, of the school board informed those present that the state police would not allow the use of the basement of the high school for classrooms and said if the lower town hall of the north is used for classrooms the seats and desks will be on skids so that they can be easily removed when there is a demand for the room for other purposes. Several others spoke in favor of the petition and at the close of the hearing the sentiment of those present seemed to be in favor of the petition.

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE OUTING

Plans for the Republican league outing, which will be held at Westford July 31 at 1 p. m., were perfected at a recent meeting of the league committee of the town. It is expected that at least 14 towns will be represented at the outing, which will be held on the Whitney playground and no less than 2500 people will be in attendance. Music will be furnished by the Albot Worsted company brass band and the speakers will include Congressman Rogers of this city, Editor Joe Mitchell Chappell of national headquarters and Capt. David A. McKay. Luncheon will be served by the league's commissary department.

The man who felt worst when a three-inch streak of white paint was found one morning in the middle of the sidewalk at Port Chester, N. Y., flunked at intervals with arrows and the admonition, "Follow the White Line to the Palace theatre," was the manager of the Strand theatre, in front of which the line started. The Palace theatre man, who had the line painted, cheerfully paid a $50 fine.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This dissolves it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Adv.

WOMAN'S BEAUTY NO SECRET

It all lies in the care she bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread ill peculiar to her sex. The flashing eye, the elastic step and the clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. The distressed expression, lassitude, headaches and mental depression are only the tell-tale symptoms. Women so troubled should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that simple remedy made from roots and herbs, and restore their health to a normal condition.—Adv.

U.S.S. North Dakota, has returned to his ship. Before he left home the young man was tendered a farewell party and was presented a handsome gold signet ring, the gift of his parents. Musical numbers were given and luncheon was served. The festivities were attended by numerous guests from Chelmsford, Lowell, Tyngsboro, Forge Village and Westford.

WILL LAUNCH DRIVE TO RAISE $100,000

The Irish societies of Lowell will launch a drive Aug. 1 to raise $100,000 for the acquisition of a building in centrally located quarters where all the Irish societies of the city may conduct their business.

At a meeting of the Hibernian building fund, Inc., held last evening at the Hibernians' temporary quarters in Urban hall, Middle street, final plans were discussed and an advisory committee representative of various Irish societies was appointed to bring the matter before their organizations. This committee consists of James O'Sullivan, Michael J. Monahan, P. J. Mahoney, John Barrett, Daniel Cosgrove, Joseph Garrihy, Catherine McKenney and Catherine Gaffney.

Chairman Daniel Cosgrove, presided at the meeting and urged the necessity of every Hibernian in Lowell purchasing at least one $10 share of the building stock to be sold in the coming campaign if the drive is to be a success. It is planned to sell the stock on an installment-payment plan, calling for the payment of $1 per week on each share bought.

To Women of all Ages

I had always been delicate and weak. After my marriage, I became weaker, and I soon was unable to look after my household duties properly, being so weak that I had to rest several times throughout the day. One of my relatives who had used RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women with very satisfactory results, urged me to try them, and to-day I owe my good health and happiness to their beneficial qualities.—Mrs. William Boucher, 110 Clinton St., Woonsocket, R.I.

RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women are a boon to all women, but are more particularly adapted to women who have to work hard, to housekeepers, and to women who are run-down through overwork. They are very helpful to young girls when they suffer from acute pains in the back, neuralgia, gastralgia, etc. To mothers of families especially at the time when they need all their strength. To middle-aged women who suffer from indigestion, head aches, flashes, and in fact to all women who do not enjoy perfect health, and who need something to purify their blood.

RED PILLS are sold in boxes of 50 pills, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes, $2.50. If they are not at your merchant's they will be sent to you by mail on receipt of price.—Franco American Chemical Company Limited, 212 Milk Street, Boston.

After three long months spent in bed, I had to undergo an operation, after which I had to again remain in bed for a very long time, and when I did get up again, I was so weak that I could hardly drag myself along. I tried several tonics without result, and as I was getting rather discouraged at my state of health, I decided to give RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women a trial. I took them regularly and was delighted with the results obtained.—Mrs. H. Giroux, 12 Decatur, Lowell, Mass.

GET FISH DRUNK TO CATCH THEM

Guam Natives Sink Bags of
"Dopey Paste" in Deepest Holes

Catch Then Landed With Their Hands—Natives All
Expert Swimmers

The increasing commercial importance of Guam is illustrated in a recent visit of the postmaster of Guam, principal city of our smallest possession, to the United States in behalf of better postal service for the island.

Curious customs and natural resources of Guam are described in a National society bulletin as follows:

"The fruit of a common tree (Barringtonia speciosa), the natives use to stupefy fish.

"The fruit is pounded into a paste, enclosed in a bag, and kept over night. The time of an especially low tide is selected, and bags of the pounded fruit are taken out on the reef next morning and sunk in certain deep holes in the reef. The fish soon appear on the surface, some of them lifeless, others attempting to swim or faintly struggling with their ventral side upmost. The natives scoop them in their hands, sometimes even diving for them.

"In the mangrove swamps when the tide is low hundreds of little fishes with protruding eyes may be seen hopping about in the mud and climbing among the roots of the Rhizophora and Bruguiera. These belong to a group of fishes interesting from the fact that their air bladder has assumed in a measure the function of lungs, enabling the animal to breathe atmospheric air.

"Men, women and children of Guam are expert swimmers, and are as much at ease in the water as on land. As they throw themselves into the sea and come bounding from wave to wave they remind one of dolphins.

"According to the testimony of early writers, their houses were high and neatly made and better constructed than those of any aboriginal race hitherto discovered in the Indies.

"They were a happy, careless people, fond of festivities, dancing, singing, story telling and contests of strength and skill, yet sufficiently industrious to cultivate their fields and garden patches, build excellent houses for their families, braid mats of fine texture and construct canoes which were the admiration of all the early navigators. They were much given to buffoonery, mockery, playing tricks, jesting, mimicry and ridicule, offering in this respect a striking contrast to the undemonstrative Malaysians.

"The natives of Guam are, as a rule,

of good physique and pleasing appearance. Owing to their mixed blood, their complexion varies from the white of a Caucasian to the brown of a Malay. Most of them have glossy black hair, which is either straight or slightly curly. It is worn short by the men and long by the women, either braided, coiled or dressed after the styles prevailing in Manila.

ANGEL KISSED THE PANSY BLOSSOM

For heartiness and thoughts stands the dainty little pansy. The name is derived from the French word "pensee," meaning thoughts.

Called Stepmother

In Germany and Scandinavia, the pansy is called the stepmother. This story grew out of the fact that there are five heart-shaped petals and behind these are five green sepals. The lower petal is the stepmother, who uses two chairs, the two sepals. At either side of her are her daughters, who have each a chair. The upper two petals are the stepdaughters, who have to content themselves with one chair.

In olden times, love plotters were made from the juice of the pansy. If it were rubbed on the eyelids of a sleeping person, it would cause them to fall madly in love with the next living being they saw.

Phillys Created Pansy

One night, just before midsummer eve, the fairies gathered to decide what they should do to make the world more beautiful. They created a new flower, taking blue from the sky, varying shades of red from the sunset, yellow from the sunbeams and a warm brown from the earth. They worked all night and in the morning there were pansies all gorgeously colored. An angel, who heard of the beauty of the blossom, gave it her blessing. Then she kissed it and passed on, leaving the impress of her face upon the flower.

Charles Macey, metre reader for an electric company at Lewiston, picked up on the sidewalk a wallet containing bills and checks to the amount of nearly $500. It belonged to Mrs. C. M. Blake, who was overjoyed at its prompt recovery.

Girl Waves "Yes" to Stranger's Proposal

SALE LAKE CITY, Utah, July 22.—

Love messages wig wagged in army radio, San Francisco, during the war, while in that service she had mastered the gauze alphabet.

"Hello," was the first wireless she waved across the canyon in a spirit of adventure.

Heaton rode furiously away and soon returned with flags.

"Hello," he frantically shot back.

"Hello, hello!"

From that day their conversation ripened into serious romance. Mrs. Heaton bashfully acknowledges the rare, clear atmosphere of the high clear altitudes assisted in their reading each other's dispatches.

On the other side, 13 miles away, was a solitary rider watching her. Following days, she saw him again.

Knowing that if he were a young man of military age, he would understand Uncle Sam's code of wig-wagging, she flitted out two flags of large

"I had a conference with the assistant sales manager and laid before him our co-operative buying plan of saving the smaller newspapers of the states from extinction. He manifested the same warm sympathy for the publishers of small papers we found in the head offices of other large paper producers. Our plan, he said, was absolutely the best practical way of protecting the smaller papers."

She took her sister back home with her and as they reached the flat the young woman said, "Why, I have lived for a year within a block and a half of here."

Hospital Sends Letter of Protest to Commission

In accordance with informal notification received by Mayor Petry D. Thompson yesterday, that the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital would be opposed to the granting of a license for the conduct of a dance hall in the Pawtucket boulevard near the municipal bath house, the trustees have sent the following letter to the license commission:

Lowell, Mass., July 21, 1920.
At a meeting of the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital, held this day, the following vote was unanimously passed:

Voted: That the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital oppose in every proper manner the petition for the establishment and operation of a public dance hall on the Pawtucket boulevard in the vicinity of the municipal bath house and the buildings of the Lowell General Hospital.

hospital trustees have sent the following letter:

Messrs. Bechard and Lirette, Lowell, Massachusetts:

Gentlemen—The trustees of the Lowell General Hospital regret that they must oppose your petition for a dance hall on the Pawtucket boulevard, because of the very serious threatened disturbance to the patients in the hospital, and beg to inform you that the hospital will present its opposition to a license for said dance hall at the public hearing soon to be held. In the belief that it may be of value to you to be informed of the opposition which it is necessary for the trustees to make to your plans, I am requested to notify you of their intention and to forward to you the enclosed copy of their vote.

DEATH IN PARIS OF WM. K. VANDERBILT

PARIS, July 22.—William K. Vanderbilt, American financier, died here yesterday.

Mr. Vanderbilt's death occurred at 6 o'clock last evening. At his bedside were his wife, his daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, his two sons, William K. Jr., and Harold, and Dr. Edmund Gross, the family physician in Paris.

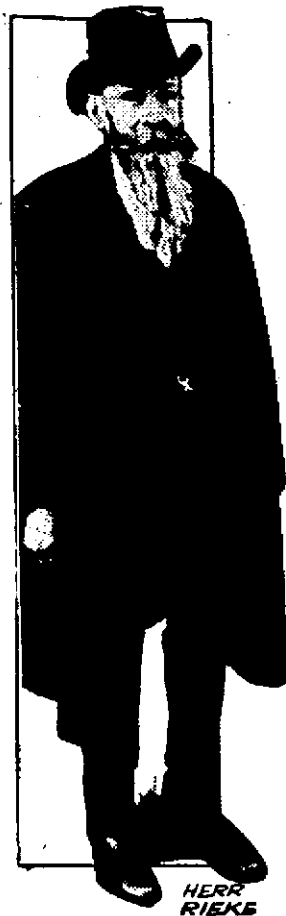

The funeral will be held on Monday next from the American church Avenue in the d'Alma. The body later will be taken to the United States, where it will be buried in the family plot on Staten Island.

William Kissam Vanderbilt, son of William H. and grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, one of the most prominent railroad executives, financiers and sportsmen in the United States, passed much of his time in recent years abroad. The Duke of Marlborough married his only daughter, Consuelo, in 1895.

Mr. Vanderbilt was long a patron of the French turf, of yachting and of automobile racing in the United States. He was the donor of the "Vanderbilt Cup" for which motor speed kings contested a decade or more ago on Long Island. He owned a racing stable at Poissy, France, which he augmented greatly in 1912 by purchasing a number of horses from James R. Keene. Notable among his string of Derby and Grand Prix winners were "Maintenon," "His Prestige," "Northeast," "Negotio" and "Gibelin." Besides having built the Alva, which was sunk, and the Valiant, steam yacht, he was a member of several syndicates organized to build defenders of the America's cup.

During the war, Mr. Vanderbilt was active in hospital work and relief abroad and in promoting the work of the Lafayette Escadrille. On one occasion he contributed $10,000 to the Neuilly hospital fund and at another time gave 1,000,000 lire toward war relief in Italy. Because of his work for the American aviators in France he was made honorary president of the Lafayette Escadrille and presented the rosette of the Legion of Honor. During the summer of 1919, Mr. Vanderbilt was reported to have presented to his daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, a gift of $15,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt was born on Staten Island, N. Y., Dec. 12, 1849. After receiving an academic education in America, he studied for several years in Geneva, Switzerland. He married Miss Alva Smith of Mobile, Ala. (now Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont) in 1874 and to them were born, beside Consuelo, two other children, William K. Jr., and Harold Vanderbilt. On April 23, 1863, Mr. Vanderbilt married Mrs. A. H. Rutherford, in London, Eng.

Charles Collins of Oak Hill, Litchfield, Me., thinks so much of a white Wyandotte rooster that he encourages him to roost nights on the footboard of his bed and feeds him every little while. This is because Mr. Collins was awakened one night by the excited crowing of the rooster, who had somehow got into the house, and found when he got up to investigate that the house was on fire. ## THE AMERICAN LEGION

Official Call for Second Annual Department Convention at Springfield

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 22.—The Massachusetts department of the American Legion today gave out the official call for the second annual department convention to be held in the Springfield auditorium on Aug. 27 and 28 next.

The purpose for which the convention will be held follows:

To take action on the question of securing a federal bonus for all service men.

To elect delegates and alternates to the national convention to be held in Cleveland in September.

To elect ten department executive committee members, one of whom shall be a woman elected at large.

To elect one member and one alternate to the national executive committee to represent Massachusetts; and to transact such other business as may come before the convention.

The convention will be called to order at 10 a. m. on Friday, the 27th. Prayer will be offered by the Rev. Michael J. O'Connor of Boston, departmental chaplain and addresses of welcome given by Gov. Conlidge and Mayor Arthur A. Adams of Springfield. The remainder of the day will be taken up with the election of committees.

committee sessions, reports of committees, the report of the department commander, Col. Edward L. Logan of Boston, and in general business.

On the program of the next and final day is scheduled the election of officers, delegates and other representatives of the department, consideration of the report of the committee on resolutions, which will contain the bonus recommendations, and the adoption or rejection of all resolutions before the convention.

Voting will be either by ballot or districts, as may be determined by the

ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let Your Sore, Swollen, Aching Feet Spread Out in a Bath of "Tiz"

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, blunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.—Adv.

This preparation for the removal of freckles is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

convention. Each post will have one vote. A majority vote will be necessary for election to any office.

For district voting the state has been divided as follows:

1. Berkshire, Franklin and Hampshire counties; 2. Hampden; 3. Worcester; 4. Middlesex; 5. Norfolk; 6. Suffolk; 7. Essex; 8. Bristol; 9. Plymouth, Duke, Barnstable and Nantucket.

The expenses of delegates to, from and at the department convention will be paid by individual posts or individual delegates, in each case as the post itself may dictate.

No reduced railroad rates for the benefit of the delegates attending the department convention will be in force. Each delegation may have as its guests such members of the American Legion and their families as they may wish to accompany them. HOYT.

CANDLE POWER OF ELECTRIC LIGHT

What is the spherical candlepower of the electric light you use in your home, office or factory?

The globe-like apparatus was designed and is in use by the National Bureau of Standards.

Incandescent lamps are mounted from the opposite side of this sphere, when, by closing the sphere door, the lamp is located near the center of the ball. An adjustable opaque screen prevents direct light from reaching the ground glass plate set in the sphere wall, on the side of the ball in line with the photometer shown

Arc lamps and lamps with diffusing globes or reflectors are lowered into the sphere from the top to a proper position for measurement. The interior of the electric-light testing ball is painted white and the ground glass window receives only reflected light from the sphere wall. The miniature ladder, mounted near the top of the sphere, is for closing the opening at the top after introducing the arc or other lamps.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS FOR PLAYGROUNDS

In response to the call issued by the chamber of commerce for volunteer workers on the "playground" streets each evening in the week many members of the women's organizations in the city have offered their services. Besides members of the Women's Catholic league and the Middlesex Women's club several others of the Girls' Community club have volunteered. The response to the call of the chamber of commerce has been very gratifying to William N. Goodell of the chamber of commerce and "father of the street playground" idea.

These volunteers will be assigned to either Howard or Charles street for certain evenings during the week to assist in organizing the children in to play groups and to maintain order. Some young men of the city have also volunteered to be present during the evening to prevent any boisterous play on the part of the older boys.

Those of the Girls' Community club who will work on the playgrounds are the Misses May Hewon, Sadie Melancon, Frances Larkin, Clara Dalton, Hildur Pearson, Annie Egan and Miss Katherine Cronin.

MANUFACTURE OF MUNITIONS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, July 23.—Upon the report of an Italian munitions expert will depend the decision of the question whether or not the Mexican government is to manufacture its own implements of war.

In case his report causes the military chiefs of the nation to decide to purchase their munitions abroad, the practice of employing buyers in foreign countries will be discontinued and the purchases will be made through the Mexican government's regularly constituted commercial agents, according to the plans of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, secretary of war and marine, as reported by El Universal. Furthermore, effort will be made to find, within the army itself, munitions experts who can be entrusted with the task of judiciously placing the government's orders abroad.

"In Mexico there are all the raw materials necessary for the manufacture of arms," El Universal adds. "There is already on record a case where the carefully conducted manufacture of war material is resulting in notable economy to the country; namely, in the construction of airplane propellers. This work could be extended successfully to the manufacture of all our war materials."

Only One White Man in Loo Choo—Famous Lacquer Country

Islands in Line of Ocean Travel, Rarely Visited by Caucasians

Along busy highways of ocean travel, land links between Japan and Formosa, not far from China's coastwise routes, yet visited by only two or three white persons a year—such are the Loo Choo (Luchu or Ryukyu) islands. "Loo Choo is a land full of the indescribable charm and mystery of the Orient," but replete with the pathos of a vanishing race," writes Roy Chapman Andrews to the National Geographical society.

But, although it has been 40 years since there sounded the death knell of this little kingdom, Loo Choo is not yet Japan. The traveler realizes this even before he lands. The pine-clad, tomb-dotted hills which form the background of the strange little cities of Naha and Shuri have an unfamiliar look and the pretty tiled roofs of the diminutive houses, just visible over the surrounding gray stone walls, give fascinating hints of what may be found beyond their lacquered gateways. On their entire 800 square miles of land only one white man, an American missionary, is resident.

"With our money changed we began to look about to spend it, for Loo Choo is the home of the red lacquer ware famous throughout the world. Much of it is exported and the finest of the boxes, bowls, trays, tables, etc., which are in daily use in Japan and China are sold to tourists throughout the Orient, come from the little city of Naha, or Shuri, its neighbor across the hills. The lacquer ware, when first made, is a dull brown, but really first pieces improve with age and soon change to a beautiful vermilion, becoming brighter and clearer the longer they are used.

"When we came to buy lacquer we were greatly surprised to find that bargaining had no place in Loo Choo. Without exception, the first price asked for an article was the one for which it was sold. Never in the Orient had we met with a similar condition.

"It was interesting to find, also, that the women of Loo Choo conduct all business and have charge of everything pertaining to money—with the single exception of spending it. The market, where in the morning trading for vegetables and fruit is carried on, resembles a midwife meeting place, for among the crowded mass of humanity not a man is to be seen. "The straight backs and erect carriage of the Loo Choo women are due to the custom of carrying everything upon their heads. No matter what the object, be it large or small, it is perched upon their thick black hair, and off they walk in the most nonchalant manner, apparently paying not the slightest attention to keeping the object in place.

Naha and Shuri are the high stone walls which surround the houses. These walls are generally covered by a small bayonet tree, called the gopmar, growing like a great vine and sending out numberless roots which sometimes reach a hundred feet from the original stem.

"These also serve as a hiding place for a snake, a kind of milder, six or seven feet long, which is the curse of the islands. Their bite is generally fatal in a few hours, and many people are killed by them each year."

LAWN PARTY IN BILLERICA

A successful lawn party was held Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Watts in Andover street, Billerica. The success of the event was due to the following committee: Mrs. Howard Simmons, general chairman; Miss Pearl Letteney in charge of the entertainment; Mrs. Olive Watts, the zoo; T. Emery Smith, whist; Mrs. Jennie Barker, Miss Jessie McMillan, Mrs. Annie Baisley, Mrs. Mabel Luke, Mrs. Alice Wright and Mr. Gardner, refreshments; Miss Switzer and Miss Cushing, candy table; Miss May Letteney, mystery table; Mrs. Sarah L. Murphy, the Misses Letteney, A. K. Letteney and Oscar Darby, decorations.

PLAN PAVILION FOR SALISBURY BEACH

The incorporation of the Salisbury Beach Pavilion company, of which George E. Mongeau, a prominent merchant of this city is president, and Dr. A. J. Gagnon, a dentist of this city, is vice-president, is rapidly nearing completion. The corporation will be capitalized for $150,000 divided into shares of $100 each. Construction on the proposed pavilion will start about the first of October, according to reports.

It is expected that as soon as the present beach season is completed building will start under the direct supervision of the officers of the company. The structure will be located on the site of the Ocean Echo which was burned to the ground during the winter, but will be 100 feet long and somewhat wider than the former pavilion. There will be fifteen bowling alleys, about 300 bath houses in the center, and a dance hall on the north end with more floor space than had the old Echo. All attractions in the pavilion will be run by the constructing company except thirty stores which will be leased. This pavilion will fill the place of the Ocean Echo, the loss of which during the present season of the beach has detracted greatly from the activities and attendance. Besides providing a seaside dance hall it will also provide a balcony out over the beach so that spectators and picnickers may get clear view of the beach north and south.

The other members of the corporation include as officers: Ralph Pratt of Salisbury, president of the Salisbury beach board of trade, manager of a chain of moving picture houses and of the roller coaster and other attractions at the beach; Joseph H. Hardigan, an attorney of Lawrence, connected with the Athletic park corporation. Men serving solely as directors are George E. Tasker, Daniel C. Donovan of Haverhill; Walter Coulson of Lawrence, one of the Salisbury Beach Associates, and Leon S. Willey of Manchester, N. H., a merchant of the beach.

FOIL FAITHFUL SERVICE

George Fairbrother, overseer of the carding department of the Talbot mills in North Billerica, who recently rounded out 50 years as an employee of the corporation, was presented a substantial check by the officials of the company for the faithful service rendered the company during the past half century. Mr. Fairbrother entered the employ of the company in 1870 as a creel tender and worked his way to the position of overseer.

VOICES FROM ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

ST. JOHNS, N. F., July 23.—Experts from the Marconi Wireless company, who are here conducting experiments in long distance wireless telephonic communication announced yesterday that Wednesday they heard messages from the Chelmsford station, near London, more than 2000 miles distant. They said they recognized the voice of Capt. Round, the expert in charge, and identified several words, but failed to pick up any connected sentences.

The officials in charge also said they heard faintly messages from the steamer Victorian which left Liverpool last Tuesday for Sydney, N. S., and Montreal with members of the Imperial Press conference en route to Ottawa. They also said that the steamer Imperial also reported hearing signals from their station when 500 miles west of Bishop's Rock.

The station is located on Signal Hill where Marconi received the first transatlantic wireless telegraph message 20 years ago. The Victorian has been equipped with special apparatus for the experiment and it had been hoped to communicate by wireless telephone with the steamer when half-way across the Atlantic. The experiments are a continuation of a series which, according to Marconi officials, bore promise of early success when interrupted by the war.

KILL BEARS WITH BOW AND ARROWS

BY DR. SAXTON POPE
(America's Foremost Bow and Arrow Expert)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—The great California grizzly bear is extinct, so when the California Academy of Sciences wanted specimens for its habitat group in the museum, it chose the nearest species, the Wyoming grizzly. Permit was obtained from Washington to take these bear in Yellowstone Park.

Arthur Young and I were given the job of securing the specimens, and we proposed to get them with the bow and arrow.

This weapon was used as an experiment in anthropology, to see what it could do; besides it is no great achievement to shoot a grizzly with a high power rifle at one or two hundred yards. To hunt with the bow is better sport and is a fairer contest between the strength and courage of the hunter and that of the quarry. We used seventy-five pound bows and steel headed arrows of our own make.

The bear in Yellowstone are not all tame pets, by any means. The finest specimens stay up in the snow clad mountains. These were the ones we hunted. Those around the camps are mostly black and brown bear. A few grizzlies also visit civilization, but they are still dangerous and shy.

Guided By Bear Hunter

Young and I took with us the best bear hunter and guide in Wyoming. Ned Frost, of Cody, who has killed over three hundred grizzlies. Our party arrived late in May, when the pelts are at their best, and found grizzlies very scarce and very wild.

After much hunting we located four bear up on the head of Alum Creek, eight miles from Yellowstone Canyon. We were three miles away from the game, but by careful maneuvering approached within four hundred yards without disturbing them. We then waited until they stopped feeding, and had gone up to lie down on a snow-covered hillside. The wind was in such a direction that we could get a shot over the top of the hill where they lay.

We sharpened our arrows, strung our bows, crept forward and when within twenty-five yards, rose up and looked over the hill crest. There lay the bear. We drew our bows and shot. The two arrows struck at once. Mine drove deep into the chest of one of the bears. Young's arrow struck just below the heart of the old female.

Female Gladly Charges

There was a roar; all the beasts rose and began fighting with one another, pawing, biting and rearing.

We shot again. The old female, with bloody froth running from mouth and nose, saw us. Her hair rose on her back; she stopped her mad battling and gathered herself for a charge. As she did so, two arrows buried themselves deep in her body. But she came with a rush. Then Frost's gun went off with a boom at our elbow.

The bear was knocked head over heels and rolled in somersaults down the hill. She tried to rise and get at us again, but her fore leg was broken. We drove two more arrows, feathers and all, clean through her body. She wilted and sprawled out on the snow dead.

Gun Saved Them

The gun had saved us from a mauling, but the arrows had killed her. Her two-year-old cubs were half grown and dangerous antagonists. They had disappeared with the report of the gun. We found the one I had shot dead, with one arrow deep in his lung.

The old female had five arrow wounds in her body, any one of which would have been fatal. Both bears had been mercifully dispatched in less than thirty seconds.

In spite of the unavoidable use of the rifle, we considered this was a good beginning for the bow. Ned Frost said, "Boys, when you proposed killing grizzly bears with the bow and arrow I thought it a fine sporting proposition, but I had my doubts. Now, I believe you can shoot through and kill the biggest grizzly bear in Wyoming."

In my next story I will tell you how we did that very thing.

FRACTURED COLLAR BONE

Ruth Medler, aged four years and living in Westford, is at the Lowell Corporation hospital suffering from a fracture of the collar bone as a result of an automobile accident, which occurred in Westford Tuesday night. The child, so it is claimed, while playing in the street, ran into the path of an automobile operated by Fred Parks of Chelmsford.

GAIN WEIGHT AND STRENGTH

WITH BITRO-PHOSPHATE OF SODA GUARANTEE

NEW YORK. If you are feeling run-down, weak, nervous, tired-in-the-morning, and generally ailing, these are the symptoms that should warn you to take care of your health.

Four persons in every ten are needing more phosphorus in their bodies. When you see thin and frail people; or those who are anaemic, pale, frail, off dependent or lacking in energy; you may look for the need of certain elements that make for a strong constitution.

Some people, after relying upon preparations composed chiefly of salts, quinine, drastic drugs, iron, calomel, cod-liver oil, etc., wonder why they find no benefit. That is easily explained by the fact that such persons need the phosphorus element, which is a most potent essential to health, and contained in BITRO-PHOSPHATE, the famous health preparation. Now obtainable everywhere.

The right thing for you to do is make a trial of BITRO-PHOSPHATE beginning at once. It is not a patent medicine; the formula is prescribed by many physicians for the ailments and weaknesses mentioned above.

With every box of BITRO-PHOSPHATE are a few simple health rules and a $500 guarantee. Buy a box of BITRO-PHOSPHATE. It is sold and recommended by A. W. Dowd, and all good druggists everywhere.—Adv.

REV. BRO. CHRYSEUIL
 Brothers left Lowell in the early part of July and upon landing on French soil they separated, going to their respective homes.
 Rev. Bro. Pierre Vincent of this city had not been in France for six years, while Rev. Bro. Bernardin, who was formerly director of the local school, had not visited his home for the past nine years. Rev. Bro. Sylvain, who at one time taught school in this city, had not visited France for six years.
 It was also learned today that a few days ago Rev. Bro. Chryseuil, first director of St. Joseph's college in this city, and for the past several years located in Montreal, in company with Rev. Bro. Priscillan, who succeeded Rev. Bro. Chryseuil as director of the Lowell school and is now located at Quebec, also sailed for their motherland. Rev. Bro. Priscillan will remain abroad a few months, but it is stated that Rev. Bro. Chryseuil may never return to America, for henceforth he will be connected with the motherhouse of the order in France. Both brothers had planned to visit Lowell before sailing, but it is understood that they were obliged to change their plans at the eleventh hour.

NAVY TO BUILD UP RESERVE FORCE

According to the very latest reports received at the local navy recruiting station, the navy department will immediately endeavor to build up the reserve force both by transferring to active duty and by recruiting. Recruits for enrollment are to be examined and sent to main stations in the same way as other recruits, the only difference being that these men enroll for active service of not less than one year or more than 15 months.

These men are transferred upon enrollment to the same places as other recruits except that there will be no enrollments for trade schools. Naval stations are to make no efforts to get men for the reserve force, the reserve force organization is to do their own recruiting.
 All new enrollments must be made for four years, but new men who enroll will be placed on inactive duty after serving on active duty for not less than one year or more than 15 months.
 Recruiting stations will conduct the necessary examinations, complete the

Red Pills and Female Weakness

When a woman complains of persistent pains and discomforts, one is safe in saying that she is troubled with a malady peculiar to her sex, and that she suffers from that disease, or agglomeration of diseases, which is generally called Female Weakness.

This disease is more frequently met in married women and women at the change of life, but still it also attacks young girls who have to work for their living. Female Weakness may be caused by various reasons, such as exposure to cold, lack of proper care, hard work, lack of nutrition, etc., etc., but the main cause, and one which never fails to bring that disease on as a result, is Anaemia.

Anaemia will thin the blood, and lower the strength of its victim, and as soon as a woman becomes anaemic, the various symptoms which are usually known as female weakness will make their appearance. These symptoms are pains in the stomach, kidneys; often headaches, and always a tired feeling, and seldom good digestion, always bearing-down pains, irregular and painful periods.

Walking, even the fact of remaining standing for a certain time, and the least exertion, will increase the symptoms. If these symptoms are let alone, and if nothing is done by the patient, they will rapidly increase, and are apt to bring on more serious trouble.

The best treatment for Anaemia, and consequently for female weakness, which as a rule accompanies Anaemia, are Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women, and all women ought to start taking them at the first symptoms of weakness, and not wait until their trouble becomes chronic, their health broken, and their constitution debilitated by nervous symptoms, stomach trouble, and irregularities of all kinds.

RED PILLS are sold in boxes of 50 pills, 50 cents a box, six boxes $2.50. If they are not at your merchant's, they will be sent to you by mail on receipt of price. Franco-American Chemical Company, Limited, 212 Milk Street, Boston, Mass. 102-74 enrollment of new reservists and the transfer of enrolled reservists from inactive duty to active duty. All reservists already enrolled, whether confirmed in rating or not will be transferred to receiving ships for general detail. But those men, already enrolled, but not confirmed in rating will be examined upon reporting to the first regular station to which they are assigned in order that the rating they are best qualified to fill may be learned. The law for the enrollment of new reservists and the recall to active duty of reservists already enrolled, provides that it must be done with their own consent. For the 15 naval districts of the country the quota of men to be obtained in this way is 20,000; of this number 3,000 must come from the first naval district, which covers the great part of New England.

WILL OPEN MILL MONDAY MORNING

President Morrison of the Merrimack woolen mill in Dracut has announced that he will reopen the mill on Monday at the rate of wages offered when the mill closed. Much interest is felt in the decision and it is reported that many of the operatives have expressed willingness to return at the old rate of wages in force before the last increase of 15 per cent as it is to last but a short time.

Mr. Morrison has stated that he will pay just as much as any other mill in the same line of business. Many of the families who worked in this mill for years have been idle since it shut

NEWS OF THE DAY
IN POLICE COURT

John L. Mahoney, who gave his address as Church street, appealed a sentence of six months to the house of correction for larceny, ordered by Judge Enright in police court, this morning. He was held under $500 bonds.

Mahoney was arrested yesterday afternoon on Dutton street, by Lieut. Maher and Sgt. Dwyer, for the larceny of a dress-suitcase and its contents of men's furnishings. Mahoney visited a down-town store recently, and checked his own suitcase. After completing business outside, he returned, and by some mistake, took another man's suitcase instead of his own. Mahoney declared that he did not realize it was not his until he opened it. Instead of returning the goods, the defendant sold them and did not return for his own suitcase. The police were notified of the loss as soon as the rightful owner of the goods called with his check at the store.

Valentine Rudolph, charged with assault on his wife, answered to the call of Assistant Clerk Toye in police court, this morning, and was granted a continuance until August 6.

Valentine Joseph Flynn was declared defaulted this morning, for non-appearance in a case charging him with non-support of his wife and minor children.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agent

THE STRAND

Nobody can see "Twins of Suffering Creek" at the Strand without asking himself the question, "What would I do if I had but five more days to live?" It is decidedly pertinent, and as one follows William Russell through this Ridgely Cullum story one asks himself the question over and over again. Sessue Hayakawa in "The Devil's Claim" is an interesting study in Hindu mysticism and sorcery and the little Japanese artist is really at his level best. Larry Semon in "The Fly Cop" is another feature star of the last half of the week's bill.

Shamrock Has the Edge

seconds count. Both yachts were pronounced by their skippers fit for the marine battle. An eight knot southwesterly breeze was blowing at 5 o'clock and, with passing to sea of an all-night rain storm, prospects for a race were good. Shortly after 9 o'clock the yachts began hoisting sail. The wind, blowing up the Jersey shore from the south, southwest, was rapidly driving to sea the fog left by last night's rain storms. At 9.30 Shamrock slipped her moorings and, taking a tow, started for the starting line an hour earlier than usual. Sir Thomas Lipton and his friends feel that Shamrock's best chances of capturing the coveted mug lie in today's contest, in which the Irish sloop will have 20 miles of reaching—a point of sailing in which she has shown superiority over Resolute.

Should the American craft win today, the cup boats will meet tomorrow over a 20 mile windward and leeward course, and the chances for Resolute—a witch at windward work—in the final and deciding contest, would be bright indeed.

Resolute dropped her moorings at 10.15 and stood out under own sail. A tug steamed on ahead, however, and later took the defender in tow.

The regatta committee at 12.30 set signals for the following 30 mile triangular course:

A beat to windward from the Ambrose channel lightship, south, south-west down the Jersey shore; a reach east by north, out to sea, and another reach back to the lightship.

By 12.30 the wind had increased to five knots, giving promise of a good race.

The preparatory signal was sounded at 12.45 for a start at 1 p. m. The wind held at about five knots.

With the blowing of the preparatory signal, the two sloops stood away to northward in the light breeze, and when the warning signal was sounded at 12.55 they were 200 yards to windward of the lightship.

Then they came about and reached for the line with booms to starboard but there was not sufficient air to permit any smart jockeying for the start. The yachts reached fast to eastward of the committee boat and then along the line. They had to kill off time and stood away again to the northward.

Wearing ship, they again stood down the line from west to east. Resolute planted herself squarely on the Shamrock's weather quarter.

The starting signal was blown at 1 p. m. and Resolute crossed at 1.01.33, official time, with the green sloop 21 seconds behind her.

It was Shamrock today that hung back and allowed Resolute to set the pace. Captain Burton of the challenger was very nearly handicapped, having only four seconds to get over the line within the two minutes allowed after the starting signal.

Both yachts crossed on the starboard tack and Resolute at once began to gain. Ten minutes after the start, both tacked to port, with Resolute 200 yards to windward, going quite fast, and Shamrock almost becalmed. The two sloops broke out baby jib topsails on crossing the line. There was a big roll to the sea and the sloops pounded as they moved away, causing them to spill some of the wind from the sails. After Capt. Burton started to let the Shamrock run in order to fore-reach his rival, the challenger appeared for a while as if she was sailing back for the starting line so badly she was thrown off apparently by the shifting wind.

When the two yachts later headed in shore for the Jersey Highlands Resolute gained constantly in the beat to windward. At 1.20 o'clock the American yacht was easily a quarter of a mile ahead.

Working inshore, Resolute pinched out further and further to weather, while Shamrock sought to overcome her rival's advantage by fore-reaching. The defender heeled over in the light breeze more than the Lipton boat and showed the same marked advantage in beating to windward in a ground swell with faint airs as she did in previous races.

At 1.25 the wind hauled almost to the south, letting up Resolute and putting her more than a quarter of a mile to windward, where she was almost able to lay her course for the first mark.

At 1.30 the wind, after having increased to eight knots, went back into the south, southwest, making a dead ahead to the first turn with Resolute half a mile to windward, and going faster than Shamrock, which seemed logy. At 1.50 when nearly down to the Highlands, Shamrock had picked up with the aid of a small baby jib top-sail, and was doing better in the breeze which had dropped back to six knots.

Apparently the skippers did not find the wind they expected along the Jersey shore, but they had the advantage of the tide and kept on heading toward Seabright.

Shamrock cut down somewhat her rival's lead on the tack in shore, but at 1.55 the American sloop was still quite a piece to weather.

ASK NEW PRIORITY COAL ORDERS FOR N. E.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—New emergency orders directing priority in the movement of coal to the Atlantic seaboard for trans-shipment to New England, to meet the fuel situation there, were asked of the interstate commerce commission today by coal operators, dealers and railroad executives.

The order, it was proposed, would require a half score of railroads tapping coal fields in West Virginia, Maryland and Central Pennsylvania to give the right of way to the movement through Hampton Roads, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

THE SOVIET REPLY

The reply of soviet Russia to the British invitation to a peace conference in London, is quite pointed and in several respects sarcastic. The Russian note refers to the fact that England did not propose any peace conference when Poland was advancing into Russian territory, and charges that ammunition for the enemies whom Russia has been fighting was delivered in British ships, showing that England was in sympathy with one or more of the states making war upon the soviet government.

The note further charges that England "has shown designs, upon the Crimean peninsula with a view to annexation as a means of protecting India against any movement originating in Russia. For this reason and others indirectly referred to, the soviet declines to send delegates to England as proposed, intimating that in a conference such as proposed, the interests of the belligerent powers might be sacrificed to those of a third party, meaning England, of course.

The Russian attitude in reference to the League of Nations is also of interest, as in this note it is stated that the soviet government has received no communications from the League of Nations and is not officially aware of its existence, holding also that no combination of states has any right to assume the role of masters of the world.

It is distinctly stated that the soviet is ready to make peace with Poland and to offer even better boundary limits than those laid down in the treaty of Versailles; but the one condition is, that Poland must ask for an armistice before it shall be considered by Russia.

The general purport of the reply is, that the settlements to be made will be dictated by Russia and not by England to serve British interests.

This note indicates that there is a new menace to the allied interests in Europe and even in Asia and that henceforth, England may find it difficult to avoid an open rupture with Russia. Should Germany and Russia unite in the near future, they would certainly be able to set at defiance the other European powers unless the latter can secure the assistance of the United States. It can thus be seen how impotent the League of Nations would be as an agency for the preservation of world peace, unless the United States becomes an active member.

MASS. "DOPE" USERS

A scientist, who has made a careful study of narcotics and their effects on the human system, says that the sufferings of persons "afflicted with the disease of morphia" are the most poignant known to mankind. Some people will very likely disagree with the classification of the use of "dope" as a disease. Whether a disease or a habit, it is a terrible one even though it is sometimes contracted, perhaps it often is, as the result of an unstable nervous organization or a weak will. Once it is started, though, it is apparent to anyone familiar with advanced cases, that no cure is possible without medical treatment and in many cases even that is not effective.

It is somewhat startling, therefore, to learn on the authority of a reliable official of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, that there are at this time more than 50,000 "dope" users in the state. It had been generally supposed that since the passage of the Harrison law, the morphia and cocaine fiends had pretty nearly ceased to exist.

According to the state official above mentioned the dope that is now getting to users comes mainly from "medicinal manufacturers" who are able, under existing law, to secure unlimited quantities of narcotic drugs without making any return as to the uses to which they are put. If this is true, the next congress has one line of work clearly cut out for it and that is to see to it that the Harrison law is so amended that the sources of supply to drug-addicts are narrowed to the very closest limits.

PUSHING UP THE H. C. L.

Now that the wage question for railroad men is settled, temporarily, at least, the next move will be to increase freight rates. The railroads want an increase that will afford them two billion dollars of additional revenue.

J. E. Weatherly, economic expert of the Department of Justice, figures that approximately nine billion dollars will be added to the cost of living in September, when the increased rates go into effect. He believes that the increase will be magnified about four times when it reaches the consumer, for the reason that every merchant, every middleman, every jobber, every retailer, every purveyor of the necessities of life, will add his percentage of profit to the increase he will have to pay; and he will not be very particular in regard to fractions of a cent. In a vast number of cases the increase laid on the consumer will be double or treble what it is to the vendor and all these extra charges summed up in one whole will vastly exceed the actual increase in freight rates ordered by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Unfortunately that is how it works out in the modern methods of merchandising. The consumer is mulcted in this manner in a thousand different ways with the result that the cost of living is very much higher than it should be; and yet none of those who add the excessive charges can be accused of profiteering. The margin of profit is not great enough for that; but when there is a general increase, however small, on all the necessities of life, it mounts up to astonishing figures in the aggregate as shown in the expenses of the ultimate consumer.

SENATOR HARDING'S SPEECH

Senator Harding's speech of acceptance was comprehensive but rather tame in its expressions on the various campaign issues. If it is a sample of the senator's ability as a campaigner, the democrats have little to fear from any of his attacks.

Senator Harding is a conservative gentleman, sensible of course, but not endowed with the qualities necessary to a magnetic or successful campaigner. He covered the various issues in a manner that was entirely in accord with the platform adopted at Chicago. On the League of Nations issue, he was evasive, and he was equally so upon the question of prohibition, but he came out quite emphatically in favor of woman suffrage and of fair treatment for the service men who had risked their lives in the cause of the country and humanity.

We do not imagine that the senator has strengthened his candidacy by his acceptance speech.

There was no escort of soldiers to greet General Pershing, when he recently visited Portland, and the reason seems to have been that some of the local army officers were not particularly anxious to set their alarm clocks so that they would get up in time to march a detail order to participate in his welcome.

The death, with his ninetieth birthday almost in sight, of Benjamin A. Kimball of New Hampshire, for many years president of the Concord & Montreal railroad, recalls that he was probably the only man who ever succeeded in forcing a state into taking a hand in tearing up the tracks of a competing rail line.

The English government has issued orders prohibiting all public meetings within three miles of Cork's postoffice, which means that two men found conversing within the prohibited limit are liable to be shot down by the military forces. But the British forces are not doing all the shooting in Cork, but they and their unionist backers are doing nearly all of it in Belfast.

The new high school is to have a corner store with a metallic box in it containing papers and documents relating to the city that will be preserved for the inspection of a distant posterity. We hope no one will suggest putting pictures in it of Lowell streets as they are today.

The prohibitionists, who are to spend two days at Lincoln, Neb., celebrating the demise of John Barleycorn, probably have not heard that the old sinner, who is a good impersonator of John, has recently crossed the border from Canada and is now stalking leisurely about New England.

Harding, having failed in his effort to secure the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the republican state of Vermont, now maneuvers to take credit for himself and party if the democratic state of Tennessee shall supply the last sanction required to give the ballot to the women.

It doesn't seem the best policy in the world to load a considerable part of the cost of increased wages to railroad men onto the charges for transporting milk, the price of which is fast reaching a point where many parents will have to deny it to their children who need it for nourishment.

Some people who have heard without flinching of threatened food famines and fuel famines, of nationwide railroad tieups and sugar shortages, are likely to grow pale when they read that workers in the movie industry have gone out on a strike.

The public is far from being in a frame of mind to listen with patience to strike talk by one of the highest paid classes of workers in the country who have had a twenty-one per cent increase added to their incomes.

Come up to northshore coast of Massachusetts, gentlemen of the New York Yacht club, for your next international cup race, and you will undoubtedly find plenty of wind on tap during even the doggiest of dog days.

Farmer Karl M. Perham of Chelmsford seems to have the right idea in urging that agriculturists from outside Lowell, who desire to sell their produce in the city, shall do so in open competition on the municipal wholesale market.

Bourbonism, that learns nothing and forgets nothing, still rules in the republican camp as the leaders work to gather a campaign fund that, in the words of Governor Cox, "will stagger the sensibilities of the nation."

Senator Lodge, in breaking the news to Senator Harding that he has been nominated for president, spoke of the time "when the authority of government is once more committed to our keeping." That looks to be a long time off, senator.

It is good news that several of Lowell's most efficient postal men are not to be penalized for being 65 years old by being arbitrarily forced to retire from service for which long experience has made them especially fitted.

Movie camera men, filming a negro pugilist, arrested as a fugitive from justice and under court sentence for violation of the Mann act, do not present a picture that it is very pleasant to contemplate.

A metaphysical magazine says "affirm that you are rich and you will be rich." We should like to ask the editor if this kind of treatment would be likely to work with the coal bins next winter.

Senator Harding is in agreement with the expressed opinion of The Sun on one subject—that the vice president should be given a larger share in the direction of the nation's affairs.

It must have surprised John Bull to have his new business ally, the Bolshevik, shake his fist in the old man's face and tell him to "go back and sit down" with his advice about Poland.

Another electric car line to Boston to be discontinued. Well, with such a home city as Lowell, why should anyone wish to go to Boston, anyway?

It is reported that alcohol is to be set to work running motor cars. It is to be hoped that it doesn't tangle up the wheels as it used to tangle the feet.

The flivver makers won't worry about the proposed increase of a half-cent to a cent in railroad passenger fares.

Memo for the next general court: Get busy with some legislation that will safeguard the lives of passengers in airplanes at summer resorts.

Perhaps someone may be good enough to lend the Resolute a four-leaved clover as a mascot.

SEEN AND HEARD

A rare case: When a man's wife is his affinity.

"I am out of politics," says Gen. Wood. This is like telling an old joke twice.

"In the beginning the world was so made that certain signs come before certain events."

The majority of women have nerves—and that's what it takes to wear the new styles.

The Bill, Not the Suit

"A good tailor can always give a customer a good fit if he tries," stated a writer in the Tailor's Magazine. Thereupon Smith remarked: "At least when his customer gets the bill."

Author Indignant

The popular author entered the publisher's sanctum, seething with indignation.

"What's this I hear—you want some alterations in my manuscript?" he demanded. "I've made some libelous statements, have I? Where?"

"You have," said the publisher, calmly. "Here, on page 33, you say the heroine, who lives in Pittsburgh, clutched the air convulsively."

"Well, what's wrong with that?" demanded the irate writer.

History Jossed

You thought the story of the Pled Piper was just a myth, didn't you? Well, it isn't, for myths do not have dates and this tale has one. It was yesterday—544 years ago. On July 23, 1374, a stranger came into the little city of Hamel, in Brunswick, and told the city council that, for a consideration, he would rid the place of all its rats.

The council agreed and he went to bat. Producing a pipe—not the briar sort—he blew a tune and all the rodents of Hamel followed him to the river Weser, where all were drowned. The council, however, refused to make good. "You have no written contract," they retorted to his pleadings, "and, besides, what are you going to do about it?" "I'll endeavor to make that clear to you in about seven minutes by the town clock," said the Piper, taking out his saxophone and blowing a dulcet jazz. All the boys in Hamel, this time followed him out of town. But one came back, a lame boy who couldn't keep up. He said the Piper had led the procession straight into a hill, which had opened for them and closed behind. If you don't believe it, there's the hill today—and the date.

Ship of State

Elbert H. Gray, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute at a meeting held recently in Hotel Commodore, New York city, gave an address on "The Ship of State," concluding as follows:

"We have reason to expect, and I firmly believe, that now and henceforth, more than ever before in our history, a spirit of unity will pervade and control the minds of all the citizens from the president down; that each one will recognize a personal responsibility to his country and to all its inhabitants; that strictest economy in expenditures and management, lowest costs, and proper compensation for faithful performance will be the universal sentiment; and that order, stability, advancement and prosperity will surely follow."

"... 'Call on, O Ship of State! Sail on, O Union, strong and great! Humanity with all its fears, With all the hopes of future years, In hanging breathless and afraid, We know what Master said the day that Workmen wrought thy ribs of steel, Who made each mast, and sail, and What anvil rang, what hammers beat, In what a forge and what a heat Were shaped the anchors of thy hope! Fear not each sudden sound and shock, 'Tis of the wave and not the rock; 'Tis but the flapping of the sail, And not a rent made by the gale; In spite of rocks and tempests' roar, In spite of false lights on the shore, Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea! Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee, Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, Our faith triumphant o'er our fears, Are all with thee—are all with thee!"

Old Times Still Tick
The first American clockmaker, was Eli Terry. "If you had been upon a dusty country road in Connecticut about the year 1800 you might have seen a plainly dressed young man come riding with a clock strapped to each side of his saddle and a third fastened crosswise behind him." That was the way Eli Terry sold his clocks, and some of the original clocks are still running in the very farm houses where they have ticked off the minutes of American history since the days of Adams and Jefferson. Luther Goddard, a Massachusetts preacher, was the first to make watches in America, but foreign competition forced him to retire from the field, and Luther went back to preaching. Then for a time the art languished—to be revived by Edward Howard, born in Hingham in 1813, who was the real founder of the American watch industry. A workman in Howard's factory in Roxbury was P. S. Bartlett, who, when asked what he was doing, said: "I am working for a company which makes seven complete watches a day."

Great was the merriment at this reply. "Where on earth could you sell seven watches a day?" they shouted.—Detroit News.

MAN ABOUT TOWN

"That best portion of a good man's life—his little, nameless, 'unremembered' acts of kindness and of love."

So speaks Wordsworth, a master poet. None of these "little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love" are really forgotten. All good men have done acts of kindness which they do not remember, but which have been ineffaceably impressed upon the memories of others. It is through these subtle, pleasing remembrances that one gains the reputation of being kind. Numerous little, unseen acts of kindness would gradually soften the coldest heart, but nothing is so kind as kindness in a child's heart.

Agents Richardson and Gilmora of the Lowell Humane society have come upon many deeds of kindness to animals, but the following incident has many peculiarly interesting touches. Two youngsters, about six or seven years old, bred like real Americans and marked and smeared with dirt from playing real American games, walked into the Humane society office recently.

"Is this the 'human' society, mister?" inquired one of the boys of Agent Richardson who was seated at his desk.

"Yes, my boy, what do you want?" queried Mr. Richardson, interestedly. "Well, we found this little bird in the street," chimed the two, "and it couldn't fly."

For the first time, Agent Richardson noticed that one of the youngsters held a tiny sparrow, twitching and peeping out from between his hollowed palms. He examined it and found that its leg was broken and that it was hurt otherwise, possibly by an automobile. On talking with the boys, he found that they had walked about two miles to bring the bird to his office and one of them had held it in his hand carefully and kindly the entire distance. After encouraging the little one and pleasing them with some little rewards, Mr. Richardson assured them that the bird would receive the best of care. Its injuries were so serious that it had to be killed.

The particularly interesting phase of the incident is that the little fellows seemed to constitute themselves the protectors of sparrows, for only a few days elapsed before they appeared at the office the second time with another little sparrow.

They told the same story: that they had come nearly two miles and had found the bird on the street unable to fly. This time the sparrow was not injured so severely, so Agent Richardson told the boys to let it go among some bushes.

Not long after they left the office they were back again to say that they released it on the banks of the Concord river and that after a little while it flew away. The lads then went away satisfied that the kindness and carresses and warmth from their hands had cured the sparrow. They traveled homeward feeling like real Samaritans.

"Not always actions show the lad; we know the kindness is not, therefore, kind."

So speaks Pope, but judging from the above incident and many others which the agents of the Humane society have witnessed, Pope's theory may be hit awry. Would anyone doubt that kindness or love had moved the hearts of those little fellows?

The Sun printed a story yesterday about the line store at Jackman, Me. There are a considerable number of similar stores scattered along the frontier of Canada and the Pine Tree state. The boundaries of the state, on the east and west, most of the way run along straight north and south lines. The lines are marked at frequent intervals by pyramidal cast-iron posts with the inscription "Webster-Ashburnham Treaty" and the date of the treaty's ratification on the side. It is easy of course for a person to take his place beside one of the posts with one part of himself in the United States and the other in Canada. What would happen to such a person if the officers of the law of either nation should undertake to arrest him is an interesting problem for both countries in the past have shown a disposition to be extremely jealous of any trespassing upon their sovereignty at the international boundary. At a line store not far from Limestone, in the northeast corner of Aroostook county, a painted line used to run diagonally across a room that was used for selling booze. The bar itself was on wheels. When scouts reported officers of New Brunswick approaching the bar would be wheeled into the United States. When Maine officers hove into sight it would be trundled into Canada. As far as I was ever able to learn, the officers of the two countries never happened to arrive at the same time. If they had the barkeep very likely might have taken his stand astride the international boundary and defied the officers to divide

BOBBIE RIDES WAVES ON A "FISH"

Dad may talk of the "big one that got away," but Bobbie "caught" his fish and hangs on to it. The tighter Bobbie hangs the better he'll get along in the wild waves at the sea shore. Bobbie's big fish is made from Baka wood—lighter even than cork. It makes a fine surf board, riding like a bubble on the ocean. Bobbie's 4 years old, but it doesn't make him tired to carry the big fish on dry land, and it doesn't seem to make the fish tired to carry Bobbie in the brine.

him. In winter "line stores" bob up all along the St. John river that forms the northern boundary of Maine. Shanties are torn down onto the ice, that usually forms early in November, and booze flows freely until the following May. Smuggling operations are also greatly facilitated by the line stores all along the boundary.

I note that a writer in one of the Lawrence papers has a complaint to make against service between this city and Canobie lake given by the Massachusetts Northeastern Railway company. He says the service to the resort "is fairly good on week days, but on Sundays and holidays it is far below what it should be." Perhaps this is true, as far as Lawrence is concerned, but looking at the matter from the Lowell end, I should say that just the reverse applied to service between this city and Canobie. On Sundays and holidays it is fairly frequent and there is little changing of cars. On week days, however, there are innumerable waits at turnouts and at Pelham, one must get out of one car, wait 15 or 20 minutes, and then board another to finish the trip. This applies to both the outbound and inbound trips. The fare to Canobie, at one time only 15 cents, has been boosted away beyond that figure. It is practically impossible to obtain any information about the running time of the cars in Lowell because the company maintains no office here.

AGREE ON HIGH COURT OF JUSTICE

THE HAGUE, July 22.—The jurists' conference today by a final vote unanimously agreed to the entire project of the high court of international justice.

"After all the members' votes" had been recorded, Elthi Root said, he was more than pleased with the result. "Some times when you think you have reached the top of the mountain," he said, "you fall down again, but this time I feel confident our work will stand."

The project will be sent to the council of the League of Nations with an explanatory memorandum which the conference is drafting.

FIRST VOLLEY BALL CONTEST YESTERDAY

The first volley ball contest between representatives of the North and South commons was won by the latter yesterday afternoon by the score of 35 to 14. Likewise, the baseball game between the same units was won by the South common players by the score of 5 to 0. Miss Olga Shay and Patrick Mullane, two of the playground supervisors, had charge of the volley ball and baseball contests respectively.

All such contests are included in the plan of the park department playground idea and all the grounds in the city are represented by picket teams.

The volley ball game for girls yesterday was the first of the season and opened at 2:30 o'clock and was a great success, providing exercise for many girls. After an hour and one-half of intense rivalry and lively play the

CRAZED INMATE SHOT

Insane Patient at Bridgewater Killed in Battle With Prison Guards

BRIDGEWATER, July 23.—Lloyd Kingdon, a negro, 45 years old, an inmate of the insane department at the state farm, was shot and killed by Joseph F. Pollen, an officer at the institution, during a riot yesterday among insane prisoners. Three attendants were injured, one seriously. They are:

Edwin S. Kingsley, officer in charge of the ward where insane patients are kept, who suffered a compound fracture of the right arm caused by being struck with a piece of iron pipe in the hands of one of the rioting prisoners, and six knife wounds in body. One of the knife wounds was inflicted just above the heart, one in the right hip, another in the right arm and three in the left arm. He was first treated by Dr. Pierce Leavitt of Brockton, who happened to be at the hospital. His condition is serious.

William H. Journer, who had his hip slashed open and a knife wound in abdomen.

Charles F. Bolles, who had a gut one and a half inches deep over his right hip.

The two latter are being treated at the State Farm infirmary. Their condition is not serious.

The disturbance happened about 2 o'clock, as the prisoners were being led out into the recreation yard following their dinner. About 20 men were in the line drawn up in pairs. The three injured officers were in front of the men, with Officer Fred A. Shattuck bringing up the rear.

Shattuck turned to look the door leading from the cell room into the main corridor. As he did so Kingdon and another prisoner, known as Antonio Blarest, 45 years old, a negro, the third couple from the rear of the line, turned from the corridor, ran down a flight of stairs and jumped at the attendant, threw him against the wall, grabbed his keys and started on a run toward the cell room, where they intended, the officials believe, to release the rest of the prisoners.

Kingsley, Journer and Bolles, however, sprang at the madmen and blocked their path. Journer was the first to be reached by the two men, one of whom plunged a knife into his hip and slashed his mouth. The attendant fell, blood pouring from his wounds.

Officers Shattuck by this time had sounded a riot alarm to the prison department on the other side of the institution, and Kingdon and Blarest had made their way to the top of the stairs leading to the cell room, where several violently insane prisoners were confined.

Several officers from another part of the institution, headed by Joseph M. Pollen, a police officer at the farm for 25 years, who was armed with a riot gun, rushed to the assistance of their brother officers. Pollen met Kingdon at the top of the stairway. The latter then turned and started to run down the stairs. Officer Pollen noticed that the negro was armed with a piece of iron pipe in one hand and a large bottle in the other and, being aware that he was considered to be the most dangerous man at the farm, took no chances, and fired.

The negro crumpled and then started to crawl back up the stairway. Blarest, who had remained at the top, went to the assistance of his fellow prisoner and dragged him to the cell usually occupied by Kingdon. Shutting the door after him. As they reached the interior of the cell, Kingdon collapsed. It was not known at

It's Easy Now to Curl
Hair to Stay Curled

To curl the hair, to stay curled, nothing equals the simple simerine method. It is a little liquid simerine is applied with a clean tooth brush before going up the hair, the loveliest wavy effect imaginable will be in evidence in three hours, and this will last a long time, regardless of temperature or humidity.

This hairless method is not to be compared with curling by means of a hot iron because, instead of injuring the hair, it is really beneficial. A few ounces of liquid simerine, which may be procured at any drug store, will last for months. The best way is to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. The curlsness will look perfectly "natural," and the hair will be beautifully glossy, yet without the least greasiness or stickiness.—Adv.

that time whether Blarest was armed. Waiting for a minute or two after the two men had reached the cell, the officers went to the door and with revolvers levelled through the bars, called upon Blarest to open the door and surrender. He complied and when the officers reached Kingdon inside the cell he was dead.

A search of the dead man's clothing revealed two razors and a knife. The piece of iron pipe and bottle which he carried in his hands when he was shot were found lying beside his body. A razor and a knife were also found on Blarest. The officials of the institution say that the knives were ordinary table knives ground down to a dagger point.

GREEK KING LANDS ON TURKISH SOIL

RODOSTO, European Turkey, July 22 (By Associated Press).—King Alexander of Greece with his staff landed at Rodosto this afternoon after the disembarkation of Greek troops. He was received with wildest enthusiasm by the local Greeks, headed by the bishop. Girls strewed flowers before the monarch, who went to the cathedral, where a Te Deum was sung. The bishop expressed joy that a Greek king had set foot for the first time on Turkish territory at Rodosto.

The Turks had only five big guns on the hills surrounding the town. Consequently the Greek battleships Averoff and Kilkis, the two British battleships and two British dreadnoughts, which appeared off the town early this morning, landed only a few shells over the batteries before the Turkish soldiers and civilians became panicky and fled.

ABSENCE OF H. C. OF L.
IN MADAGASCAR

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—High cost of living has never hit Madagascar. Kendall K. Kay, former California newspaperman, has written to friends here. Best prime beef sells for three and one-half cents and rice for one and one-half cents, he said. Pineapples can be had for one-half cent each and big lobsters for two cents

FIVE ESCAPE FROM MAINE
INSANE HOSPITAL

AUGUSTA, Me., July 23.—The local company of the national guard was called out late yesterday afternoon to help in the hunt for five men, two of them murderers, who escaped shortly after noon from the criminal insane department of the Augusta state hospital.

The soldiers, summoned by the militia call of eight blasts—a signal that had not been heard in this city for many years—were helped in their search by all the available members of the police department and by parties of citizens. The dragnet was quickly spread throughout the terrorized city and in the suburbs, and two of the fugitives, Thomas J. Mulken of Portland, said to be the most dangerous of the five, and George Lancaster of Skowhegan, were captured.

The five inmates escaped by overpowering two of the attendants at the hospital, locking them in a room and taking their keys. The struggle made by the attendants was heard by another employe at the institution, and he came running to learn the cause of the commotion. He interrupted the escaping men as they were on their way through the hall toward a door leading to the hospital yard. He was seized, bound and tossed into the room where his fellow-workers were imprisoned. The convicts then quickly scaled a fence and disappeared.

Three Still at Large
AUGUSTA, Me., July 23.—Three of the five men who escaped from the criminal insane department of the Augusta state hospital after locking three attendants into a room late yesterday were still at liberty today.

ONE KILLED IN ELECTRICAL STORM

KEZZAR FALLS, Me., July 23.—Herbert S. Doe, aged about 37, was killed by lightning during an electrical storm which passed over western Maine early today, accompanied by heavy rain. He was struck by a bolt while closing a window. Two of the other seven occupants of the farmhouse, situated near Stevens' corner, were stunned.

Roofs were splintered, and a fire followed but it was extinguished without causing much additional damage.

RAID I.W.W. QUARTERS
VALPARAISO, July 22.—A raid by the police on what is said to have been I.W.W. headquarters was made today. Twenty-seven persons were arrested and anarchistic literature and a large quantity of arms and explosives were seized.

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

THE Standard Oil Company Of New York was a pioneer in the oil refining industry. It has made petroleum history by constantly improving the quality of its products, and by discovering and developing new ones.

Socony products and service have kept pace with every step of progress made in the petroleum industry—and with every requirement of those who depend upon it in any way.

As a result, Socony gasoline today represents half a century of refining experience. It is truly the standard of quality motor fuels. Socony stations are ever increasing in number because motorists are demanding, more and more, a uniformly clean and powerful gasoline, easily obtainable.

Because Socony is always uniform, it always gives full mileage with low carbonization. And this is true whether you buy it in New Harbor or Buffalo. The economy of a permanent carburetor adjustment is possible only when you can obtain your regular gasoline whenever you need it. Socony service enables Socony users to do this.

For complete motoring satisfaction, begin using Socony regularly today.

Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

ONCE A COOLIE NOW RULER OVER CHINESE

BY JACK MASON.
Manager, Far Eastern Bureau, N.E.A.
TIENTSIN, China, July 22.—One of the most picturesque figures in all China is Yang Yi-teh (pronounced "Yong-e-dur").

Immensely rich, he rules his district like an autocrat, with a highly efficient private army, and meanwhile

GEN. YANG I. TE

YANG YI-TEH IN UNIFORM OF CHINESE GENERAL.

spends large sums educating thousands of Chinese boys and girls.

Twenty years ago he was a coolie, working on the railroad, with nothing but his shirt on his back. Somehow, by devious ways and strong character, he raised himself to a position where he is respected, or feared, as the case may warrant, by all Chinese.

But education, of which he had none, is his hobby. He has turned the police buildings in Tientsin into schools, where "his boys" are taught. All wear uniforms bought by Yang Yi-teh. Recently he reviewed one batch of them—over 1200 manly young chaps, who would have grown up in ignorance except for his help.

Where he gets his money is a mystery, not to be closely investigated. He spends it liberally.

For instance, when his mother-in-law died two years ago, Yang Yi-teh gave her "the finest funeral ever held in China," costing $30,000!

HARDING'S STAND ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

MARION, O., July 22.—Senator Harding's stand on the League of Nations, outlined yesterday in his speech formally accepting the republican nomination for the presidency, was expected today by his managers here to furnish the chief bone of contention during the next state of the political campaign.

Democratic demands that the candidate make a more specific exposition of details of the proposed "understanding" are fully expected here, and the senator's friends declare he will be ready to answer. In that connection they singled out today one paragraph in the acceptance speech as indicating what trend his reply might follow.

"If men call for more specific details," he said, "I remind them that moral commitments are broad and all-inclusive, and we are contemplating peoples in the concord of humanity's advancement. From our own viewpoint the program is specifically American and we mean to be Americans first, to all the world."

For the immediate future, however, the feeling here is that the fight should be left to develop along natural lines.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatrical Press Agent

If you like a good, stirring, vigorous picture of action without any of the vulgarity that sometimes accompanies such productions, don't fail to see "The Fourteenth Man," the vehicle in which Robert Warwick is being starred at the Merrimack Square theatre on the current program. The story provides a goodly mixture of romance and adventure, punctuated with thrills and dramatic suspense. Another entertaining feature is Billie Burke in "Away Goes Prudence," an exceptionally funny story of a modern girl's adventure. A comedy, the International News and a Burton Holmes travel picture round out the bill.

DECORATE GRAVE OF FR. JOHN DE VALLES

FALL RIVER, July 22.—Tribute to the memory of the Rev. John B. De Valles, heroic war chaplain of the 191st regiment, who died in New Bedford, was paid yesterday on behalf of the Portuguese government by Capt. Jose Manoel De Carvalho, commander of the cruiser Sao Gabriel, now in port here. Simple, but impressive, the ceremonies included the erection on the grave of the chaplain of a gold shield inscribed with a permanent record of the occasion.

The Rev. Fr. De Valles, who was Portuguese by nativity, and who even before the war commanded the good wishes of his fellow countrymen in many American cities for signal services in their behalf, left as one result of his tireless efforts in France a national reputation in his native country. Few figures in the war received more solemn tribute in Portugal than that of the Rev. Fr. De Valles, whose name is today a tradition in both military and ecclesiastical circles in Lisbon, officers of the Sao Gabriel say. It was at the instance of Capt. Carvalho, and with the support of his fellow officers, that effort was made to leave behind them a lasting evidence of the respect of the Portuguese people and a formal recognition by the government of that republic.

WATCH SERVANTS IN BLACKMAILING PLOT

PROVIDENCE, July 22.—Threats not only against the life of Mrs. Mary D. A. Sayles, but also against her grandson, Paul Coe Nicholson, heir to the Sayles and Nicholson millions, are now said to have been contained in the blackmailing letters recently received by the Pawtucket widow. The Nicholson boy is but two years old and as friends of the family today expressed it, "his grandfather's idol."

The fact that Mrs. Sayles' love for the boy was played upon by the blackmailers leads the police and detectives employed on the case to believe the letters were written by someone thoroughly familiar with the family life of the wealthy widow. A careful watch of servants of the two families is therefore being kept and the present whereabouts of former servants who have been discharged is being investigated.

AUTO-TALK

In changing from a normal size to an oversize tire, don't forget to change the speedometer gear if you want to have an accurate speedometer. The rule to follow is, the number of teeth in the large speedometer gear, be twice the diameter of the tire in the bearings, spindle bushings or inches. That is, a 32 by 3 1/2 tire steering connecting rod bushings. Do should have a 64 toothed gear, while mountable rims not firmly bolted to a 34 by 4 tire should have a gear with 68 teeth.

Common of Wobbly Wheels
Wobbly wheels cause the tires to wear twice as fast as they should. The wheels, therefore, should be watched constantly and tightened up as soon as they show a sign of wobble. Worn bearings might cause looseness in the rear wheels, and the front wheels wobble because of play in the bearings, spindle bushings or inches. That is, a 32 by 3 1/2 tire steering connecting rod bushings. Do should have a 64 toothed gear, while mountable rims not firmly bolted to the wheels may also cause trouble.

Keep Heads in Shaking
If drivers would keep their heads with them when their machines skid, there would be less skidding accidents. Remember to steer in the direction of the skid at the same instant. Better control will result if the brakes are applied gradually on and off.
Statistics figure that the populations of the various countries of the world average 110 women to every 100 men.

The Polytechnians believe that the moon at its waning is devoured by the spirits of the dead.

GEERS DRIVES GOLDIE TODD TO VICTORY

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 23.—The trotting record for the season was broken at the Grand Circuit races at Recreation park yesterday by the Massachusetts gelding, Charley Rex, owned by Chauncey Sears of Fall River. In winning the 2:05 trot, the trotter from the Murphy stable circled the oval in 2:04 1/2 in the second heat. It was not the only sensational performance of the day, for the long shot, Royal Palm, upset the talent in the stake for 2:13 trotters, beating a big field and trotting in 2:08 1/2, which was the season's record until beaten a few minutes later by the New England trotter.

"Pop" Geers kept on winning, landing the 2:05 pace, his fourth victory in three days. The Wall-Cox won his first heat of the season, The Great Miss Morris landing the second heat of the 3-year-old trot and then being shut out in the final.

The spectators had decided that Alta Donovan was best in the 2:13 stake, she selling for $100. Hollywood Naam 170, King of the World 160 and Royal Palm 150 each, and the field 110.

Valentine, who is leading the money winning drivers, drove Royal Palm, and the Ohio man hustled the big ungainly trotter to the front at the start of the first heat and kept him there more of the time. The Ohio man was the contender in the first and the favorite took up the task in the next two, but neither could get to the side of the son of Peter the Great.

The second heat was trotted in 2:04 1/2, equalling the record for the season, later beaten by Charley Rex.

Do Loe was favored for the 2:05 trot, but Baron Ceganto was best in the first round after Charley Rex made a break. In the next two rounds, the Ohio man trotted all the time and he breezed in the second heat 2:04 1/2, repeating the third in 2:05 1/2.

Louie Crattan, the favorite, won the first heat of the 2:13 pace, then the Canadian mare faded, the second going to Johnnie Quirk.

LEESE LANDS TWO SHORT SHIP RACES

NORTHAMPTON, July 23.—Billy Leese, the Brooklyn trainer, was the top-notch reinsman at the Bay State circuit races here yesterday, winning the 2:17 pace with the four-year-old Billy, Iva Loo, then showing the way to the 2:24 trotters with the Bingara J. J. A. won handily, then the Lynn mare, won the 2:16 trot.

Leese had plenty of opposition, however, especially in the pacing event, in which Betty was favored, forcing his mount to step the third round in 2:24 to flash first under the wire, while the first heat went to Jack Kinney's choice, the 2:23 pace.

Electric McKerron, the choice in the 2:16 trotting event, grabbed the first heat in a close finish with Bobby C. and Radiator, but the second round did not seem to be a serious contender, even after the judges had a heart-to-heart talk with his driver.

AMATEUR BASEBALL

PROHIBS ALL SET FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

LINCOLN, Neb., July 23.—With the national convention finished and a ticket placed in the field for the fall campaign, prohibition delegates today were on their way home and the newly elected national committee was making its plans for the coming fight with the democrats and republicans.

The convention adjourned shortly after midnight after naming Aaron S. Watkins, Germantown, Ohio, school teacher, as its standard bearer, and D. Leigh Colvin, New York, author, as his running mate. The nominations came after William Jennings Bryan, nominated Wednesday, had sent word that he could not accept because he wished to remain a democrat, although he had not decided how he would vote this fall.

The national committee expects to issue a statement making known its feeling toward Senator Harding's prohibition pronouncement in his speech of acceptance. Individual members said it seemed unsatisfactory at first glance, but they wanted time to study it.

CEREMONY TO SPEED PARTING ATHLETES

NEW YORK, July 23.—Impressive ceremonies will mark the departure of the American Olympic team from New York Monday for the seventh Olympic games at Antwerp next month.

Members of all teams sailing on the transport Princess Matoika will assemble at a New York theatre, where there will be farewell speeches and reading of messages from the secretaries of war and navy, governors of various states and other dignitaries.

The names of the members of the team then will be read. It may be necessary to eliminate some of those selected after the final at Boston Saturday, unless the subscription fund is increased within the next few days.

After final announcement of the personnel, an hour will be allotted to farewells for relatives and friends of the athletes will not be permitted to enter the government pier to witness the sailing of the transport.

Shortly after 2 p. m. the teams, officials, members of the American Olympic committee and others will assemble in front of the theatre and headed by three government bands will parade to the North river front. There they will embark in navy launches for Hoboken, where the athletes will board the Princess Matoika and steam away. Sailors from river craft and harbor forts will be the final farewells.

CHELSEA DISGUSTED WITH BAY STATE

CHELSEA, July 23.—Plans to stop the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway from operating cars in Chelsea and Revere and to have their lines replaced with service from the Boston Elevated were laid last evening at a protest meeting in Mayor Breath's office.

Twenty-five prominent business men in Chelsea attended the meeting and laid plans for securing legislative action to build a tunnel from Boston to Chelsea, and also to have the Elevated's lines extended to Revere. Bad car service and alleged mismanagement of affairs on the Chelsea division of the Bay State system prompted the meeting, the men declared.

Condemning the present management of the Chelsea division, the meeting voted their demand on the trustees to appoint some one with ability to handle the division properly. To add strength to the movement a sub-committee was appointed to confer with men in Revere to get the support in further action from that city. It is understood business men in both cities are frankly disgusted with the service.

Former Senator John E. Beck, Harry F. Smith, Charles H. Black, William J. Murdoch and John G. Boardman comprise the sub-committee.

ARMY FOOD SALE ONLY IN BIG LOTS

BOSTON, July 23.—Wholesale and community buying will be the only available sources by which people of New England may benefit by the sale of more than 5,000,000 pounds of canned corned and roast beef at the army supply base, South Boston, next week.

Colonel Hugh Gallagher, in charge of the army base, yesterday declared that as the sales of all supplies at pre-war prices will be made only in 10-case lots, he recommends that people in each municipality club together and buy in large quantities, also suggesting that such a plan could be successfully carried out by community, civic and social organizations.

More than 1,500,000 pounds of bacon in 15-pound cans will sell for $2.75 per can; 500,000 one pound cans of corned beef are listed to sell at 40 cents a can; 100,000 six-pound cans of roast beef will sell at 90 cents a can, and 100,000 pounds of corned beef in six-pound cans will go at $1.40 a can.

The meats, all excellently packed and prepared by some of America's leading producers, will be sold upon application or through orders received through the mail. A reduction of 6 per cent. will be given on all orders totalling $10.00 or more.

PREMIER ANXIOUS TO SETTLE QUESTION

LONDON, July 23.—Premier Lloyd George told a deputation of the parliamentary committee of the trades union congress today that he was anxious as any man to see the Irish question settled on a basis acceptable to the majority of the Irish people. He declared that the government was not afraid to accept a truce but that it could not permit overt outrages and murders. It was prepared to go a long way to letting Ireland manage her own affairs if the necessary assurance was forthcoming, he said.

The premier suggested that labor could use its influence to secure a settlement.

Pupil Unthrones Her Teacher As Queen of the Briny Ocean

BETTY GRIMES
CHARLOTTE BOYLE

Neptune may be jealous of America's swim stars who are to go to Antwerp, but about all he can really do about it is to go "take a jump in the ocean." In mentioning new athletic marvels, Babe Ruth's name somehow seems to weave into it.

"They're calling Miss Ethelble Bleibrey the 'Babe Ruth' of the ocean now just like they called Man o' War the 'Babe Ruth' of the race track a few weeks ago."

It resulted from the Olympic finals at Manhattan beach bath, New York, recently, where Miss Bleibrey set a new world's sprint record for 300 meters, free style swim. Her time was 4 minutes and 40 seconds, as against the international standard mark of 4 minutes and 45 seconds, established by Miss Fannie Durack of Australia and Miss Frances Schuch of the United States.

Teacher and Pupil
Back of that race there is a story of how a pupil took the laurels away from her closest friend and teacher.

Just two years ago Miss Bleibrey was 16 years old. She became interested in the sea. She tucked her gold curls up under her rubber cap and decided to make swimming a business. On the same beach there ruled a swimming nymph, who also had beautiful golden hair. She was Miss Charlotte Boyle, who had just unthroned

GAMBLING CRUSADE ON AT FENWAY

BOSTON, July 23.—Two more men were rounded up yesterday by the Back Bay police in Capt. Thomas F. Goode's crusade against gambling on baseball games at Fenway park. The men, arrested by Patrolmen Lowmyer and Carey charged with gambling on a baseball game gave their names as Charles Deane, 37, 14 Charter street, Boston, and Harry Brown, 35 years, of 23 Almont street, Malden.

CAN FLY HIGHER FOR LESS MONEY

LOS ANGELES, July 23.—The high cost of flying went into a nose dive here when managers of the principal commercial flying fields announced a 100 per cent. reduction in the price of airplane rides.

Tourists to Southern California with an ambition to rise above other persons have been paying $10 for flights of short duration. The new price is $5 the ride per person.

Passenger flight prices will be continued to be reduced until they are lower than taxicab fares, C. S. Ellett, manager of one of the companies, has declared.

FOCH REPLIES TO JEWISH GREETING

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 23.—Col. Harry Cutler of this city, chairman of the Jewish welfare board, today received from Marshal Foch a cablegram in acknowledgment of a message sent the French people on Bastille day. The cable reads:

"Very much touched by the sentiment which you express to us on the occasion of July 14, Bastille day. Pray transmit to the Jewish welfare board my best regards and wishes for your prosperity."

This was signed by Marshal Foch.

COX BUSY ON ACCEPTANCE SPEECH

COLUMBUS, O., July 23.—Preparation of his address for acceptance of the democratic presidential nomination on Aug. 7 was the principal task today before Gov. Cox. He was to leave here at 2:40 o'clock for his home at Traill's End, near Dayton, where he will be notified, with the intention of devoting all of next week to drafting his acceptance speech.

generally ride by side, each watching the other like a cat watches a mouse. They had reached the state of rivalry, when friendship shades into jealousy. "It's heart-breaking," said Miss Boyle. "It's simply awful," said Miss Bleibrey.

When one sprinted the other sprinted. When one slowed up the other also slowed up. One of her favorite stunts is what she calls a "Municipal Special." It's full of jumps and grace.

Now she holds all northwestern swimming records for women and has added the national high diving championship to her long list of records. These water nymphs aren't so very delicate. Miss Boyle is the heaviest with her 155 pounds. Miss Grimes is next with 145, while Miss Bleibrey's weight is 125.

SAYS MORE PAY FATAL TO ROAD

Gives Lowell District's Deficit for Eight Months as $70,574

BOSTON, July 23.—Wage concessions to the employees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway, in the road's present straitened financial condition, will result in disintegration, probably complete suspension of the service, Homer Loring, chairman of the public trustees, yesterday told the arbitration board considering the employees' demands at the state house.

Under the present wage agreement the system is operating at a loss to such an extent that the management is now considering further abandonment of profitable lines, he stated.

During the year ended June 1, he informed Chairman O'Sullivan, a member of the board, the company passed the payment of interest on bonds and dividends on stocks, the amount of approximately $3,000,000. Furthermore a deferred mortgage payment of unpaid bond interest, amounting to $461,623 and a penalty of $92,325 must be paid in December with the prospects of meeting this obligation dubious, he said.

Loring spent the whole day on the stand and described the company's financial status exhaustively, plotted in his testimony by Attorney Henry F. Hurlbert, counsel for the road.

Since the receivership went into effect in 1915, he said, 151 miles of lines had been discontinued out of the system of approximately 900 miles.

He said he doubted if the trustees would be able to avoid discontinuing further lines. Those dropped had not paid, some of them never in the history of the road, he said, and their elimination was a gradually effected and carefully studied program.

Many lines were continued for months with the company taking substantial losses in the effort to maintain service for the public, he stated, but when the equipment became useless through wear the lines were finally dropped instead of built up. The company's treasury could not stand the strain of carrying the burden, he asserted.

Ten of the important divisions were operated at a deficit during the eight months period ending last April, Loring supplying the following figures to the board: Chelsea, $173,312; Lynn, $118,605; Quincy, $275,411; Brockton, $125,249; Lawrence, $112,351; Hyde Park, $95,535; Taunton, $65,637; Lowell, $70,574; Salem, $119,669; and the Hingham-Hull section, $3597.

Eliminating two of the most expensive concessions sought by the men the demands still call for additional expenditures of $4,562,050, an amount that the trustees will find impossible to raise, he said.

Many communities wherein the road operated lines at a loss assisted the company financially out of the tax levy, he stated. The men in those sections should be willing to work for less money until the system is on its feet financially, Loring said, the trustees believed.

As to the demand for an eight-hour day, Loring said the road must begin on the present nine-hour basis if it is to be run at all. If the demand for time and a half for Sundays and holidays is granted, he said, it would automatically result in the suspension of Sunday and holiday service over large sections of the system. Eight months of the year the Sunday and holiday traffic is small and yields no profitable revenue, he declared.

"The trustees believe they are paying the men a living wage," Loring asserted. "The trustees never had the slightest difficulty in getting men to work for the present wages. If the wage were not a living wage we could not get sufficient help, whereas we have a continual surplus of applications for work. The railway business cannot afford to pay a luxurious wage, it cannot afford to pay more than a living wage. And we are paying a living wage at present."

Eliminating two of the most expensive concessions sought by the men the demands still call for additional expenditures of $4,562,050, an amount that the trustees will find impossible to raise, he said.

Many communities wherein the road operated lines at a loss assisted the company financially out of the tax levy, he stated. The men in those sections should be willing to work for less money until the system is on its feet financially, Loring said, the trustees believed.

As to the demand for an eight-hour day, Loring said the road must begin on the present nine-hour basis if it is to be run at all. If the demand for time and a half for Sundays and holidays is granted, he said, it would automatically result in the suspension of Sunday and holiday service over large sections of the system. Eight months of the year the Sunday and holiday traffic is small and yields no profitable revenue, he declared.

"The trustees believe they are paying the men a living wage," Loring asserted. "The trustees never had the slightest difficulty in getting men to work for the present wages. If the wage were not a living wage we could not get sufficient help, whereas we have a continual surplus of applications for work. The railway business cannot afford to pay a luxurious wage, it cannot afford to pay more than a living wage. And we are paying a living wage at present."

Pet Chimpanzee Will Thread it for You

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Professor W. F. Shepherd has a pet chimpanzee who can thread a needle as well as any man—awkwardly, but eventually. The photographer snapped the ape while he was holding a needle between his nose and his left hand and slipping the thread through the eye with his right hand. Shepherd's pet can also sew buttons on his uniform.

ARMY RE-ORGANIZATION

Revolutionizing of Country's

Military Establishment no

Easy Task

WASHINGTON, July 23.—America's military establishment is being practically revolutionized under the terms of the new army reorganization bill which became effective July 1. Army officers say the work will not be completed for some months because of the broad scope of the measure passed at the last session of congress to place the land forces on a permanent peace basis.

While the regular army will contain only 295,000 officers and men scattered over the country and the insular possessions, it will be so arranged in conjunction with the national guard and the reserve that rapid expansion of the nation's fighting forces in time of emergency will be possible.

The national guard will have about 400,000 officers and men, but the strength of the reserve has not yet been worked out and will depend largely on the enlistment of eligibles. The regular army reserve as it formerly existed, composed of former enlisted men furloughed to the reserve to complete their enlistment period, ceased to exist as such on July 1. In its place there is established the enlisted reserve corps and officers' reserve corps. The members of the former, except veterans of the world war, are required to enlist for three years. Veterans of the world war may enlist for only one year.

The officers' reserve corps is composed of officers who held temporary or reserve commissions during the war emergency and graduates of the student officers' training school.

To accomplish the reorganization of the national guard and the initial organization of the reserve, the army bill provides for a general committee to be composed of regular army general staff officers and an equal number of reserve or national guard officers. In addition, 52 other committees, representing each state and territory, will arrange the national guard organization in each state and territory. Some of these committees have not been appointed by the governors and consequently this work has not yet been put under way.

While no full plan of organization has been made public, a tentative plan to be placed before the committees would divide the country into nine districts with an army corps in each. This corps would consist of one regular, one guard and two reserve divisions, so organized that in an emergency the two reserve divisions, which theoretically would be the only ones much below war strength, could be filled up with selective service men. A full quota of officers drawn from the officers' reserve corps would be available for these divisions at all times.

The new regular army strength provides for approximately 17,000 commissioned officers. To provide this number about 7000 reserve and temporary officers have been kept on duty and it is the plan to reach the full officer strength by commissioning about 7000 such officers and enlisted men in the permanent army. Officers and men to be so commissioned will be selected by a board, known as the Pershing board, headed by Gen. Pershing and including six other officers.

The bill broadens the scope of the reserve officers training corps at the various educational institutions over the country, provides instructors and material for the schools and also authorizes summer camps to last six weeks for advanced training of the student officers. Graduates of the training corps may be commissioned in the organized reserve.

There organization measure further provides that the head of the militia bureau of the war department, which under the reorganization has jurisdiction over national guard and reserve affairs, shall be a national guard officer not below the rank of major who will receive the pay and allowances and have the rank while on duty of a major general in the army.

The offices of the second and third assistant secretaries of war are abolished by the measure and their duties absorbed by the assistant secretary of war, who will be charged with the procurement of all military supplies and plans for the mobilization of material and industrial establishment needed in time of war.

AWARDED SOCIETY OF ARTS MEDAL

LONDON, July 23.—Albert Abraham Michelson, professor of physics in the University of Chicago, has been awarded the Albert medal of the Royal Society of Arts for 1920, with the approval of the Duke of Connaught, the president, for optical inventions which have rendered possible the reproduction of accurate metric standards and provided the means of carrying out measurements with a minute precision hitherto unobtainable.

Prof. Michelson's contributions to scientific research already have been recognized by the award of the Copley medal of the Royal society and of the Nobel prize for physics both in 1907.

STUDYING HOW TO SOCIALIZE INDUSTRY

STOCKHOLM, July 23.—The new socialist government has appointed a committee to investigate the possibilities of socializing certain lines of industry and weather, if possible, such a step would prove advantageous for consumers and society generally. Premier Branting, Sweden's first socialist premier, emphasized "the necessity that socialization in no manner must result in decreased production."

Premier Branting pointed out that the committee will not deal with the question of systematic socialization of production, this being far from the aim of the present cabinet.

$7.00 Values!
Our low regular selling price was $5.85, plainly stamped on every box!

Imagine How They Will Go At These Tremendous Reductions!

Tomorrow we cap the climax of our series of eye-opening price-smashing sales by offering a huge stock of brand new, perfect regular stock NEWARK shoes for Women at $1.98 and $2.98 every pair of which you can absolutely depend on being worth double and more than the price you pay.

As we pointed out in previous announcements, this is not the usual sort of a Clearance Sale. It goes far beyond that. It is a war-on-high-prices—a tremendous and concerted push made by our 300 and more stores throughout the U. S. A. to lower the high cost of living and forever prevent another such orgy of outrageous prices as you have had to pay.

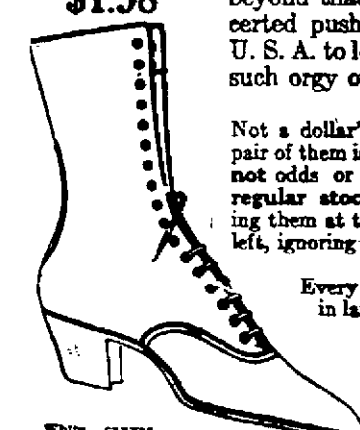

Not a dollar's worth of these shoes was bought for sale purposes. Not a pair of them is other than our own regular stock. And what is more, they are not odds or ends or a lot of broken sizes. We've simply taken our entire regular stock of these shoes, and despite the fact that we have been selling them at the very slimmest possible profit, we've cut the prices right and left, ignoring cost or value.

Every box is printed with our regular price of $3.45 and $5.85 in large letters, so that you know exactly what your saving is on each purchase. Here is your chance. Don't miss it.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

"THE LIRA-LOO BIRD"

This was Oliver Oriole's poem:
The lira-loo bird on a wall-paper tree,
Overhanging a billowy pink and green sea, Fell in love with a cuckoo as white as
new milk
Embroidered on top of a cushion of silk.
And he twitted a roundelay, 'Birdie ba
mine.
Come and live in my nest in my paper-
tree line
And I'll dine you on flies that may come near my wall
And your duties—why, they shall be nothing at all!

But the cuckoo on top of her silky-
soft pillow
Liked the Chinky-Chink bird on a plate
of blue willow
That leaned against the wall on a smooth varnished rail
Near the feathers of lira-loo's handsome long tail.
She she dapped her smooth wings and
she cooed back her answer,
I think I prefer Chinaland or Japan, air.
In an indigo tree near a Chinese pa-
goda
Where people have tea, or some coffee,
or soda.
And I'm sure that I shouldn't like living at all

RECENT DEATH OF "THE RED PRINCE"

BERLIN, July 23.—The death of Prince Heinrich zu Schoenbach-Carolath, known in former court circles as
"the red prince" because of his democratic proclivities, has just occurred.

Deceased earned his appellation by
the determined stand he made against all reactionary legislation, especially
the anti-socialist law of the '80s, for which he was threatened with disciplinary military punishment. First a member of the conservative party, the prince, nevertheless, often gave his vote to progressive and socialist measures and he joined the newly formed democratic league soon after the revolution of 1918. The prince was also well known for his philanthropic

and charitable works.

Teamster's Life Saved

Writes Letter That is Worth Reading
Very Carefully

Peterson Ointment Co., Inc., Buffalo,
N. Y.: I was afflicted with a very severe sore on my leg for years. I am a teamster. I tried all medicines and salves, but without success. I tried doctors, but they failed to cure me.
I couldn't sleep for many nights from pain. Doctors said I could not live for more than two years. Finally Peterson's Ointment was recommended to me
and by its use the sore was entirely healed. Thankfully yours, William Haase, West Park, Ohio, March 22, 1915.
Care P. G. Reitz, Box 139.

"Peterson says: 'I am proud of the above letter and have hundreds of others that tell of wonderful cures of Eczema, Piles and Skin Diseases.'"
Peterson's Ointment is 35 cents a large box at all druggists, and there isn't a broad-minded druggist in Amer-
filled by Peterson Ointment Co., Inc.,

DARE DEATH IN BIG DREDGING PROJECT

NEW YORK, July 23.—Death by drowning or dynamite—these are chief
among the dangers facing the men who are dredging the East river to Long Island sound that New York may have another deep-sea passage to the Atlantic.

How this undertaking, which will require 15 to 20 years and an expenditure of $55,000,000 to $75,000,000 is being carried on was told here today by officials of the dredging company, which is doing the work.

"Most of the work must be done during the slack water period at the change of tides and, as there is generally about 500 to 1000 pounds of dynamite
aboard each drill boat, the danger of being rammed by passing craft
and sent to the bottom is complicated
with the possibility of being blown
into the air," one official said.

"In Hell Gate we are demolishing
Frying Pan reef, which is 450 feet by 360 feet. From eight to ten minutes
will be required to complete this task.
A drill boat is being warped across it
in parallel paths 30 feet apart, drilling
holes into which from 100 to 150
pounds of dynamite is packed and exploded. A dipper dredge, following the drill boat, loads the blasted rock into scows for dumping into holes 75 feet deep or more in the river. This leveling of the river bottom removes the
rent.

"Pot Rock, another reef in Hell Gate, will be destroyed next. Because of treacherous currents for which it is responsible, Pot Rock is known as the wickiest spot in American waters.

"The longest slack water period
registered in Hell Gate during the last 40 years was 23 minutes. It is within that slack period that drilling points
must be located, charges planted and
fired and the position of the plant changed. Divers on this work are generally unable to spend more than 15 minutes under water at a time, so that they work but half an hour in a 24-hour day.

"As a precaution against being rammed by passing craft, the navy department and customs house officials have warned operators and owners of vessels to keep a safe distance from dredging plants. For non-compliance with this warning 85 captains were arrested recently within a period of 10 days. Many were suspended for from 10 days to six months.

"When the collision signal is sounded on one of the dredging vessels, each
of the dynamite crew, wearing life
belts, grabs a box of the explosive and stands by to jump overboard.

"The project of dredging the East river to the sound was first undertaken 40 years ago to provide New York harbor with an entrance which would not require continuous dredging
like Ambrose channel, where five government dredges are constantly removing the infiltrating sands. Flood Rock,
in Hell Gate, was then removed and
some lesser work accomplished before
the appropriation was exhausted."

"When Flood Rock was blasted a charge of 100,000 pounds of dynamite
was fired, the official said. Launches
on the river a mile away were lifted three feet out of the water, but no
damage resulted.

PLAN NEW CHAPEL FOR LAKEVIEW

There is no dearth of enthusiasm
among summer campers and cottagers
over the prospect of the building of the Catholic chapel at Lakeview and
there is a strong feeling that before another June comes around the new building will be in place. One of the prominent workers for the chapel said
today that the support that was coming from all sides was quite encouraging. Rev. Fr. Gilbride is, of course,
vitaly interested in the chapel idea
and has been from the start. He inaugurated the idea of the chapel at Lakeview and his interest is keen to see the plans for the new building
carried through to fruition. Many citizens of the city have voiced their support of the project and one of the organizations of the city has voted to back it up. The musical program at the 10 o'clock mass at the chapel on Sunday will be as usual of a high order of excellence. Singers from all the Catholic churches in the city contribute their time and their talent
each Sunday and Rev. Fr. Gilbride
feels grateful at the encouragement
which has come from the singers.

The program on Sunday will be as follows:
"Ave Maria," Quartet
Hymn to the Sacred Heart,
Miss Sadie Sheehan
"O Salutaris," Miss Sheehan and Miss Hague
"Veni Jesu," Quartet
"Hymn of Praise," Choir and Congregation
Those comprising the quartet are
Miss Florence Hague, soprano; Miss
Sadie Sheehan, contralto; Mr. John Doyle, tenor; Mr. Timothy Finnegan, bass. Miss Leona Spellman will pre-
side at the organ.

POWER FROM THE TIDES

Knowlton's Invention Has

Unlimited Possibilities—

The Purpose and the Plan

Treasurer John A. Knowlton of the Universal Tida Power company, thinks that an allusion to a power producing company in an article published in this paper, July 15, under the heading "Wild-Cat Investments," might be understood as referring to his company. If any such impression was conveyed by the article in question it was certainly not intended; and we wish now to correct it and to say that eminent engineers have pronounced Mr. Knowlton's scheme for harnessing the tides to produce power, light and heat, as entirely feasible.

The invention provides for the filling of a reservoir at high tide, and the use of the water so collected by an ingenious device in producing electricity until the reservoir is refilled by the next tide. By the operation of the Knowlton Hydraulic Air Motor, the operation of the plant is to be absolutely automatic.

Mr. Knowlton some time ago addressed the Lynn chamber of commerce explaining his invention and what he is very confident it will accomplish. At the close of his address, President Desler of the chamber, said: "I believe, gentlemen, without any question whatever, that we will not only be able to harness up the Bay of Fundy, but the tides right here in Lynn. I make the prophecy that within the next five years this process, if not in Lynn harbor, will be in successful operation in some other harbor."

The company is incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts and is at present engaged in the preliminary work of establishing a plant near the mouth of the Saugus river.

Plans for the annual outing of St. Joseph's college alumni are progressing and it is expected that this year's event will surpass any other outing ever conducted by the alumni. It is figured and hoped that the affair this year will be attended by at least four hundred former pupils of the college and an exceptionally good program of sports is being prepared for the occasion.

The outing will be held Thursday afternoon, Aug. 12, on the grounds of the Genoa club in Tyngsboro, the excursionists to leave the school in Merrimack street in automobile trucks at 1 o'clock. Upon reaching the grounds a baseball game will be played between the benedictines and the unmarried men, while other games between the younger element of the alumni will also be staged. Races and other sporting events will be carried out and suitable prizes will be awarded the winners. A feature of the outing will be the annual election of officers, which will be held on the grounds. The arrangements for the event are in charge of the board of directors headed by President Tancredi L. Blanchette.

WANT RETURN GAME

The Saunders' Market company baseball team wishes to play a return game with the Lowell Athletics first team. Members of the team are confident that if a game is arranged that it will prove an interesting contest.

BOSTON, July 22.—Close on the heels of Attorney-General Allen's ruling that women might lawfully be elected delegates to the state conventions of the political parties, seven prominent Back Bay women, two of them physicians, yesterday filed papers with the election commissioners as a part of the republican state of delegates from Ward 7.

The ward is allowed 15 delegates this year, the number based upon the number of votes cast for the republican candidate for governor at last year's primary, and with the seven women yesterday 12 men filed, thus making the Ward 7 republican slate complete.

The filing of the women is without precedent in the political history of Massachusetts. Both parties in Massachusetts have urged their local chairmen throughout the state to have women delegates elected to the conventions and, shortly after, chairmen of both state committees issued statements to this effect the attorney-general made his ruling. As delegates to a convention the women, under Attorney-General Allen's ruling may nominate presidential electors.

The women who filed yesterday follow: Mrs. Persis D. Anderson, 26 Cumberland street; Dr. Lily Owen Burbank, 174 Huntington avenue; Mrs. Marie Dewing Faelton, 215 Huntington avenue; Dr. Carrie I. Felch, Copley square hotel; Mrs. Mary E. Cox, 39 Fenway; Mrs. Josephine Allen Slack, 313-314 Columbus avenue and Mrs. Mary E. Mansfield of 3 Cumberland street.

The 12 men comprising the remainder of the slate are: Guy W. Cox, Charles H. Innes, Alfred P. Lee, Chas. M. W. Williams, Charles T. Bean, Morton J. Dodge, Harry C. Demeter, Robert T. Murray, Charles S. Baxter, Seth P. Arnold, Melvin S. Westover and Charles S. Clarke.

Mrs. Cox is the wife of Lieutenant Governor Channing H. Cox, the republican candidate for governor. Mrs. Mansfield is the wife of Dr. Walter R. Mansfield, who was the chairman of the ward 7 exemption boards during the war. Mrs. Slack is the wife of Henry Slack, the man who carried Massachusetts' vote to President Abraham Lincoln in 1865. Mrs. Slack is 70 years of age but is remarkably vigorous and a suffrage leader of her district. Dr. Felch is the wife of Dr. Louis Felch and is a sister of Charles H. Innes, the acknowledged political leader of Ward 7. Mrs. Faelton is the president of the Professional Women's club of Boston and a member of the B.A.R. Mrs. Anderson is the wife of George Anderson, a member of the old board of aldermen of Boston. Dr. Burbank makes up the second physician on the women's slate.

The women did not occupy the entire attention of the election commissioners yesterday. Two nomination papers for Richard H. Long, democratic candidate for governor, were filed at city hall yesterday by Benjamin Feldman. The filing of these papers came a scant 24 hours after Mr. Long had stated that he would again seek the democratic nomination this year.

John F. Slattery also filed yesterday, an opponent of President John J. Martin of the Exchange Trust company, for the republican nomination to the governor's council from the fourth district. Other candidates to file yesterday were:

David W. Murray, democrat, senate, 5th district and state committee; Osgood E. Blaney, republican, house,

ANNUAL JULY SALE

MEN OF LOWELL—Give ear to this unusual event, with high prices surging over the land, and invading every avenue of trade, I am forced to take heroic action to make this sale the bargain event it has always been in the past nine years.

With the approach of the tailor's dull month of August my problem is to keep my force as busy as possible. With that end in view, I figure to give more for the money than any man can reasonably expect any place in this city.

Whole-heartedly and with firm resolve, I sacrifice profits for this annual event, regardless of Advancing Prices, irrespective of market conditions. This July sale must maintain its past reputation at all costs.

ADVANCE INFORMATION TO MY CUSTOMERSI PREDICT HIGHER PRICES
THIS FALL

The basis of my prediction is this: According to newspaper reports, one of the largest woolen companies (often referred to as the woolen trust) has shut down seventeen of its largest mills. Most of its other mills are operating but three days a week. While I would not dare to insinuate that the company is purposely creating a shortage in order to boost prices, yet you know and I know that such methods are sometimes used. I would not dare to insinuate that woolen magnates have been profiteering because one of their officers was recently acquitted of that charge on the grounds that woolens in the bolt were not among the necessities of life. If, at the main source of supply, prices will be raised, then I, as maker, and you, as consumer, will have to pay more for clothes this fall and winter. There may be a few isolated cases where woolen jobbers who need ready cash may be forced to sell their holdings at a loss. If they do I will be there with ready cash to buy and I will divide my gains with those who patronize me.

HOSPITAL BILL REDUCED
BY ACCIDENT BOARD

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 22.—The Industrial accident board this morning refused to approve a bill presented by a Lowell hospital for the care of an injured man, amounting to $186 and reduced it to $144. This bill was for treatment given William Hagan, who was injured while in the employ of the Walter L. Parker Co. some two months ago. The bill sent to the Travelers' Insurance Co., which company carried insurance on the employees of the plant, specified that the man was confined to the hospital six weeks, during which time he occupied a private room. The board in reducing the bill stated that hospitals throughout the state are making a practice of placing patients, who are protected by insurance companies, in private rooms, where in many instances such cases could be attended to in wards.

SHOE STYLE SHOW

BOSTON, July 22.—More than 14,000 people were attracted last night to Mechanics building, where the annual National Shoe and Leather Exposition and Style Show is being held. Hour after hour beautiful models appeared wearing gowns, hats and shoes which seem certain to make the next season one of the most wonderful in fashion's history.

Satin leads as a fabric for evening slippers, and following in popularity come bronze, suede, metal cloth, soft kid and brocades. The predominant feature this season is the beaded work, which makes the slippers both more beautiful and more costly. Most of it is hand work done in odd designs. Some of the slippers have ribbon ties, some tiny buttons and others just a long plain vamp style. Buckles, too, will be worn a great deal on these gay affairs. Midnight blue, soft grays, rich browns, black and white are the colors one has to select from. They have gay names, too, such as "madsa," "coronation" and "gavotte." Each represents a style all its own.

Soldiers with fixed bayonets patrolled the disturbed streets and many demonstrations which might have led to serious results, were thus interrupted. Looting and smashing of windows prevailed throughout the trouble, spirit, groceries and licensed premises being especially singled out.

Disorder broke out at 5.30 last night on one of the roads leading into the city. Troops were hurried to the scene and fired on the mob, wounding many, who were removed to hospitals or their homes. The crowds reformed quickly, but were charged by the troops and dispersed at 9.30. Reinforcements arrived on the scene and there was a final burst of firing. Ammunitions hurried to the spot from every quarter of the city followed by fire brigades in the belief that the casualty list would be heavy. The soldiers complain that they were fired on from a monastery and allege that Sinn Fein scouts on bicycles engaged in bringing up reinforcements to the monastery.

DUCKWORTH IS JAILED

No Wonder, He Says, People Shudder When They Pass the Vetchaika

Correspondent J. Herbert Duckworth entered Soviet Russia without a permit and travelled independently all over the land of the Bolsheviks—not on a Lenin tour. Lenin finally jailed him and deported him to Estonia—but he had his facts and he is now writing the truth about Russia today for readers of The Sun. Watch for more of Duckworth's articles.

BY J. HERBERT DUCKWORTH, N.E.A. Staff Correspondent. (Copyright, 1920, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

REVAL, Estonia, July 23.—I had not been long in Moscow when I fell into the clutches of the Vetchaika. Rather than be picked up on the streets by an ignorant Red Guard and run the risk of being cast into an obscure and verminous lockup, I decided to report to the extraordinary commission—fondly believing that I should obtain the same fair treatment I did in Pskov.

The world "Vetchaika" has been coined from the initial letters of the Russian for All Russia extraordinary commission.

The Vetchaika is the most dreaded and feared institution in Russia. It directs the terror.

It is the government. But for its activities, both sides agree the revolution would have collapsed long ago.

The Vetchaika is at No. 2 Lubianka, a stone's throw from the outer walls of the Kremlin. The headquarters and the temporary prison occupy two large buildings, one formerly the Hotel Billo and the other the main office of the Anchor Insurance company. The two buildings have been knocked into one.

The main floor of the hotel has been divided into half a dozen small rooms by high board partitions. The place when I entered was full of soldiers guarding the locked doors of the different chambers. A balcony near the ceiling, where the orchestra once played, was jammed with terrified men and crying women, the day's haul of "counter-revolutionists."

When I was in Moscow 60,000 "counter-revolutionists"—mostly working men and women—were in jail. Up till March last at least 60 per cent of the whole population of Moscow had passed through the hands of the extraordinary commission.

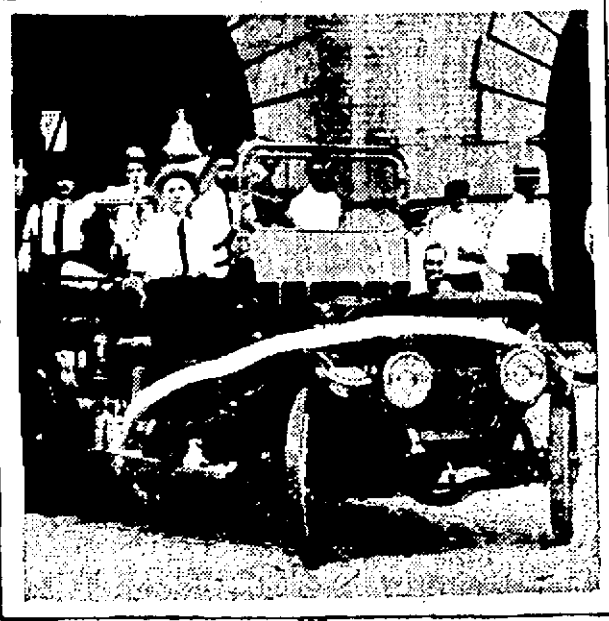

I was taken through a labyrinth of dark passages, up and down a number of stone stairs, along narrow corridors lined with cells and heavily guarded, to the main office.

The Vetchaika runs day and night, but being Sunday few officials were on duty.

Not While Waiting
The man before whom I was taken didn't know quite what to do with me. So while an interpreter was being found I was led down to a large room on the first floor—a Soviet restaurant for Vetchaika employees. The wall decorations were the now familiar revolutionary posters and pictures of Lenin and Trotsky.

We grabbed a wooden bowl and wooden spoon and lined up at a counter for lentil soup and a chunk of black bread.

This we ate sitting on forms before a long wooden bench. As dessert we got kasha (porridge) and a mug of sugary Soviet-style tea (a near tea). The restaurant was full, and rather to my astonishment there were quite a number of long-haired men and short-haired women (I had thought that such freaks existed only in the imagination of the bourgeois cartoonists).

BUSINESS MEN TURN FIREMEN

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—When firemen walked out here, volunteers walked in. Bankers, cotton men, organization presidents, took up the job of protecting Memphis from fire, when, after a long period of agitation, the city's fire fighters offered a blanket resignation. The salaries paid the volunteers are being given to charity. The picture shows the day shift at one station, in command of Ewing Caruthers, director of the Chamber of Commerce, and one of the wealthiest citizens. He was a colonel in the Fourth Tennessee Infantry and in command during the race riots at Knoxville last year. State troops have been called to guard against rioting. Organized labor is in sympathy with the underpaid strikers and there has been some talk of a general strike.

The Chief Griller
At last I was taken before the infamous Mogilefsky, the chief inquisitor.

At one side of the Mogilefsky sat one of the long-haired communists I had seen in the restaurant. At the other side was a hired man, with a short curly red beard and a cruel smile—a grin that displayed teeth and gums like a horse.

I afterwards learned that he was Jacobson, formerly of the czar's secret police, a man with a long and sinister experience on the Russian-Indian frontier. Jacobson spends most of his time hanging around the foreign office. Everybody knows him. A Russian can't disguise himself. A Russian spy, dodging behind pillars and posts with his theatrical side glances, always looks as though he had just jumped out of the movies.

During 1917 thousands of the czar's spies were put to death; those who escaped now work for the Vetchaika. They are trusted; at one breath of suspicion of their loyalty they "disappear."

Mogilefsky himself is not a very nice person. Tall and slim, with black curly hair, he is absolutely merciless. He makes rapid decisions.

He "Plays Safe"
A prisoner "might" be dangerous—then shoot him, that is the safest thing.

Dr. Stella, a bearded old gentleman, who might have been a professor of languages in former days, was the interpreter.

Much the same questions were put to me as in Pskov. Mogilefsky wanted to know how I had got over the frontier without being detected, and whether I had had any confederates in Russia.

There is some advantage in using an interpreter. When your answer doesn't seem to please your inquisitor then politely suggest that perhaps the interpreter misunderstood you and put the reply a different way.

"Friend" Stella
I rather felt I had a friend in Dr.

who has remain in constant terror of the Red Terror.

No wonder the Russian people shudder as they pass the Vetchaika.

POLAND'S SITUATION APPEARS MENACING

LONDON, July 23.—The Polish outlook appears increasingly menacing to commentators in this morning's newspapers. Poland not only is extremely hard pressed by the Bolshevik armies, they say, but her territory is already invaded.

The ministry of Premier Grabski is reported to have resigned and the administration has been entrusted to extreme radicals with the idea, it is said, that such a government would be better able to make terms with the invaders. It is stated that preparations are being made for the evacuation of Warsaw.

Emphasis is laid on the danger to the peace of all Europe by most of the newspapers and the anti-Bolshevik papers see in the Soviet army's advance a determination to destroy Poland. Another fear expressed is that if the Bolsheviks victoriously reach the eastern frontier of Germany, a Spartacist or monarchist rising there would be inevitable, either of which, they say, would be equally fatal to the reconstruction of Europe.

The Daily News, which is not unfriendly to the Bolsheviks, says the seriousness is not less because of the fact that eastern Germany is full of arms and ammunition dumps to be surrendered to the allies.

"These finally will be available for Poland, if she is invaded; but, supposing East Prussia is invaded," asks the newspaper, "is it so certain the Bolsheviks won't get them?"

CHELMSFORD SCHOOL BOARD WANTS TO USE TOWN HALL FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES

A hearing on the petition of the school board of Chelmsford for permission to use the lower town hall in No. Chelmsford for school purposes was held last evening in the Centre town hall with Selectman William E. Belleville acting as presiding officer. U. J. Lupien, of the school board informed those present that the state police would not allow the use of the basement of the high school for classrooms and said if the lower town hall of the north is used for classrooms the seats and desks will be on skids so that they can be easily removed when there is a demand for the room for other purposes. Several others spoke in favor of the petition and at the close of the hearing the sentiment of those present seemed to be in favor of the petition.

REPUBLICAN LEAGUE OUTING

Plans for the Republican league outing, which will be held at Westford July 31 at 1 p. m., were perfected at a recent meeting of the league committee of the town. It is expected that at least 14 towns will be represented at the outing, which will be held on the Whitney playground and no less than 2500 people will be in attendance. Music will be furnished by the Abbot Worsted company brass band and the speakers will include Congressman Rogers of this city, Editor Joe Mitchell Chappell of national headquarters and Capt. David A. McKay. Luncheon will be served by the league's commissary department.

The man who felt worst when a three-inch streak of white paint was found one morning in the middle of the sidewalk at Port Chester, N. Y., flanked at intervals with arrows and the admonition, "Follow the White Line to the Palace theatre," was the manager of the Strand theatre. In front of which the line started. The Palace theatre man, who had the line painted, cheerfully paid a $50 fine.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single bit and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be shiny, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and lock and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.—Adv.

WOMAN'S BEAUTY NO SECRET

It all lies in the care she bestows upon herself and in keeping at bay those dread little peculiar to her sex. The flashing eye, the elastic step and the clear complexion never accompany organic troubles. The distressed expression, lassitude, headaches and mental depression are only the tell-tale symptoms. Women so troubled should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that simple remedy made from roots and herbs, and restore their health to a normal condition.—Adv.

U.S.S. North Dakota, has returned to his ship. Before he left home the young man was tendered a farewell party and was presented a handsome gold signet ring, the gift of his parents. Musical numbers were given and luncheon was served. The festivities were attended by numerous guests from Chelmsford, Lowell, Tyngsboro, Forge Village and Westford.

WILL LAUNCH DRIVE TO RAISE $100,000

The Irish societies of Lowell will launch a drive Aug. 1 to raise $100,000 for the acquisition of a building in centrally located quarters where all the Irish societies of the city may conduct their business.

At a meeting of the Hibernian building fund, Inc., held last evening at the Hibernians' temporary quarters in Urban Hall, Middle street, final plans were discussed and an advisory committee representative of various Irish societies was appointed to bring the matter before their organizations. This committee consists of James O'Sullivan, Michael J. Monahan, P. J. Mahoney, John Barrett, Daniel Cosgrove, Joseph Garvey, Catherine McKenney and Catherine Gaffney.

Chairman Daniel Cosgrove presided at the meeting and urged the necessity of every Hibernian in Lowell purchasing at least one $10 share of the building stock to be sold in the coming campaign if the drive is to be a success. It is planned to sell the stock on an installment-payment plan, calling for the payment of $1 per week on each share bought.

To Women of all Ages

I had always been delicate and weak. After my marriage, I became weaker, and I soon was unable to look after my household duties properly, being so weak that I had to rest several times throughout the day. One of my relatives who had used RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women with very satisfactory results, urged me to try them, and to-day I owe my good health and happiness to their beneficial qualities.—Mrs. William Boucher, 110 Clinton St., Woonsocket, R.I.

After three long months spent in bed, I had to undergo an operation, after which I had to again remain in bed for a very long time, and when I did get up again, I was so weak that I could hardly drag myself along. I tried several tonics without result, and as I was getting rather discouraged at my state of health, I decided to give RED PILLS for Pale and Weak Women a trial. I took them regularly and was delighted with the results obtained.—Mrs. H. Giroux, 12 Decatur, Lowell, Mass.

GET FISH DRUNK TO CATCH THEM

Guam Natives Sink Bags of
"Dopey Paste" in Deepest
Holes

Catch Then Landed With Their Hands—Natives All
Expert Swimmers

The increasing commercial importance of Guam is illustrated in a recent visit of the postmaster of Guam, principal city of our smallest possession, to the United States in behalf of better postal service for the island.

Curious customs and natural resources of Guam are described in a National society bulletin as follows:

"The fruit of a common tree (Barringtonia speciosa), the natives use to stupefy fish.

"The fruit is pounded into a paste, inclosed in a bag, and kept over night. The time of an especially low tide is selected, and bags of the pounded fruit are taken out on the reef next morning and sunk in certain deep holes in the reef. The fish soon appear on the surface, some of them lifeless, others attempting to swim or faintly struggling with their ventral side uppermost. The natives scoop them in their hands, sometimes even diving for them.

"In the mangrove swamps when the tide is low hundreds of little fishes with protruding eyes may be seen hopping about in the mud and climbing among the roots of the Rhizophora and Brugulera. These belong to a group of fishes interesting from the fact that their air bladder has assumed in a measure the function of lungs, enabling the animal to breathe atmospheric air.

"Men, women and children of Guam are expert swimmers, and are as much at ease in the water as on land. As they throw themselves into the sea and come bounding from wave to wave they remind one of dolphins.

"According to the testimony of early writers, their houses were high and neatly made and better constructed than those of any aboriginal race hitherto discovered in the Indies.

"They were a happy, careless people, fond of festivities, dancing, singing, story telling and contests of strength and skill, yet sufficiently industrious to cultivate their fields and garden patches, build excellent houses for their families, braid mats of fine texture and construct canoes which were the admiration of all the early navigators. They were much given to buffoonery, mockery, playing tricks, jesting, mimicry and ridicule, offering in this respect a striking contrast to the unadorned Malaysians.

"The natives of Guam are, as a rule,

of good physique and pleasing appearance. Owing to their mixed blood, their complexion varies from the white of a Caucasian to the brown of a Malay. Most of them have glossy black hair, which is either straight or slightly curly. It is worn short by the men and long by the women, either braided, coiled or dressed after the styles prevailing in Manila.

"The people are essentially agricultural. There are few masters and few servants on the island. As a rule the farms are not too extensive to be cultivated by the family; all the members, even the little children, lend a hand."

ANGEL KISSED THE PANSY BLOSSOM

For heartiness and thoughtfulness the dainty little pansy. The name is derived from the French word "pensee," meaning thoughts.

Called Stepmother

In Germany and Scandinavia, the pansy is called the stepmother. This story grew out of the fact that there are five heart-shaped petals and behind these are five green sepals. The lower petal is the stepmother, who uses two chairs, the two sepals. At either side of her are her daughters, who have each a chair. The upper two petals are the stepdaughters, who have to content themselves with one chair.

In olden times, love philters were made from the juice of the pansy. If it were rubbed on the eyelids of a sleeping person, it would cause them to fall madly in love with the next living being they saw.

Fairies Created Pansy

One night, just before midsummer eve, the fairies gathered to decide what they should do to make the world more beautiful. They created a new flower, taking blue from the sky, varying shades of red from the sunset, yellow from the sunbeams and a warm brown from the earth. They worked all night and in the morning there were pansies all gorgeously colored. An angel, who heard of the beauty of the blossom, gave it her blessing. Then she kissed it and passed on, leaving the impress of her face upon the flower.

Charles Maxey, metre reader for an electric company at Lewiston, picked up on the sidewalk a wallet containing bills and checks to the amount of nearly $5000. It belonged to Mrs. C. M. Blake, who was overjoyed at its prompt recovery.

Wig-Wag Courtship Across 13 Mile Canyon;

Girl Waves "Yes" to Stranger's Proposal

N.E.A. Staff Special

SALE LAKE CITY, Utah, July 23.—

Love messages wig wagged in army code across the 13-mile wide Grand Canyon, Arizona, brought together Miss Mona Patterson of St. Johns, Arizona, and Terrance Heaton of Orderville, Utah, according to the romantic courtship story the two told here recently when they were married in the local Mormon temple.

Neither had seen the other at closer range than the canyon's rim until long after their code messages had spelled out the reciprocal "I love you."

Several months ago, Mrs. Heaton, then Miss Patterson, rode her ranch horse to the brink of the Grand Canyon. On the other side, 13 miles away, was a solitary rider watching her. Following days, she saw him again.

Knowing that if he were a young man of military age, he would understand Uncle Sam's code of wig-wagproportions. She had been a nurse at Camp Kearney, California, and at Preside, San Francisco, during the war. While in that service she had mastered the gauze alphabet.

"Hello," was the first wireless she waved across the canyon in a spirit of adventure.

Heaton rode furiously away and soon returned with flags.

"Hello," he frantically shot back.

"Hello, hello!"

From that day their conversation ripened into serious romance. Mrs. Heaton bashfully acknowledges. The rare, clear atmosphere of the high clear altitudes assisted in their reading each other's dispatches.

On Saturday Heaton waved, "I'm coming to see you." Then he rode north along the rim of the great gorge.

She kept up with him for some distance on her side and then returned home.

He arrived Monday—in time to help his sweetheart's mother with the family wash. His gallop had taken him nearly to the Colorado line so rough a country he had been forced to detour 25 or 30 miles many times. The two decided to avoid such trips, in future by making Orderville, Utah, their joint home.

"When she wig wagged, 'I love you,'

I got so excited, I nearly drove my horse into the gorge—just a drop of a mile," Heaton confessed here after the matrimonial knot was tied.

Heaton acquired his knowledge of wig wagging from Boy Scout lore. He is a scout master in his town of Ordeville where he operates the village merchandise store.

FOR CO-OPERATIVE PAPER PURCHASING

FORT SCOTT, Kan., July 23.—George

W. Marble, editor of the Fort Scott

Tribune, has been in Canada on a mission for Kansas newspapers in an ef-ort to make a deal with Canadian paper mills for co-operative paper buying by the smaller newspapers. He writes that the plan has been received with "warm sympathy" by one of the larger manufacturers. Returning to his visit at this mill, in Ottawa, Ontario, he writes:

"I had a conference with the assistant sales manager and laid before him

our co-operative buying plan of saving the smaller newspapers of the states from extinction. He manifested the same warm sympathy for the publishers of small papers we found in the head offices of other large paper producers. Our plan, he said, was absolutely the best practical way of protecting the smaller papers."

Noting that a young woman walking along the street ahead of her had dropped a purse, a Milwaukee woman called to her and when the young woman turned around was amazed to find that it was her sister, whom she had not seen for 11 years and for whom she had long been searching. She took her sister back home with her and as they reached the flat the young woman said, "Why

I have lived for a year within a block and a half of here."

DANCE HALL

Hospital Sends Letter of Protest to Commission

In accordance with informal notification received by Mayor Perry D. Thompson yesterday, that the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital would be opposed to the granting of a license for the conduct of a dance hall in the Pawtucket boulevard near the municipal bath house, the trustees have sent the following letter to the license commission:

Lowell, Mass., July 21, 1920.
At a meeting of the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital, held this day, the following vote was unanimously passed:

Voted: That the trustees of the Lowell General Hospital oppose in every proper manner the petition for the establishment and operation of a public dance hall on the Pawtucket boulevard in the vicinity of the municipal bath house and the buildings of the Lowell General Hospital.
To the petitioners for a license to conduct the proposed dance hall the

Messrs. Bechard and Lirette, Lowell, Massachusetts:
Gentlemen—The trustees of the Lowell General Hospital regret that they must oppose your petition for a dance hall on the Pawtucket boulevard, because of the very serious threatened disturbance to the patients in the hospital, and because to inform you that the hospital will present its opposition to a license for said dance hall at the public hearing soon to be held.
In the belief that it may be of value to you to be informed of the opposition which it is necessary for the trustees to make to your plans, I am requested to notify you of their intention and to forward to you the enclosed copy of their vote. Very truly yours, HENRY W. BARNES,

Clerk, pro tem.

DEATH IN PARIS OF WM. K. VANDERBILT

PARIS, July 22.—William K. Vanderbilt, American financier, died here yesterday.

Mr. Vanderbilt's death occurred at 6 o'clock last evening. At his bedside were his wife, his daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, his two sons, William K., Jr., and Harold, and Dr. Edmund Gloss, the family physician in Paris.

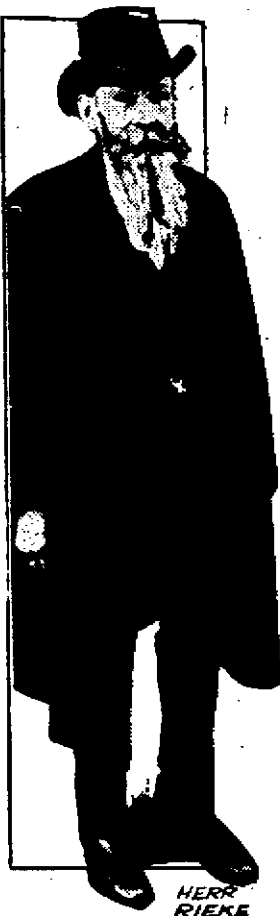

The funeral will be held on Monday next from the American church avenue in the d'Alma. The body later will be taken to the United States, where it will be buried in the family plot on Staten Island.

William Kissam Vanderbilt, son of William H., and grandson of Commodore Vanderbilt, one of the most prominent railroad executives, financiers and sportsmen in the United States, passed much of his time in recent years abroad. The Duke of Marlborough married his only daughter, Consuelo, in 1895.

Mr. Vanderbilt was long a patron of the French turf, of yachting and of automobile racing in the United States. He was the donor of the "Vanderbilt Cup" for which motor speed kings contested a decade or more ago on Long Island. He owned a racing stable at Poissy, France, which he augmented greatly in 1912 by purchasing a number of horses from James R. Keene. Notable among his string of Derby and Grand Prix winners were "Maitenon," "His Prestige," "Northeast," "Negotior" and "Gibelin." Besides having built the Alva, which was sunk, and the Valiant, steam yacht, he was a member of several syndicates organized to build defenders of the America's cup.

During the war, Mr. Vanderbilt was active in hospital work and relief abroad and in promoting the work of the Lafayette Escadrille. On one occasion he contributed $40,000 to the Neully hospital fund and at another time gave $1,000,000 lire toward war relief in Italy. Because of his work for the American aviators in France he was made honorary president of the Lafayette Escadrille and presented the rosette of the Legion of Honor. During the summer of 1919, Mr. Vanderbilt was reported to have presented to his daughter, the Duchess of Marlborough, a gift of $15,000,000.

Mr. Vanderbilt was born on Staten Island, N. Y., Dec. 12, 1842. After receiving an academic education in America, he studied for several years in Geneva, Switzerland. He married Miss Alva Smith of Mobile, Ala. (now Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont) in 1874 and to them were born, beside Consuelo, two other children, William K., Jr., and Harold Vanderbilt. On April 23, 1903, Mr. Vanderbilt married Mrs. A. H. Rutherford, in London, Eng.

Charles Collins of Oak Hill, Litchfield, Me., thinks so much of a white Wyandotte rooster that he encourages him to roost nights on the footboard of his bed and feels him every little while. This is because Mr. Collins was awakened one night by the excited crowing of the rooster, who had somehow got into the house, and found when he got up to investigate that the house was on fire. ## THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Special to The Sun)

STATE HOUSE, Boston, July 22.—The Massachusetts department of the American Legion today gave out the official call for the second annual department convention to be held in the Springfield auditorium on Aug. 27 and 28 next.

The purpose for which the convention will be held follows:

To take action on the question of securing a federal bonus for all service men.

To elect delegates and alternates to the national convention to be held in Cleveland in September.

To elect officers of the department for the ensuing year; these being a commander, a first, second and third vice commander, an adjutant, treasurer, chaplain and historian.

To elect ten department executive committee members, one of whom shall be a woman elected at large.

To elect one member and one alternate to the national executive committee to represent Massachusetts; and to transact such other business as may come before the convention.

The convention will be called to order at 10 a. m. on Friday, the 27th. Prayer will be offered by the Rev. Michael J. O'Connor of Boston, department chaplain and addresses of welcome given by Gov. Coolidge and Mayor Arthur A. Adams of Springfield. The remainder of the day will be taken up with the election of committees.

This preparation for the removal of freckles is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of Othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength Othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.

For district voting the state has been divided as follows:

1, Berkshire, Franklin and Hampshire counties; 2, Hampden; 3, Worcester; 4, Middlesex; 5, Norfolk; 6, Suffolk; 7, Essex; 8, Bristol; 9, Plymouth, Dukes, Barnstable and Nantucket.

The expenses of delegates to, from and at the department convention will be paid by individual posts or individual delegates, in each case as the post itself may dictate.

No reduced railroad rates for the benefit of the delegates attending the department convention will be in force. Each delegation may have as its guests such members of the American Legion and their families as they may wish to accompany them.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

Let Your Sore, Swollen, Aching Feet Spread Out in a Bath of "Tiz"

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, blunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire—Adv.

CANDLE POWER OF ELECTRIC LIGHT

What is the spherical candlepower of the electric light you use in your home, office or factory?

The globe-like apparatus was designed and is in use by the National Bureau of Standards.

Incandescent lamps are mounted from the opposite side of this sphere, when, by closing the sphere door, the lamp is located near the center of the ball. An adjustable opaque screen prevents direct light from reaching the ground glass plate set in the sphere wall, on the side of the ball in line with the photometer shown

Arc lamps and lamps with diffusing globes or reflectors are lowered into the sphere from the top to a proper position for measurement. The interior of the electric-light testing ball is painted white and the ground glass window receives only reflected light from the sphere wall. The miniature ladder, mounted near the top of the sphere, is for closing the opening at the top after introducing the arc or other lamps.

VOLUNTEER WORKERS FOR PLAYGROUNDS

In response to the call issued by the chamber of commerce for volunteer workers on the "playground" streets each evening in the week many members of the women's organizations in the city have offered their services. Besides members of the Women's Catholic league and the Middlesex Women's club several others of the Girls' Community club have volunteered. The response to the call of the chamber of commerce has been very gratifying to William N. Goodell of the chamber of commerce and "father of the street playground" idea.

These volunteers will be assigned to either Howard or Charles street for certain evenings during the week to assist in organizing the children in to play groups and to maintain order. Some young men of the city have also volunteered to be present during the evening to prevent any boisterous play on the part of the older boys.

Those of the Girls' Community club who will work on the playgrounds are the Misses May Hewson, Sadie Melancon, Frances Larkin, Clara Dainton, Hildur Pearson, Annie Egan and Miss Katherine Cronin.

MANUFACTURE OF MUNITIONS IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, July 22.—Upon the report of an Italian munitions expert will depend the decision of the question whether or not the Mexican government is to manufacture its own implements of war.

In case his report causes the military chiefs of the nation to decide to purchase their munitions abroad, the practice of employing buyers in foreign countries will be discontinued and the purchases will be made through the Mexican government's regularly constituted commercial agents, according to the plans of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, secretary of war and marine, as reported by El Universal. Furthermore, effort will be made to find, within the army itself, munitions experts who can be entrusted with the task of judiciously placing the government's orders abroad.

"In Mexico there are all the raw materials necessary for the manufacture of arms," El Universal adds. "There is already on record a case where the carefully conducted manufacture of war material is resulting in notable economy to the country; namely, in the construction of airplane propellers. This work could be extended successfully to the manufacture of all our war materials."

Plum Island lies just off the North Shore, extending for nine miles along the Coast from Ipswich to Newburyport. It is completely surrounded by salt water, being bounded by the Plum Island River, Ipswich Bay, Merrimac Bay and the Atlantic Ocean.

The Island is connected at its northerly end with the town of Newbury, by the Plum Island Turnpike, and a bridge over the River. Electric cars from Market Square, Newburyport, run straight to the Island, and the Company's office. A good dirt road, called Ocean Avenue, leads direct from the Boston State Road to the Island.

Only One White Man in Loo Choo — Famous Lacquer Country

Islands in Line of Ocean Travel, Rarely Visited by Caucasians

Along busy highways of ocean travel, land links between Japan and Formosa, not far from China's coastwise routes, yet visited by only two or three white persons a year—such are the Loo Choo (Luchu or Ryukyu) Islands. "Loo Choo is a land full of the indescribable charm and mystery of the Orient, but replete with the paths of a vanishing race," writes Roy Chapman Andrews to the National Geographic society.

"But, although it has been 40 years since there sounded the death knell of this little kingdom, Loo Choo is not yet Japan. The traveler realizes this even before he lands. The pine-clad, tomb-dotted hills which form the background of the strange little cities of Naha and Shuri have an unfamiliar look and the pretty tiled roofs of the diminutive houses, just visible over the surrounding gray stone walls, give fascinating hints of what may be found beyond their lacquered gateways. On their entire 300 square miles of land only one white man, an American missionary, is resident.

"With our money changed we began to look about to spend it, for Loo Choo is the home of the red lacquerware famous throughout the world. Much of it is exported and the finest of the boxes, bowls, trays, tables, etc., which are in daily use in Japan and China are sold to tourists throughout the Orient, come from the little city of Naha, or Shuri, its neighbor across the hills. The lacquerware, when first made, is a dull brown, but really first pieces improve with age and soon change to a beautiful vermillion, becoming brighter and clearer the longer they are used.

"When we came to buy lacquer we were greatly surprised to find that bargaining had no place in Loo Choo. Without exception, the first price asked for an article was the one for which it was sold. Never in the Orient had we met with a similar condition. "It was interesting to find, also, that the women of Loo Choo conduct all business and have charge of everything pertaining to money—with the single exception of spending it. The market, where in the morning trading for vegetables and fruit is carried on, resembles a suffrage meeting place, for among the crowded mass of humanity not a man is to be seen. "The straight backs and erect carriage of the Loo Choo women are due to the custom of carrying everything upon their heads. No matter what the object, be it large or small, it is perched upon their thick black hair, and off they walk in the most nonchalant manner, apparently paying not the slightest attention to keeping the object in place.

Naha and Shuri are the high stone walls which surround the houses. These walls are generally covered by a small banyan tree, called the gopa maru, growing like a great vine and sending out numberless roots which sometimes reach a hundred feet from the original stem. "These also serve as a hiding place for a snake, a kind of adder, six or seven feet long, which is the curse of the islands. Their bite is generally fatal in a few hours, and many people are killed by them each year."

PLAN PAVILION FOR SALISBURY BEACH

The incorporation of the Salisbury Beach Pavilion company, of which George E. Mongeau, a prominent merchant of this city is president, and Dr. A. J. Gagnon, a dentist of this city, is vice-president, is rapidly nearing completion. The corporation will be capitalized for $150,000 divided into shares of $100 each. Construction on the proposed pavilion will start about the first of October, according to reports.

It is expected that as soon as the present beach season is completed building will start under the direct supervision of the officers of the company. The structure will be located on the site of the Ocean Echo which was burned to the ground during the winter, but will be 100 feet long and somewhat wider than the former pavilion. There will be fifteen bowling alleys, about 300 bath houses in the center, and a dance hall on the north end with more floor space than had the old Echo. All attractions in the pavilion will be run by the constructing company except thirty stores which will be leased. This pavilion will fill the place of the Ocean Echo, the loss of which during the present season at the beach has detracted greatly from the activities and attendance. Besides providing a seaside dance hall it will also provide a balcony out over the beach so that spectators and picnickers may get clear view of the beach north and south.

The other members of the corporation include as officers: Ralph Pratt of Salisbury, president of the Salisbury beach board of trade, manager of a chain of moving picture houses and of the roller coaster and other attractions at the beach; Joseph H. Hardigan, an attorney of Lawrence, connected with the Athletic park corporation. Men serving solely as directors are George E. Tasker, Daniel C. Donovan of Haverhill; Walter Coulson of Lawrence, one of the Salisbury Beach Associates, and Leon S. Wiley of Manchester, N. H., a merchant of the beach.

FOR FAITHFUL SERVICE

George Fairbrother, overseer of the carding department of the Talbot mills in North Billerica, who recently rounded out 50 years as an employee of the corporation, was presented a substantial check by the officials of the company for the faithful service rendered the company during the past half century. Mr. Fairbrother entered the employ of the company in 1870 as a creel tender and worked his way to the position of overseer.

VOICES FROM ACROSS THE ATLANTIC

ST. JOHN, N. F., July 23.—Experts from the Marconi Wireless company, who are here conducting experiments in long distance wireless telephonic communication, announced yesterday that Wednesday they heard messages from the Chelmsford station, near London, more than 2000 miles distant. They said they recognized the voice of Capt. Round, the expert in charge, and identified several words, but failed to pick up any connected sentences. The officials in charge also said they heard faintly messages from the steamer Victoriana which left Liverpool last Tuesday for Sydney, N. S., and Montreal with members of the Imperial Press conference en route to Ottawa. They also said that the steamer Imperator reported hearing signals from their station when 500 miles west of Bishop's Rock.

The station is located on Signal Hill where Marconi received the first transatlantic wireless telegraph message 20 years ago. The Victoriana has been equipped with special apparatus for the experiment and it had been hoped to communicate by wireless telephone with the steamer when half-way across the Atlantic. The experiments are a continuation of a series which, according to Marconi officials, bore promise of early success when interrupted by the war.

KILL BEARS WITH BOW AND ARROWS

BY DR. SEXTON POPE
(America's Foremost Bow and Arrow Expert)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—The great California grizzly bear is extinct, so when the California Academy of Sciences wanted specimens for its habitat group in the museum, it chose the nearest species, the Wyoming grizzly. Permit was obtained from Washington to take these bears in Yellowstone Park.

Arthur Young and I were given the job of securing the specimens, and we proposed to get them with the bow and arrow.

This weapon was used as an experiment in anthropology, to see what it could do; besides it is so great achievement to shoot a grizzly with a high power rifle at one or two hundred yards. To hunt with the bow is better sport and is a fairer contest between the strength and courage of the hunter and that of the quarry. We used seventy-five pound bows and steel headed arrows of our own make.

The bear in Yellowstone are not all tame pets, by any means. The finest specimens stay up in the snow clad mountains. These were the ones we hunted. Those around the camps are mostly black and brown bear. A few grizzlies also visit civilization, but they are still dangerous and shy.

Guided By Bear Hunter

Young and I took with us the best bear hunter and guide in Wyoming, Ned Frost, of Cody, who has killed over three hundred grizzlies. Our party arrived late in May, when the pelt are at their best, and found grizzlies very scarce and very wild.

After much hunting we located four bears up on the head of Alum Creek, eight miles from Yellowstone Canyon. We were three miles away from the game, but by careful maneuvering approached within four hundred yards without disturbing them. We then waited until they stopped feeding, and had gone up to the down on a snow-covered hillside. The wind was in such a direction that we could get a shot over the top of the hill where they lay.

We sharpened our arrows, strung our bows, crept forward and when within twenty-five yards, rose up and looked over the hill crest. There lay the bear. We drew our bows and shot. The two arrows struck at once. Mine drove deep into the chest of one of the bears. Young's arrow struck just below the heart of the old female.

Female Gladly Charges

There was a roar; all the beasts rose at once and began fighting with one another, pawing, biting and roaring. We shot again.

The old female, with bloody froth running from mouth and nose, saw us. Her hair rose on her back; she stopped her mad battling and gathered herself for a charge. As she did so, two arrows buried themselves deep in her body. But she came with a rush. Then Frost's gun went off with a boom at our elbow.

The bear was knocked head over heels and rolled in somersaults down the hill. She tried to rise and get at us again, but her fore leg was broken. We drove two more arrows, feathers and all, clean through her body. She wilted and sprawled out on the snow dead.

Gun Saves Them

The gun had saved us from a mauling, but the arrows had killed her. Her two-year-old cubs were half grown and dangerous antagonists. They had disappeared with the report of the gun. We found the one I had shot dead, with one arrow deep in his lung.

The old female had five arrow wounds in her body, any one of which would have been fatal. Both bears had been mercifully dispatched in less than thirty seconds.

In spite of the unavoidable use of the rifle, we considered this was a good beginning for the bow. Ned, Frost said, "Boys, when you proposed killing grizzly bears with the bow and arrow I thought it a fine sporting proposition, but I had my doubts. Now, I believe you can shoot through and kill the biggest grizzly bear in Wyoming."

In my next story I will tell you how we did that very thing.

FRACTURED COLLAR BONE

Ruth Metier, aged four years and living in Westford, is at the Lowell Corporation hospital suffering from a fracture of the collar bone as a result of an automobile accident, which occurred in Westford Tuesday night. The child, so it is claimed, while playing in the street, ran into the path of an automobile operated by Fred Parks of Chelmsford.

GAIN WEIGHT AND STRENGTH

WITH BITRO-PHOSPHATE ON 3000 GUARANTEED

NEW YORK. If you are feeling run-down, weak, nervous, tired-in-the-morning, and generally ailing, these are the symptoms that should warn you to take care of your health.

Four persons in every ten are needing more phosphorus in their bodies. When you see thin and fretful people, or those who are anemic, pale, frail, off dependent or lacking in energy, you may look for the need of certain elements that make for a strong constitution.

Some people, after relying upon preparations composed chiefly of salts, quinine, drastic drugs, iron, calomel, cod-liver oil, etc., wonder why they find no benefit. That is easily explained by the fact that such persons need the phosphorus element, which is a most potent essential to health, and contained in BITRO-PHOSPHATE, the famous health preparation. Now obtainable everywhere.

The right thing for you to do is make a trial of BITRO-PHOSPHATE beginning at once. It is not a patent medicine; the formula is prescribed by many physicians for the ailments and weaknesses mentioned above.

With every box of BITRO-PHOSPHATE are a few simple health rules and a $300 guarantee. Buy a box of BITRO-PHOSPHATE. It is sold and recommended by A. W. Dows, and all good druggists everywhere.—Adv.

MARIST BROTHERS

ARRIVE IN FRANCE

Word has been received at the home of the Marist Brothers of St. Joseph's college in Moody street to the effect that Rev. Bro. Pierre Vincent, director of the local school; Rev. Bro. Bernardin, director of the Manchester, N. H., college and Rev. Bro. Sylvain, director of one of the New York schools, conducted by the Marist Brothers, have all landed safely in France. The three brothers left Lowell in the early part of July and upon landing on French soil they separated, going to their respective homes.

Rev. Bro. Pierre Vincent of this city had not been in France for six years, while Rev. Bro. Bernardin, who was formerly director of the local school, had not visited his home for the past nine years. Rev. Bro. Sylvain, who at one time taught school in this city, had not visited France for six years. It was also learned today that a few days ago Rev. Bro. Chrysosul, first director of St. Joseph's college in this city, and for the past several years located in Montreal, in company with Rev. Bro. Priscillanus, who succeeded Rev. Bro. Chrysosul as director of the Lowell school and is now located at Quebec, also sailed for their motherland. Rev. Bro. Priscillanus will remain abroad a few months, but it is stated that Rev. Bro. Chrysosul may never return to America, for henceforth he will be connected with the motherhouse of the order in France. Both brothers had planned to visit Lowell before sailing, but it is understood that they were obliged to change their plans at the eleventh hour.

NAVY TO BUILD UP RESERVE FORCE

According to the very latest reports received at the local navy recruiting station, the navy department will immediately endeavor to build up the reserve force both by transferring to active duty and by recruiting. Reserves for enrollment are to be examined and sent to main stations in the same way as other recruits, the only difference being that these men enroll for active service of not less than one year or more than 18 months.

These men are transferred upon enrollment to the same places as other recruits except that there will be no enrollments for trade schools. Naval stations are to make no efforts to get men for the reserve force, the reserve force organization is to do their own recruiting. All new enrollments must be made for four years, but new men who enroll will be placed on inactive duty after serving on active duty for not less than one year or more than 18 months. Recruiting stations will conduct the necessary examinations, complete the enrollment of new reservists and the transfer of enrolled reservists from inactive duty to active duty. All reservists already enrolled, whether confirmed in rating or not will be transferred to receiving ships for general detail. But those men, already enrolled, but not confirmed in rating will be examined upon reporting to the first regular station to which they are assigned in order that the rating they are best qualified to fill may be learned. The law for the enrollment of new reservists and the recall to active duty of reservists already enrolled, provides that it must be done with their own consent. For the 13 naval districts of the country the quota of men to be obtained in this way is 20,000; of this number 20,000 must come from the first naval district, which covers the great part of New England.

FOUND OUTLAW WHISKEY IN CARLISLE

As the result of a raid made last night by Supt. Redmond Welch and Serge. Palmer of the local police force and Frank M. Ford of the federal police, Frank Sousa, a farmer of Carlisle, was arrested before United States Commissioner Hayes in Boston this morning, charged with violating the Volstead act. Supt. Welch acted as a witness for the government in the case.

The federal officer visited this city late yesterday afternoon to follow up a clue on the Carlisle district and secured the co-operation of the local department. The raid was made about 6 o'clock when they found one still in operation and another dismantled. The two stills, one barrel of molasses, 10 barrels of mash and 15 gallons of moonshine were seized. The defendant runs a large farm in Carlisle and owns considerable stock. He was released on bail immediately after being booked at the station last night.

WILL OPEN MILL MONDAY MORNING

President Morrison of the Merrimack woolen mill in Dracut has announced that he will reopen the mill on Monday at the rate of wages offered when the mill closed. Much interest is felt in the decision and it is reported that many of the operatives have expressed willingness to return at the old rate of wages in force before the last increase of 15 per cent as it is to last but a short time.

Mr. Morrison has stated that he will pay just as much as any other mill in the same line of business. Many of the families who worked in this mill for years have been idle since it shut down some weeks ago. They have expressed the opinion that a vacation of two months is more than they can afford.

With a chance of losing on the proposition, Mr. Morrison has stated that he will open up and will offer to provide work for all operatives who may wish to return.

Mr. Morrison made a visit to New York recently and made arrangements with his selling agents to handle goods in the event of the operatives returning to work on Monday and continuing under conditions which were in force before the shut down.

NO PROFITEERING INSPECTOR HERE

The state commission on the necessities of life has not a sufficient appropriation to pay the expenses of a volunteer to investigate alleged cases of profiteering among Lowell retail dealers, according to a letter which Mayor Perry D. Thompson received today from B. P. Scanlon, secretary to John H. Sherburne, chairman of the commission.

It will be remembered that the mayor was requested last week to appoint a local man to do the work specified, but his honor thought some provision should be made to pay the expenses of the volunteer. Evidently, the state authorities cannot see their way clear to do so and there will be no "profiteering inspector" in Lowell as a result.

SAY GIRLS, WE DIDN'T GET AN "INVITE"

One of the events which has been looked forward to with great anticipations in connection with the activities of the Girls' Community club in Billerica is Gentlemen's night, observed this evening.

Miss Katherine Cronin, Miss Dawitt, Lawler and other directors of the club will be on hand to see that everything runs along smoothly. A number of the club members will furnish music for the evening and other entertainment has been provided. Invitations to attend the affair this evening were issued by the club members in the way similar to that employed in the dances.

Dump Beer in Brook

disposition of the beer, he said, would be carried out. He said that no orders had been received up to the time of speaking. He admitted that if orders were received to that effect, the beer might go into the brook today.

Life around the brewing plant appeared to be going on today much the same as in ante-Volstead days. A force of clerks was busy in the office, electric trucks were moving about the yard and smoke was pouring from the chimney of the power plant.

Mr. Hemman stated that the company has entirely ceased production. It is understood, however, that it is necessary to keep the plant in partial operation until the stock of cereal beverage on hand can be disposed of. Mr. Hemman stated this morning that no offers had been received from prospective purchasers of the plant. He said that he had no knowledge of a plan to turn the brewery over to the manufacture of malt sugar, for which there is said to be a ready market, and to the production of which other similar plants have been adapted. Mr. Hemman said that the Harvard company is on the lookout for a customer for the plant. "If you know of one send him along, we should like to talk with him," he added.

Union to Reject Wage Increase Award

CHICAGO, July 23.—Railway union executives left Chicago today following a three-day conference at the conclusion of which it was decided by all of the recognized 15 unions, except one, the Order of Railway Telegraphers, to accept under protest the wage award, seven voting for a referendum of the individual unions.

The telegraphers referred the award to their membership with a strike proposition. The other 15 unions expressed intention of renewing their cases before the board.

It was estimated today by union leaders that the tabulated returns on the referendum vote, would not be made before Sept. 1, when the railroads revert to private ownership.

The acceptance under protest was only finally made in order to obtain for the men on Aug. 1, the back pay from May 1, the union officials said.

The Order of Railway Telegraphers said it felt "that the public interest demands acceptance."

The conductors met again today to take up a new petition asking further consideration in respect to certain rates.

LOWELL GIRL WINS SCHOLARSHIP PRIZE

Miss Lillie S. Cutler of the secretarial staff of the local police department was informed today that upon her had been bestowed an exceptionally high honor by the Foris Law school of Boston of which she has been a student for the past two years. During her second year, which came to a close last June, Miss Cutler led the entire second year class in scholarship, having an average rank in all courses of 97 per cent.

Her record entitles her to a prize offered each year to the second-year student attaining the highest general scholarship average. It is a Cyclopedic Law dictionary given by a publishing firm and known as the Callaghan prize.

Miss Cutler has received the personal congratulations of Arthur W. Maclean, dean of the school. With the exception of 1916 Miss Cutler's rank is the highest attained since the prize was first offered six years ago.

The other departments of the mill are being operated five days a week, while a small portion of the hosiery is running full time.

NEW HIGH RECORD IN EXPORT TRADE

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Exports from the United States during the fiscal year ended June 30, reached a new high record of $8,111,000,000, but as all records for imports also were smashed, the net trade balance in favor of this country was only $2,872,000,000. This compared with a trade balance of slightly more than $4,000,000,000 the year before. The figures were made public today, by the department of commerce.

PRIVATE DEVELOPMENT OF WATERPOWER

WASHINGTON, July 22.—Regulations for the administration of the Federal act opening up the country's vast waterpower resources to private development are now being drafted. As soon as they are completed the waterpower commission, composed of the secretaries of war, interior and agriculture, will hold hearings on them.

The commission, of which Secretary Baker has been appointed chairman by President Wilson, will hold its first meeting immediately upon Secretary Payne's return from Alaska about Aug. 5. The hearings on the regulations will be pushed as speedily as possible so that the waterpower legislation, which has been ten years in the making, can be put into effect without undue delay.

The tentative regulations are being drawn up by a special committee of the war, interior and agricultural departments. It is composed of Major General Enoch H. Crowder, representing the war department; O. C. Merrill, waterpower expert in the forestry service, who has been designated executive secretary of the commission; and H. A. Stabler, of the interior department.

Members of the committee say the regulations will be extensive and that they probably will be announced in series, with opening hearings on each group before they are made final. Those relating to form and condition of application for survey permit or license will be the first announced. The most difficult problem involved in drawing up the regulations, members of the committee say, is that of establishing a uniform system of accounting for licensees as required by the act.

Under a waterpower bill the commission is empowered to issue licenses for a period not exceeding 50 years. The licensees will pay to the government reasonable annual charges in an amount to be fixed by the commission. Upon the expiration of any license the government, if two years' notice in writing has been given by the commission, will have the right to take over and operate any waterpower development after payment of the net investment of the licensee in the project or projects taken, not to exceed the fair value of the property plus such reasonable damages, if any, to property of the licensee as may be caused by the severance therefrom of property taken.

In cases where such notice has not been given the government also will have the right to take over upon mutual agreement with the licensee any property developed under the terms of the bill subject to the payment of the net investment.

RUSH GIRL IS STILL IN DAZE

BOSTON, July 23.—Where 17-year-old Florence Rush of East Boston was taken in the automobile in which she is alleged to have been kidnapped from Revere beach Sunday evening, is still a mystery. The girl, who returned home in a stupor Wednesday afternoon, was in the same serious condition yesterday and last night, and under the care of a physician.

Dr. J. Danforth Taylor, who is attending the girl, stated last evening that the girl was resting comfortably after spending a very bad night, and that within two days or more she may return to her normal condition. A heavy dose of "chloral" he stated, must have been administered the girl.

Some light, however, was shed on the "mystery" last evening, when Gertrude Smith, a chum of the Rush girl, told the story of how they met the six men in the automobile on Beach street, Revere, near the Revere beach parkway.

Invited for a ride along the boulevard at about 5.15 Sunday afternoon, the girls sped along in the machine over the North Shore road into the Revere beach boulevard. Here, according to the Smith girl, "the fellows started to get fresh."

When the machine reached Broadway, the young men in the machine, she stated, asked both girls if they wanted to go to New Bedford. She said she jumped from the machine immediately, and the driver headed his machine in the direction of Everett.

During the trip up to Broadway, Revere, the young man with her was addressed as "Schmidty," and the girl believes she can identify him without hesitation. Two others, also, she feels confident, can be positively identified by her, if she can see them again.

$100 YEARLY FOR WASHINGTON'S HOME

WASHINGTON, July 23.—Every year congress grants $100 for the repair of fences and for cleaning up and maintaining the 10-acre reservation at Wakefield, Va., where George Washington was born.

There is no dwelling on the place, but a monument marks the place of activity of "the father of his country." Wakefield is 110 miles from Washington, and is not often visited because it is not easily accessible. It is a mile and a half from the Potomac and pilgrims going by water must also trudge overland to reach it. Excursion steamers no longer stop, the old government wharf having been partly carried away by ice and floods and never repaired.

COMES HIGH, BUT WE MUST HAVE IT

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The cost of publishing the Congressional Record, the government publication recording daily everything that is said and done in congress, as well as something outside, was $537,640 last year, practically the same as for 1919, but about $300,000 less than the 1917 cost.

These figures were given recently by Russell O. Beene, accountant at the government printing office, in answer to an inquiry of Representative Magee, of New York, as to the possible saving that would result from the discontinuance of the record. Mr. Beene gave the cost for 1917 as $501,790.85 and for 1918 as $537,640.

Cornelius Ford, the public printer, was asked for an explanation of the high figure in 1917, but confessed his ignorance unless it happened that congress "did more talking" that year. Mr. Ford said that in 1917, congress was in session 250 days; in 1918, 307 days and in 1919, 270 days.

The printed pages in the Record for these years were 652,511,264 in 1917; 563,572,357 in the year 1918; and 455,130,450 in 1919. The cost of paper has increased greatly within the past three years, but the use of a lighter and less expensive quality has helped reduce the aggregate cost of the paper used. For 1919, the paper cost was $130,000 as compared with $163,000 in 1918 and $300,000 in 1917.

KING WILL STILL BEFORE THE COURTS

CHICAGO, July 23.—The story of the execution of the disputed second will of James C. King, multimillionaire lumberman, was told in circuit court today by Mrs. Mary C. Melvin, sister of Maude A. King, slain widow of the lumberman. She will be the chief beneficiary if the document is admitted to probate.

Her story follows closely that told before Probate Judge Henry Horner, who declared that the attempt of Mrs. Melvin and Gaston B. Means, discoverer of the alleged will, to have the will probated, was a "fraud."

Mrs. Melvin testified that the will was made in October, 1905, during Mr. King's last illness. She said that she was present as one of the witnesses. The next time she saw the will, she testified, was in 1915, when "Mr. Means showed it to Mrs. King and me." She added that he said he found it "in a cellophane wrapper today, King's private papers."

DECLARES HUSBAND "BUNCOED" HER

BURLINGTON, Vt., July 23.—Mrs. R. Ethel F. Collings of Oxford, Mass., has won her divorce in Chittenden county court from Walter Collings of New Haven, Conn., former lieutenant at Ft. Ethan Allen in this city, where she married him in the fall of 1918, after he had told her of his relatives' wealth and social position. Collings left his bride the day after their wedding and departed for Ft. Silik, Okla., and later she charged in her divorce petition the truth about his money affairs was discovered when she joined him at his father's in New Haven, Conn.

Collings sported a fast car when he was at Ft. Ethan Allen and was supposed to be a wealthy man. He told his bride to go and among other things, she says, that his uncle was head of the Victor Talking Machine company, and his father owner of a hat factory at New Haven. Mrs. Collings testified he had no money and she was forced to leave him.

TO MODERNIZE "BOB" CRUSOE'S CAVE

HONOLULU, T. H., July 23.—Robinson Crusoe's cave may soon be converted into sleeping quarters for globe trotters, according to Prof. W. A. Bryan, vice president of the Hawaiian Historical society. The Chilean government, Mr. Bryan recently said, is considering creating a national park and tourist resort on the island of Juan Fernandez, famed as the abode of Daniel Defoe's literary character.

Modern hotels and other attractions would be erected on the island, according to plans being considered. The

FIND 2000 GALLONS OF MASH IN SWAMP
PROVIDENCE, July 23.—One of the biggest raids in the state since the prohibition law went into effect occurred yesterday when eight prohibition officers, assisted by agents of the departments of justice, forced their way through a dense swamp off the Georville road near Lincoln and captured four of the most complete stills ever confiscated in this vicinity.
With the stills were seized 2000 gallons of mash fit for distillation, a 50-gallon barrel of moonshine whiskey which tested 110 proof, five big boxes of raisins, six boxes of prunes and five barrels of molasses.
The outfit was housed in a newly constructed shack, which is believed to have been built by a syndicate, the existence of which has been suspected for some time. Minor evidence of the completeness of the plant was a water supply estimated at from 10,000 to 15,000 gallons obtained by damming a near-by spring.
When the officials came in sight of the cabin they discovered one man seated on the steps as guard. At the approach of the officers he disappeared in the swamp. Upon entering the shack they found another man. This man was unable to talk English but when taken to the central police station in Providence he gave the name of Jose Pedro Marques.

IN POLICE COURT

John L. Mahoney, who gave his address as Church street, appealed a sentence of six months to the house of correction for larceny, ordered by Judge. Enright in police court, this morning. He was held under $500 bonds.

Mahoney was arrested yesterday afternoon on Sutton street, by Lieut. Maher and Sergt. Dwyer, for the larceny of a dress-suitcase, and its contents of men's furnishings. Mahoney visited a down-town store recently, and checked his own suitcase. After completing business outside, he returned and by some mistake, took another man's suitcase instead of his own. Mahoney declared that he did not realize it was not his until he opened it. Instead of returning the goods, the defendant sold them and did not return for his own suitcase. The police were notified of the loss as soon as the rightful owner of the goods called with his check at the store.

Valentine-Rudolph, charged with assault on his wife, answered to the call of Assistant Clerk Tose in police court, this morning, and was granted a continuance until August 6.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agent

THE STRAND

Nobody can see "Twins of Suffering Creek" at the Strand without asking himself the question, "What would I do if I had but five more days to live?" It is decidedly pertinent, and as one follows William Russell through this vivid story one asks himself the question over and over again. Sessue Hayakawa in "The Devil's Claim" is an interesting study in linguistic mysticism and serenity and the little Japanese artist is really at his level best. Larry Semon in "The Fly" is another feature star of the last half of the week's bill.

Shamrock Has the Edge

seconds count. Both yachts were pronounced by their skippers fit for the marine battle.

An eight knot southwesterly breeze was blowing at 8 o'clock and, with passing to sea of an all-night rain storm, prospects for a race were good. Shortly after 9 o'clock the yachts began hoisting sail.

The wind, blowing up the Jersey shore from the south, southwest, was rapidly driving to sea the fog left by last night's rain storms.

At 9.30 Shamrock slipped her moorings and, taking a hour, started for the starting line an hour earlier than usual.

Sir Thomas Lipton and his friends feel that Shamrock's best chances of capturing the pewter mug lie in today's contest, in which the Irish sloop will have 20 miles of reaching—a point of sailing in which she has shown superiority over Resolute.

Should the American craft win today, the cup boats will meet tomorrow over a 30 mile windward and leeward course, and the chances for Resolute—a witch at windward work—in the final and deciding contest, would be bright indeed.

Resolute dropped her moorings at 10.15 and stood out under own sail. A tug steamed on ahead, however, and later took the defender in tow.

The regatta committee at 12.30 set signals for the following 30 mile triangular course:

A boat to windward from the Ambrose channel lightship, south, south-east down the Jersey shore; a reach east by north, out to sea, and another reach back to the lightship.

By 12.30 the wind had increased to five knots, giving promise of a good race.

The preparatory signal was sounded at 12.45 for a start at 1 p. m. The wind held at about five knots.

With the blowing of the preparatory signal, the two sloops stood away to southward in the light breeze, and when the warning signal was sounded at 12.55 they were 300 yards to wind-

ward of the lightship.

Then they came about and reached for the line with booms to starboard but there was not sufficient air to permit any smart jockeying for the start. The yachts reached fast to eastward of the committee boat and then along the line. They had to kill off time and stood away again to the northward.

Wearing ship, they again stood down the line from west to east. Resolute planted herself squarely on the Shamrock's weather quarter.

The starting signal was blown at 1 p. m. and Resolute crossed at 1.01.32, official time, with the green sloop 22 seconds behind her.

It was Shamrock today that hung back and allowed Resolute to set the pace. Captain Burton of the challenger was very nearly handicapped, having only four seconds to get over the line within the two minutes allowed after the starting signal.

Both yachts crossed on the starboard tack and Resolute at once began to gain. Ten minutes after the start, both tacked to port, with Resolute 200 yards to windward, going quite fast.

Shamrock almost becalmed, (two steam brakes and baby jib repeatedly easing the line. There was a big roll to the sea and the sloops heeled as they moved away, causing them to spill some of the wind from the sail. After Capt. Burton started to let the Shamrock run in order to fore-reach his rival, the challenger appeared for a while as if she was sailing back for the starting line so badly she was thrown off apparently by the shifting wind.

When the two yachts later headed in shore for the Jersey Highlands Resolute gained constantly in the heat to windward. At 1.20 o'clock the American yacht was easily a quarter of a mile ahead.

Working inshore, Resolute pinched out further and further to weather, while Shamrock sought to overcome her rival's advantage by forcereaching. The defender heeled over in the light breeze more than the Lipton boat and showed the same marked advantage in beating to windward in a ground swell with faint airs as she did in previous races.

At 1.25 the wind hauled almost to the south, letting up Resolute and putting her more than a quarter of a mile to windward, where she was almost able to lay her course for the first mark.

At 1.30 the wind, after having increased to eight knots, went back into the south, southwest, making it dead ahead to the first turn with Resolute half a mile to windward, and going faster than Shamrock, which seemed

with the aid of a small baby jib topsail, and was doing better in the breeze which had dropped back to six knots.

Apparently the skippers did not find the wind they expected along the Jersey shore, but they had the advantage of the tide and kept on heading toward Seabright.

Shamrock cut down somewhat her rival's lead on the tack in shore, but at 1.55 the American sloop was still quite a piece to weather.

ASK NEW PRIORITY COAL ORDERS FOR N. E.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—New emergency orders directing priority in the movement of coal to the Atlantic seaboard for trans-shipment to New England, to meet the fuel situation there, were asked of the Interstate commerce commission today by coal operators, dealers and railroad executives.

The order, it was proposed, would require a half score of railroads tapping coal fields in West Virginia, Maryland and Central Pennsylvania to give the right of way to the movement through Hampton Roads, Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

German engineers have estimated that the rivers and lakes of southern Bavaria could be made to produce 200,000 hydro-electric horsepower.

THE SOVIET REPLY

The reply of soviet Russia to the British invitation to a peace conference in London, is quite pointed and in several respects sarcastic. The Russian note refers to the fact that England did not propose any peace conference when Poland was advancing into Russian territory, and charges that ammunition for the enemies whom Russia has been fighting was delivered in British ships, showing that England was in sympathy with one or more of the states making war upon the soviet government.

The note further charges that England has shown designs upon the Crimean peninsula with a view to annexation as a means of projecting India against any movement originating in Russia. For this reason and others indirectly referred to, the soviet declines to send delegates to England as proposed, intimating that in a conference such as proposed, the interests of the belligerent powers might be sacrificed to those of a third party, meaning England, of course.

The Russian attitude in reference to the League of Nations is also of interest, as in this note it is stated that the soviet government has received no communications from the League of Nations and is not officially aware of its existence, holding also that no combination of states has any right to assume the role of masters of the world.

It is distinctly stated that the soviet is ready to make peace with Poland and to offer even better boundary limits than those laid down in the treaty of Versailles; but the one condition is, that Poland must ask for an armistice before it shall be considered by Russia.

The general purport of the reply is, that the settlements to be made will be dictated by Russia and not by England to serve British interests.

This note indicates that there is a new menace to the allied interests in Europe and even in Asia and that henceforth, England may find it difficult to avoid an open rupture with Russia. Should Germany and Russia unite in the near future, they would certainly be able to set at defiance the other European powers unless the latter can secure the assistance of the United States. It can thus be seen how impotent the League of Nations would be as an agency for the preservation of world peace, unless the United States becomes an active member.

MASS. "DOPE" USERS

A scientist, who has made a careful study of narcotics and their effects on the human system, says that the sufferings of persons "afflicted with the disease of morphinism are the most poignant known to mankind." Some people will very likely disagree with the classification of the use of "dope" as a disease. Whether a disease or a habit, it is a terrible one even though it is sometimes contracted, perhaps it often is, as the result of an unstable nervous organization, or a weak will. Once it is started, though, it is apparent to anyone familiar with advanced cases, that no cure is possible without medical treatment and in many cases even that is not effective.

It is somewhat startling, therefore, to learn on the authority of a reliable official of the commonwealth of Massachusetts, that there are at this time more than 50,000 "dope" users in the state. It had been generally supposed that since the passage of the Harrison law, the morphine and cocaine fiends had pretty nearly ceased to exist.

According to the state official above mentioned the dope that is now getting to users comes mainly from "medicine manufacturers" who are able, under existing law, to secure unlimited quantities of narcotic drugs without making any return as to the uses to which they are put. If this is true, the next congress has one line of work clearly cut out for it and that is to see to it that the Harrison law is so amended that the sources of supply to drug-addicts are narrowed to the very closest limits.

PUSHING UP THE H. C. L.

Now that the wage question for railroad men is settled, temporarily, at least, the next move will be to increase freight rates. The railroad want an increase that will

J. E. Weatherly, economic expert of the Department of Justice, figures that approximately nine billion dollars will be added to the cost of living in September, when the increased rates go into effect. He believes that the increase will be magnified about four times when it reaches the consumer, for the reason that every merchant, every middleman, every jobber, every retailer, every purveyor of the necessities of life, will add his percentage of profit to the increase he will have to pay; and he will not be very particular in regard to fractions of a cent. In a vast number of cases the increase laid on the consumer will be double or treble what it is to the vendor and all these extra charges summed up in one whole will vastly exceed the actual increase in freight rates ordered by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Unfortunately that is how it works out in the modern methods of merchandising. The consumer is molested in this manner in a thousand different ways with the result that the cost of living is very much higher than it should be; and yet none of those who add the excessive charges can be accused of profiteering. The margin of profit is not great enough for that; but when there is a general increase, however small, on all the necessities of life, it mounts up to astonishing figures in the aggregate as shown in the expenses of the ultimate consumer.

SENATOR HARDING'S SPEECH

Senator Harding's speech of acceptance was comprehensive but rather tame in its expressions on the various campaign issues. If it is a sample of the senator's ability as a campaigner, the democrats have little to fear from any of his attacks.

Senator Harding is a conservative gentleman, sensible of course, but not endowed with the qualities necessary to a magnetic or successful campaigner. He covered the various issues in a manner that was entirely in accord with the platform adopted at Chicago. On the League of Nations issue, he was evasive, and he was equally so upon the question of prohibition, but he came out quite emphatically in favor of woman suffrage and of fair treatment for the service men who had risked their lives in the cause of the country and humanity.

We do not imagine that the senator has strengthened his candidacy by his acceptance speech.

There was no escort of soldiers to greet General Pershing, when he recently visited Portland, and the reason seems to have been that some of the local army officers were not particularly anxious to set their alarm clocks so that they would get up in time to march a detail over to participate in his welcome.

The death, with his ninetieth birthday almost in sight, of Benjamin A. Kimball of New Hampshire, for many years president of the Concord & Montreal railroad, recalls that he was probably the only man who ever succeeded in forcing a state into taking a hand in tearing up the tracks of a competing rail line.

The English government has issued orders prohibiting all public meetings within three miles of Cork's post-office, which means that two men found conversing within the prohibited limit are liable to be shot down by the military forces. But the British forces are not doing all the shooting in Cork, but they and their unionist backers are doing nearly all of it in Belfast.

The new high school is to have a corner stone with a metallic box in it containing papers and documents relating to the city that will be preserved for the inspection of a distant posterity. We hope no one will suggest putting pictures in it of Lowell streets as they are today.

The prohibitionists, who are to spend two days at Lincoln, Neb., celebrating the demise of John Barleycorn, probably have not heard that the old sinner, who is a good impersonator of John, has recently crossed the border from Canada and is now strolling leisurely about New England.

Harding, having failed in his effort to secure the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the republican state of Vermont, now maneuvers to take credit for himself and party if the democratic state of Tennessee shall supply the last sanction required to give the ballot to the women.

It doesn't seem the best policy in the world to load a considerable part of the cost of increased wages to railroad men onto the charges for transporting milk, the price of which is fast reaching a point where many parents will have to deny it to their children who need it for nourishment.

Some people who have heard nothing but flinching of threatened famines and fuel famines, of nationwide railroad tieups and sugar shortages, are likely to grow pale when they read that workers in the movie industry have gone out on a strike.

The public is far from being in a frame of mind to listen with patience to strike talk by one of the highest paid classes of workers in the country who have had a twenty-one per cent increase added to their incomes.

Come up to northshore coast of Massachusetts, gentlemen of the New York Yacht club, for your next international cup race, and you will undoubtedly find plenty of wind on tap during even the doggiest of dog days.

Farmer Karl M. Perlham of Chelmsford seems to have the right idea in urging that agriculturists from outside Lowell, who desire to sell their produce in the city, shall do so in open competition on the municipal wholesale market.

Bourbonism, that learns nothing and forgets nothing, still rules in the republican camp as the leaders work to gather a campaign fund that, in the words of Governor Cox, "will stagger the sensibilities of the nation."

Senator Lodge, in breaking the news to Senator Harding that he has been nominated for president, spoke of the time "when the authority of government is once more committed to our keeping." That looks to be a long time off, senator.

It is good news that several of Lowell's most efficient postal men are not to be penalized for being 65 years old by being arbitrarily forced to retire from service for which long experience has made them especially fitted.

Movie camera men, filming a negro pugilist, arrested as a fugitive from justice and under court sentence for violation of the Mann act, do not present a picture that it is very pleasant to contemplate.

A metaphysical magazine says "affirm that you are rich and you will be rich." We should like to ask the editor if this kind of treatment would be likely to work with the coal bins next winter.

Senator Harding is in agreement with the expressed opinion of The Sun on one subject—that the vice president should be given a larger share in the direction of the nation's affairs.

It must have surprised John Bull to have his new business ally, the Bolshevik, shake his fist in the old man's face and tell him to "go back and sit down" with his advice about Poland.

Another electric car line to Boston to be discontinued. Well, with such a home city as Lowell, why should anyone wish to go to Boston, anyway?

It is reported that alcohol is to be set to work running motor cars. It is to be hoped that it doesn't tangle up the wheels as it used to tangle the feet.

Author Indignant

The popular author entered the publisher's sanctum, seething with indignation.

"What's this I hear—you want some alterations in my manuscript?" he demanded. "I've made some libelous statements, have I? Where?"

"You have," said the publisher. "Here, on page 39, you say the heroine, who lives in Pittsburgh, clutched the air convulsively."

"Well, what's wrong with that?" demanded the irate writer.

History Jailed

You thought the story of the Pied Piper was just a myth, didn't you? Well, it isn't, for myths do not have dates and this tale has one. It was yesterday—544 years ago. On July 22, 1576, a stranger came into the little city of Hamel, in Brunswick, and told the city council that, for a consideration, he would rid the place of all its rats. The council agreed and he went to bat. Producing a pipe—not the briar-sort—he blew a tune and all the rodents of Hamel followed him to the river Weser, where all were drowned. The council, however, refused to make good. "You have no written contract," they retorted to his pleadings. "And, besides, what are you going to do about it?" "I'll endeavor to make that clear to you in about seven minutes by the town clock," said the Piper, taking out his saxophone and blowing a dulcet jazz. All the boys in Hamel, this time followed him out of town. But one came back, a lame town. But one couldn't keep up. Life said the Piper had led the procession straight into a hill, which had opened for them and closed behind. If you don't believe it, there's the hill today—and the date.

Ship of State

Elbert H. Gray, president of the American Iron and Steel Institute at a meeting held recently in Hotel Commodore, New York city, gave an address on "The Ship of State," concluding as follows:

We have reason to expect, and I firmly believe, that now and henceforth, more than ever before in our history, a spirit of unity will pervade and control the minds of all the citizens from the president down; that each one will recognize a personal responsibility to his country and to all its inhabitants; that strictest economy in expenditures and management, lowest costs, and proper compensation for faithful performance will be the universal sentiment; and that order, stability, advancement and prosperity will surely follow.

"Sail on, O Ship of State! Sail on, O Union, strong and great! Steadfastly with all its fears, With all the hopes of future years, Is hanging breathless on thy fate! We know what Master laid thy keel, What Workmen wrought thy ribs of steel, Who made each mast, and sail, and rope, What anvils rang, what hammers beat, In what forge and what an heat Were shaped the anchors of thy hope! Fear not each sudden sound and shock, 'Tis but the flapping of the sail, And not the falling of the gale! In spite of rocks and tempests' roar, In spite of false lights on the shore, Sail on, nor fear to breast the sea! Our heart, our hopes, are all with thee, Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers, our tears, Our faith triumphant o'er our fears, Are all with thee—are all with thee!"

Old Timers Still Tick

The first American clockmaker was Eli Terry. "If you had been upon a dusty country road in Connecticut about the year 1800 you might have seen a plainly dressed young man come riding with a clock strapped to each side of his saddle and a third fastened crosswise behind him." That was the way Eli Terry sold his clocks, and some of the original clocks are still running in the very farm houses where they have ticked off the minutes of American history; since the days of Adams and Jefferson. Luther Goddard, a Massachusetts preacher, was the first to make watches in America, but foreign competition forced him to retire from the field, and Luther went back to preaching. Then for a time the art languished—to be revived by Edward Howard, born in Hingham in 1813, who was the real founder of the American watch industry. A workman in Howard's factory in Roxbury was P. S. Bartlett, who, when asked what he was doing, said: "I am working for a company which makes seven complete watches a day." Great was the merriment at this reply. "Where on earth could you sell seven watches a day?" they shouted.—Detroit News.

The Sun printed a story yesterday about the line store at Jackson, Me. There are a considerable number of similar stores scattered along the frontier of Canada and the Pine Tree state. The boundaries of the state, on the east and west, most of the way run along straight north and south lines. The lines are marked at frequent intervals by pyramidal cast iron posts with the inscription "Webster-Ashburnham Treaty" and the date of the treaty's ratification on the side. It is easy of course for a person to take his place beside one of the posts with one part of himself in the United States and the other in Canada. What would happen to such a person if the officers of the law of either nation should undertake to arrest him is an interesting problem for both countries in the past have shown a disposition to be extremely jealous of any trespassing upon their sovereignty at the international boundary. When scouts reported officers of New Brunswick approaching the bar would be wheeled into the United States. When Maine officers have into sight it would be trundled into Canada. As far as I was ever able to learn, the officers of the two countries never happened to arrive at the same time. If they had the barkeep very likely might have taken his stand astride the international boundary and defied the officers to divide

"That best portion of a good man's life—His little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love."

So speaks Wordsworth, a master poet. None of these "little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love" are really forgotten. All good men have done acts of kindness which they do not remember, but which have been ineffaceably impressed upon the memories of others. It is through these subtle, pleasing remembrances that one gains the reputation of being kind. Numerous little, unseen acts of kindness would gradually soften the coldest heart, but nothing is so kind as kindness in a child's heart.

Agents Richardson and Gilmore of the Lowell Humane society have come upon many deeds of kindness to animals, but the following incident has many peculiarly interesting touches.

Two youngsters, about six or seven years old, bred like real Americans and marked and smeared with dirt from playing real American games, walked into the Humane society office recently.

"Is this the 'human' society, mister?" inquired one of the boys of Agent Richardson who was seated at his desk.

"Yes, my boy, what do you want?" queried Mr. Richardson interestedly. "Well, we found this little bird in the street," chimed the two, "and it couldn't fly."

For the first time, Agent Richardson noticed that one of the youngsters held a tiny sparrow, twitching and peeping out from between his hollowed palms. He examined it and found that its leg was broken and that it was hurt otherwise, possibly by an automobile. On talking with the boys, he found that they had walked about two miles to bring the bird to his office and one of them had held it in his hand carefully and kindly the entire distance. After encouraging the little ones and pleasing them with some little rewards, Mr. Richardson assured them that the bird would receive the best of care. Its injuries were so serious that it had to be killed.

The particularly interesting phase of the incident is that the little fellows seemed to constitute themselves the protectors of sparrows, for only a few days elapsed before they appeared at the office the second time with another little sparrow.

They told the same story; that they had come nearly two miles and had found the bird on the street unable to fly. This time the sparrow was not injured so severely, so Agent Richardson told the boys to let it go among some bushes.

Not long after they left the office they were back again to say that they released it on the banks of the Concord river and that after a little while it flew away. The lads then went away satisfied that the kindness and carresses and warmth from their hands had cured the sparrow. They traveled homeward feeling like real Samaritans.

So speaks Pope, but judging from the above incident and many others which the agents of the Humane society have witnessed, Pope's theory may be a bit awry. Would anyone doubt that kindness or love had moved the hearts of those little fellows?

BOBBIE RIDES WAVES ON A "FISH"

Dad may talk of the "big one that got away," but Bobbie "caught" his fish and hangs on to it. The fighter Bobbie hangs the better he'll get along in the wild waves at the sea shore. Bobbie's big fish is made from Baka wood—lighter even than cork. It makes a fine surf board, riding like a bubble on the ocean. Bobbie's 4 years old, but it doesn't make him tired to carry the big fish on dry land, and it doesn't seem to make the fish tired to carry Bobbie in the brine.

him. In winter "line stores" bob up all along the St. John river that forms the northern boundary of Maine. Shanties are torn down on the ice, that usually forms early in November, and booze flows freely until the following May. Smuggling operations are also greatly facilitated by the line stores all along the boundary.

I note that a writer in one of the Lawrence papers has a complaint to make against service between that city and Canobie lake given by the Massachusetts Northeastern Railway company. He says the service to the resort "is fairly good on week days, but on Sundays and holidays it is far below what it should be." Perhaps this is true, as far as Lawrence is concerned, but looking at the matter from the Lowell end, I should say that just the reverse applied to service between this city and Canobie. On "Sundays and holidays it is fairly frequent and there is little changing of cars. On week days, however, there are innumerable waits at turnouts and at Pelham, one must get out of one car, wait 15 or 20 minutes, and then board another to finish the trip. This applies to both the outbound and inbound trips. The fare to Canobie, at one time only 15 cents, has been boosted away beyond that figure. It is practically impossible to obtain any information about the running time of the cars in Lowell because the company maintains no office here.

THE HAGUE, July 22.—The jurists' conference today by a final vote unanimously agreed to the entire project of the high court of international justice. The project will be sent to the council of the League of Nations with an explanatory memorandum which the conference is drafting.

CRAZED INMATE SHOT

Insane Patient at Bridgewater
Killed in Battle With
Prison Guards

BRIDGEWATER, July 23.—Lloyd Kingdon, a negro, 45 years old, an inmate of the insane department at the state farm, was shot and killed by Joseph F. Pollen, an officer at the institution, during a riot yesterday among insane prisoners. Three attendants were injured, one seriously. They are:

Edwin S. Kingsley, officer in charge of the ward where insane patients are kept, who suffered a compound fracture of the right arm caused by being struck with a piece of iron pipe in the hands of one of the rioting prisoners, and six knife wounds in body. One of the knife wounds was inflicted just above the heart, one in the right hip, another in the right arm and three in the left arm. He was first treated by Dr. Pierce Leavitt of Brookton, who happened to be at the hospital. His condition is serious.

William H. Journaler, who had his hip slashed open and a knife wound in abdomen.

Charles P. Bolles, who had a cut one and a half inches deep over his right hip.

The two latter are being treated at

The disturbance happened about 3 o'clock, as the prisoners were being led out into the recreation yard following their dinner. About 30 men were in the line drawn up in pairs. The three injured officers were in front of the men, with Officer Fred A. Shattuck bringing up the rear.

Shattuck turned to look the door leading from the cell room into the main corridor. As he did so Kingdon and another prisoner, known as Antonio Blarest, 46 years old, a negro, the third couple from the rear of the line, turned from the corridor, ran down a flight of stairs and jumped at the attendant, threw him against the wall, grabbed his keys and started on a run toward the cell room, where they intended, the officials believe, to release the rest of the prisoners.

Kingsley, Journaler and Bolles, however, sprang at the madmen and blocked their path. Journaler was the first to be reached by the two men, one of whom plunged a knife into his hip and slashed his mouth. The attendant fell, blood pouring from his wounds.

Officer Shattuck by this time had sounded a riot alarm to the prison department on the other side of the institution, and Kingdon and Blarest had made their way to the top of the stairs leading to the cell room, where several violently insane prisoners were confined.

Several officers from another part of the institution, headed by Joseph F. Pollen, a police officer at the farm for 25 years, who was armed with a riot gun, rushed to the assistance of their brother officers. Pollen met Kingdon at the top of the stairway. The latter then turned and started to run down the stairs. Officer Pollen noticed that the negro was armed with a piece of iron pipe in one hand and a large bottle in the other and being aware that he was considered to be the most dangerous man at the farm, took no chances, and fired.

The negro crumbled and then started to crawl back up the stairway. Blarest, who had remained at the top, went to the assistance of his fellow prisoner and dragged him to the cell usually occupied by Kingdon, shutting the door after him. As they reached the interior of the cell, Kingdon collapsed. It was not known at that time whether Blarest was armed. Waiting for a minute or two after the two men had reached the cell, the officers went to the door and with revolvers leveled through the bars, called upon Blarest to open the door and surrender. He complied and when the officers reached Kingdon inside the cell he was dead.

A search of the dead man's clothing revealed two razors and a knife. The piece of iron pipe and bottle which he carried in his hands when he was shot were found lying beside his body. A razor and a knife were also found on Blarest. The officials of the institution say that the knives were ordinary table knives ground down to a dagger point.

GREEK KING LANDS
ON TURKISH SOIL

RODOSTO, European Turkey, July 22 (By Associated Press).—King Alexander of Greece with his staff landed at Rodosto this afternoon after the disembarkation of Greek troops. He was received with wildest enthusiasm by the local Greeks, headed by the bishop. Girls strewed flowers before the monarch, who went to the cathedral, where a Te Deum was sung. The bishop expressed joy that a Greek king had set foot for the first time on Turkish territory at Rodosto.

The Turks had only five big guns on the hills surrounding the town. Consequently the Greek battleships Averoff and Kilkis, the two British battleships and two British dreadnoughts, which appeared off the town early this morning, landed only a few shells over the batteries before the Turkish soldiers and civilians became panicky and fled.

Armenians and Greeks began plundering the Turkish shops, but were speedily checked by two regiments of Greek troops which disembarked from the transports under command of Col. Condallis. Many of the looters were ordered arrested.

FIVE ESCAPE FROM MAINE
INSANE HOSPITAL

AUGUSTA, Me., July 23.—The local company of the national guard was called out late yesterday afternoon to help in the hunt for five men, two of them murderers, who escaped shortly after noon from the criminal insane department of the Augusta state hospital.

The soldiers, summoned by the militia call of eight blasts—a signal that had not been heard in this city for many years—were helped in their search by all the available members of the police department and by parties of citizens. The dragnet was quickly spread throughout the terrorized city and in the suburbs, and two of the fugitives, Thomas J. Mulkern of Portland, said to be the most dangerous of the five, and George Lancaster of Skowhegan, were captured.

The five inmates escaped by overpowering two of the attendants at the hospital, locking them in a room and taking their keys. The struggle made by the attendants was heard by another employee at the institution, and he came running to learn the cause of the commotion. He intercepted the escaping men as they were on their way through the hall toward a door leading to the hospital yard. He was seized, round and tossed into the room where his fellow-workers were imprisoned. The convicts then quickly scaled a fence and disappeared.

AUGUSTA, Me., July 23.—Three of the five men who escaped from the criminal insane department of the Augusta state hospital after locking three attendants into a room late yesterday were still at liberty today.

ONE KILLED IN

KEZAR FALLS, Me., July 23.—Herbert S. Doe, aged about 37, was killed by lightning during an electrical storm which passed over western Maine early today, accompanied by heavy rain. He was struck by a bolt while closing a window. Two of the other seven occupants of the farmhouse, situated near Stevens' corner, were stunned.

Beds were splintered, and a fire felled but it was extinguished without causing much additional damage.

RAID I.W.W. QUARTERS
VALPARAISO, July 22.—A raid by the police on what is said to have been I.W.W. headquarters was made today. Twenty-seven persons were arrested and anarchistic literature and a large quantity of arms and explosives were seized.

It's Easy Now to Curl
Hair to Stay Curled

To curl the hair to stay curled, nothing equals the simple salmerine method. It is a little liquid salmerine is applied with a clean tooth brush before going up the hair, the loveliest wavy effect imaginable will be in evidence in three hours, and this will last a long time, regardless of temperature or humidity.

This hairless method is not to be compared with curling by means of a hot iron because, instead of injuring the hair, it is really beneficial. A few ounces of liquid salmerine, which may be procured at any drug store, will last for months. The best way is to divide the hair into strands and moisten each of them from root to tip. The curlsness will look perfectly "natural," and the hair will be beautifully glossy, yet without the least heaviness or stickiness.—Adv.

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

THE Standard Oil Company of New York was a pioneer in the oil refining industry. It has made petroleum history by constantly improving the quality of its products, and by discovering and developing new ones.

Socony products and service have kept pace with every step of progress made in the petroleum industry—and with every requirement of those who depend upon it in any way.

As a result, Socony gasoline today represents half a century of refining experience. It is truly the standard of quality motor fuels. Socony stations are ever increasing in number because motorists are demanding more and more, a uniformly clean and powerful gasoline, easily obtainable.

Because Socony is always uniform, it always gives full mileage with low carbonization. And this is true whether you buy it in Bar Harbor or Buffalo. The economy of a permanent carburetor adjustment is possible only when you can obtain your regular gasoline whenever you need it. Socony service enables Socony users to do this.

For complete motoring satisfaction, begin using Socony regularly today.

Look for the red, white and blue Socony sign.

ONCE A COOLIE NOW RULER OVER CHINESE

BY JACK MASON,
Manager, Far Eastern Bureau, N.E.A.
TIENTSIN, China, July 22.—One of the most picturesque figures in all China is Yang Yi-teh (pronounced "Yong-a-tur").

Formerly rich, he rules his district like an autocrat, with a highly efficient private army, and meanwhile

GEN. YANG I. TE

spends large sums educating thousands of Chinese boys and girls.

Twenty years ago he was a coolie, working on the railroad, with nothing but his shirt on his back. Somehow, by devious ways and strong character, he raised himself to a position where he is respected, or feared, as the case may warrant, by all Chinese.

Military despot of all the country surrounding Tientsin, he compels respect also from the Japanese.

But education, of which he had none, is his hobby. He has turned the police buildings in Tientsin into schools, where "his boys" are taught. All wear uniforms bought by Yang Yi-teh. Recently he reviewed one batch of them—over 1000 manly young chaps, who would have grown up in ignorance except for his help.

Where he gets his money is a mystery, not to be closely investigated. He spends it liberally.

For instance, when his mother-in-law died two years ago, Yang Yi-teh gave her "the finest funeral ever held in China," costing $30,000!

HARDING'S STAND ON LEAGUE OF NATIONS

MARION, O., July 22.—Senator Harding's stand on the League of Nations, outlined yesterday in his speech formally accepting the republican nomination for the presidency, was expected today by his managers here to furnish the chief bone of contention during the next state of the political campaign.

Democratic demands that the candidate make a more specific exposition of details of the proposed "understanding" are fully expected here, and the senator's friends declare he will be ready to answer. In that connection they singled out today one paragraph in the acceptance speech as indicating what trend his reply might follow.

"If men call for more specific details," he said, "I remind them that moral commitments are broad and all-inclusive, and we are contemplating peoples in the concord of humanity's advancement. From our own viewpoint the program is specifically American and

For the immediate future, however, the feeling here is that the fight should be left to develop along natural lines.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

By Theatres' Own Press Agent

If you like a good, stirring, vigorous picture of action without any of the vulgarity that sometimes accompanies such productions, don't fail to see "The Fourteenth Man," the vehicle in which Robert Warwick is being starred at the Merrimack Square theatre on the current program. The story provides a goodly mixture of romance and adventure, punctuated with thrills and dramatic suspense. Another entertaining feature is Billie Burke in "Away Goes Prudence," an exceptionally funny story of a modern girl's adventure. A comedy, the International News and a Burton Holmes travel picture round out the bill.

AWARD TO GIBBONS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 22.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul captured Clay Turner of New York, in a 10-round, no decision bout here last night, according to newspapers. The men are light heavyweights.

DECORATE GRAVE OF FR. JOHN DE VALLES

PALL RIVER, July 22.—Tribute to the memory of the Rev. John B. De Valles, heroic war chaplain of the 101st regiment, who died in New Bedford, was paid yesterday on behalf of the Portuguese government by Capt. Jose Manoel De Carvalho, commander of the cruiser Sao Gabriel, now in port here. Simple, but impressive, the ceremonies included the erection on the grave of the chaplain of a gold shield inscribed with a permanent record of the occasion.

The Rev. Fr. De Valles, who was Portuguese by nationality, and who even before the war commanded the good wishes of his fellow countrymen in many American cities for signal services in their behalf, left as one result of his tireless efforts in France a national reputation in his native country. Few figures in the war received more solemn tribute in Portugal than that of the Rev. Fr. De Valles, whose name is today a tradition in both military and ecclesiastical circles in Lisbon, officers of the Sao Gabriel say. It was at the instance of Capt. Carvalho, and with the support of his fellow officers, that effort was made to leave behind them a lasting evidence of the respect of the Portuguese people and a formal recognition by the government of that republic.

WATCH SERVANTS IN BLACKMAILING PLOT

PROVIDENCE, July 22.—Threats not only against the life of Mrs. Mary D. A. Sayles, but also against her grandson, Paul Coe Nicholson, heir to the Sayles and Nicholson millions, are now said to have been contained in the blackmailing letters recently received by the Pawtucket widow. The Nicholson boy is but two years old and as friends of the family today expressed it, "his grandfather's idol."

The fact that Mrs. Sayles' love for the boy was played upon by the blackmailers leads the police and detectives employed on the case to believe the letters were written by someone thoroughly familiar with the family life of the wealthy widow. A careful watch of servants of the two families is therefore being kept and the present whereabouts of former servants who have been discharged is being investigated.

GIDEONS SHOW UNUSUAL GROWTH

ST. LOUIS, July 22.—The greatest membership growth in a decade was made by the Gideons during the past year, according to the report of J. C. Bennett of Chicago, national field secretary, submitted at the 21st annual convention of the organization here today.

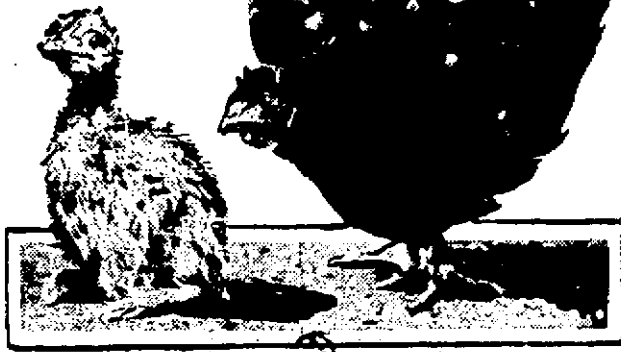

The organization now has 4000 active and 4500 associate members, it is said.

SACRIFICES BOTH HANDS TO SCIENCE

PARIS—The most precious thing in the world—radium—has cost Charles Inffroit, scientist here, his left hand and his right arm and he wants artificial arms now to continue his research. Inffroit is head of the nitrate works and his experiments with radium are among the most valuable in science. During the war he devised a "compass" to locate splinters of bullets in the skull and was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor. He lost his right arm first and then several fingers of his left hand and finally the whole hand, never hesitating at the sacrifice he was making for science.

NORTHAMPTON WILL GROW NEXT TUESDAY

NORTHAMPTON, July 22.—Preparations are being made for at least 50,000 visitors to this city next Tuesday, in connection with the notification of Governor Coolidge. The streets and business blocks of the city are already lavishly trimmed with flags and bunting. Committees of citizens are making arrangements for the transportation, feeding and housing of the guests. The Boston and Maine railroad has promised extra equipment on all the regular trains, with special sections if necessary, to care for emergency travel on Tuesday. The Northampton band and Colt's band of Hartford, will play Tuesday morning, and in the afternoon, the 10th Infantry band will play at the Allen field, where the ceremonies are to be held, and will give a concert in the evening.

Looks Like Good Crops

that the home garden production will be large enough to put much of a dent in high prices. Retail prices for potatoes now average somewhere about $1.15 per peck. This is said to be nearly double the price a year ago. The first very early potatoes from near-by farms are due to appear in the local markets in about ten days. These will be of the old and well-liked early rose variety. For about a month the supply from near-by sources is likely to be limited as it will be near the first of September before the main potato crop begins to get into shape for marketing. The man who has a fondness for green corn eaten from the ear is likely to have to pay dear for his favorite food this year. The acreage planted is said to be considerably short of that of last year. This, it is claimed, is due largely to the shortage of farm labor. The first ears of early sweet corn are scheduled to make their appearance in the local markets in about 10 days. No one seems to be ready to predict what the first ears will cost, but farmers would not be surprised if the early price was 60 cents for a dozen, or an advance of 10 or 15 cents over last year's prices.

Goodbye to Strawberries

The last strawberries have been picked from local beds and the fruit is now practically out of the market in so far as Lowell is concerned. A large quantity of fruit is shipped into Boston every year from Nova Scotia, but only a very small quantity of this finds its way to this city. The local crop this year was reasonably abundant and the farmers, jingling the coin received from strawberry sales in their pockets, are not expressing any fault with the prices that they obtained.

Blueberries are reasonably plentiful in the markets and there is said to be a bumper crop on the bushes around Lowell. The difficulty is to find anyone to pick it in marketable quantities. A large part of the blueberry supply for the local market comes from New Hampshire. There is said to be an unusually large crop on the bushes in the Granite State.

New Hampshire, is also troubled with a shortage of people who are willing to go into the woods and pastures and gather the fruit. Before the war four cents a quart was considered a good price for picking blueberries. Now ten cents a quart is being offered for the same work with few people responding to the call for help. Blueberries are selling at retail for 30 to 40 cents a quart.

Raspberries are Here

Raspberries are now on sale in the local markets at 35 cents a box. Considerable quantities of Hudson river berries are brought into Boston, and some of the local dealers have taken some shipments of the fruit and been able to offer it at 25 cents a box. The quality of the fruit is so uncertain, however, that the local dealers are not enthusiastic about handling it.

The home-grown supply of raspberries is more limited this season than for a number of years. Successful raspberry culture requires that new bushes should be set out to come into bearing every third year. Owing to the shortage of labor growers have neglected to replenish their beds with new bushes, and as a consequence most of the fruit that is now being harvested is gleaned from plants that would ordinarily be considered to have reached the limit of their productive capacity. Native raspberries can be bought in the markets for 35 cents a box. A cheering feature of the fruit crop situation is that the early apple crop promises to be an unusually large one. To counteract this good news the farmers say the late apple crop is quite certain to be small.

Fewer Winter Apples

The prospect of a smaller crop of winter apples is ascribed to the fact that bumper crops have been harvested during the last three years and the trees are now taking a rest.

The quantity of peaches reaching Lowell is about the same as in former years despite the announcement that was made awhile ago that there was to be a shortage in the Connecticut crop due to the injury done to the trees during the winter. The peaches that have thus far reached the local market are said not to have been up to the quality mark of previous years. They can be bought in the local fruit stores as low as 25 cents per dozen.

Cucumbers are in at least normal supply. Local markets charge about 15 cents apiece for them, but hucksters have been offering them in the streets of Lowell this week at the rate of eight for 25 cents.

Tomato vines give promise of bearing liberally, cabbage patches are looking good, as are also plots given over to turnips, beets and parsnips.

It is the farmer with a surplus of hay to sell that is the happiest member of the agricultural fraternity just now. There has been a more than usually abundant crop, and such green hay as is being offered finds a ready market at $50 a ton.

AUTO-TALK

is changing from a normal size to an oversize tire, don't forget to change the speedometer gear if you want to have an accurate speedometer. The rule to follow is, the number of teeth in the large speedometer gear, the one attached to the wheel, should be twice the diameter of the tire in inches. That is, a 32 by 3 1/2 tire should have a 64-toothed gear, while a 34 by 4 tire should have a gear with 68 teeth.

Caution of Wobbly Wheels
Wobbly wheels cause the tires to wear twice as fast as they should. The wheels, therefore, should be watched constantly and tightened up as soon as they show a sign of wobble. Worn bearings might cause looseness in the rear wheels, and the front wheels wobble because of play in the bearings, spindle bushings or steering connecting rod bushings. Detachable rims not firmly bolted to the wheels may also cause trouble.

Keep Hands in Reckoning
If drivers would keep their heads with them when their machines skid, there would be less skidding accidents. Remember to steer in the direction of the skid at the same instant. Better control will result if the brakes are applied gradually on and off.

Statistics figure that the population of the various countries of the world average 110 women to every 100 men.

The Polynesian believe that the moon at its waning is devoured by the spirits of the dead.

SAYS MORE PAY FATAL TO ROAD

Gives Lowell District's Deficit for Eight Months as $70,574

BOSTON, July 23.—Wage concessions to the employees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway, in the road's present straitened financial condition, will result in disintegration, probably complete suspension of the system's service, Homer Loring, chairman of the public trustees, yesterday told the arbitration board considering the employees' demands at the state house.

Under the present wage agreement the system is operating at a loss to such an extent that the management is now considering further abandonment of profitable lines, he stated.

During the year ending June 1, he informed Chairman Ogden, neutral member of the board, the company passed the payment of interest on bonds and dividends on stock to the amount of approximately $3,000,000. Furthermore a deferred mortgage payment of unpaid bond interest amounting to $461,623 and a penalty of $92,325 must be made in December, with the prospects of meeting this obligation dubious, he said.

Loring spent the whole day on the stand and described the company's financial status exhaustively, plotted in his testimony by Attorney Henry F. Huriburt, counsel for the road.

Since the receivership went into effect in 1918, he said, 151 miles of lines had been discontinued out of the system of approximately 900 miles.

He said he doubted if the trustees would be able to avoid discontinuing further lines. Those dropped had not paid, some of them never in the history of the road, he said, and their elimination was a gradually effected and carefully studied program.

Many lines were continued for months with the company taking substantial losses in the effort to maintain service for the public, he stated, but when the equipment became useless through wear the lines were finally dropped instead of built up. The company's treasury could not stand the strain of carrying the burden, he asserted.

Ten of the important divisions were operated at a deficit during the eight months period ending last April, Loring supplying the following figures to the board: Chelsea, $273,313; Lynn, $138,606; Quincy, $275,411; Brockton, $135,245; Lawrence, $112,351; Hyde Park, $98,833; Taunton, $56,637; Lowell, $70,574; Salem, $119,369, and the Hingham-Hull section, $3307.

Eliminating two of the most expensive concessions sought by the men the demands still call for additional expenditures of $4,563,050, an amount that the trustees will find impossible to raise, he said.

Many communities wherein the road operated lines at a loss assisted the company financially out of the tax levy, he stated. The men in those sections

POLISH LINE NOW HOLDING FAIRLY FIRM

WARSAW, July 22.—The Polish line today still ran to the east of Grodno, it is announced in the official communiqué. The Polish front was holding immediately south of Pripet and in Polesia, but further south a breach in the line effected by Bolsheviki cavalry is reported.

It is believed that the Poles should be willing to work for less money until the system is on its feet financially, Loring said the trustees believed.

As to the demand for an eight-hour day Loring said the road must be run on the present nine-hour basis if it is to be run at all. If the demand for time and a half for Sundays and holidays is granted, he said, it would automatically result in the suspension of Sunday and holiday service over large sections of the system. Eight months of the year the Sunday and holiday traffic is small and yields no profitable revenue, he declared.

RECORD NUMBER ## OF ENLISTMENTS

The local navy recruiting station is rounding out a record number of enlistments this week. Chief Joseph Crepeau, in charge of the office hopes to boast of 17 recruits by tomorrow noon.

This morning, Chief Crepeau, as guardian of his nephew, John M. Webb, sent him to Boston as an apprentice seaman for the minority cruise. Crepeau said that he thought that life in the navy would be a fitting one for young Webb who has been living with him at his home in Lakeview for some years past. Webb's first term enlistment will expire when he becomes 21 years old.

The other recruit, likewise an apprentice seaman for the minority cruise, forwarded to Boston this morning, was James Hyland, of 75 Union street, this city.

Bon Marche Wall Paper Dept.

An extract taken from an article entitled "The Outlook for the New Season," printed in "The Decorative Furnisher."

In spite of the fact that conditions in the wall paper field are certainly peculiar and trying at the present time there are, none the less, a number of factors which portend good and favorable business in the season to come.

It is perhaps generally known that the greatest difficulty of the wall paper manufacturer at the present time is the difficulty of securing raw materials. Or perhaps this condition is not as thoroughly understood as it should be. Suffice then to say that the raw stock upon which wall papers are printed comes, more or less, under the classification of newsprint paper. Newsprint paper just now, because of the exceptional demand made for it by all newspapers throughout the world, has risen rapidly in price until it has now reached an almost exorbitant figure. In fact, newsprint paper, which three or four years ago sold for 3 1/2 a pound, is now listed by many companies as high as 18c a pound.

Realizing these facts, therefore, it is easy to understand why wall paper manufacturers are not able to get all their raw stock for printing which they require and, at the same time, why they are obliged to pay an excessive premium for the little they do obtain. Realize for a moment that an ordinary roll of wall paper weighs as much as several pounds in certain cases. Multiply this weight by anywhere from 10c to 15c a pound, and the dealer can understand why wall paper is bound to be high in price, not to take into consideration the cost of designs, blocks, colors, production and distribution charges.

But let the high cost of materials, supplies, labor and manufacturing stand aside for a discussion of the brighter aspects of the case.

With a knowledge of what supplies and materials are costing him today, the wall paper manufacturer in the future, will see to it that the quality of his product is raised all along the line. In other words, he will not feel like asking a high price for a cheap looking paper; but he will have no scruples in asking a high, fair price for a good looking, artistic paper. The dealer, therefore, while he will be asked to pay higher prices for papers in the season to come, will really get "value received," and more, for this new price.

For as the quality of the goods he orders ascends the scale, so will his clients be more satisfied and his business develop accordingly. Wall papers in the past were too frequently looked upon as nothing more or less than cheap PAPER. In the future, the item of paper will be more or less overlooked and wall paper will be merchandised by the dealer and purchased by the public as a thing of artistic merit and decorative value.

We print the above to show our customers what is what for the coming year. As yet we have a good stock bought at prices nearly 50 per cent. under the prevailing prices. These patterns were chosen from the entire offerings of a dozen of the largest Wall Paper factories—chosen only after three months of the hardest kind of work on the part of three experienced Wall Paper men. Every pattern was chosen for some particular need and all have "Artistic Merit and Decorative Value" such as can be obtained only when one thoroughly understands local conditions and needs.

Here you can find just the paper most suited to your needs. Our salespeople fully understand the uses of each pattern and are always glad to offer you helpful hints.
